Bloody Battle For Vientiane In Second Day

Pro And Anti-Reds In Seesaw Fight For Laos Capital

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—The seesaw battle for this Laotian capital focused Wednesday on the center of the city, where anti-Communist forces tried to dislodge a mixed pro-Communist force.

Troops loyal to Gen. Phoumi Nosavan advanced from the northern section of the city against stiff resistance put up by paratroops and pro-Communist Pathet Lao guerrillas commanded by Capt. Kong Le.

One of the focal points of the fighting was the area around army headquarters and the Ministry of Defense. Kong Le's men, identified by their red armbands, put up heavy mortar and machine gun fire against armored cars and infantry wearing white arm bands.

Army Headquarters Afire

Early in the afternoon army headquarters burst into flame.

It was the second day of battle that followed a night of confusion and scattered gunfire during which Kong Le's pro-Communist forces retook the center of the city. They had lost it Tuesday afternoon.

Phoumi's rightists launched their assault on the city by attacking from a base outside Vientiane. While fighting centered on the downtown area, Phoumi's men held a large section of the city's north and eastern sections.

In this second day, intensive fighting continued and neither side seemed to have a decisive advantage.

Many Reported Killed

There was no immediate estimate of the number of casualties, but no foreigners were reported killed or wounded. Official broadcasts mentioned only many killed or wounded.

Phoumi and top aides flew into the battle zone by helicopter.

There were indications that the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization, which aligns the United States with pro-Western countries of Southeast Asia, might be brought into play in Laos. Some leaders in member countries were raising the possibility.

The battle over Laos began last Aug. 9 when Kong Le, a Communist-oriented paratroop commander, led an overthrow of the pro-Western government.

Moonshot Try Reset For Today

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Space scientists hope to try again Thursday to launch an instrument-packed spacecraft toward an intended orbit around the moon.

The effort was postponed early Wednesday after the countdown on the Atlas-Able carrier rocket moved to within seven minutes of the scheduled liftoff time. The National Aeronautics and Space Administration blamed technical difficulties.

If successful, the spacecraft, called Pioneer VI, will become the first lunar satellite.

Wednesday was the second day of a five-day period in which the moon is in a favorable position for the launching. If the rocket isn't fired by Saturday, the shot will be postponed until the next optimum period starting Jan. 9.

Cradled in the nose of the 98-foot Atlas-Able is a 388-pound payload designed to make extensive study of the moon's environment. It is crammed with sensitive electronic devices to gather and transmit data on radiation, magnetic fields, micrometeorites and other space properties.

Poage In Line For Secretary Of Agriculture

CABINET JOB?—Rep. W. R. Poage, D-Tex., was reported under consideration yesterday for the secretary of agriculture post. President-elect John Kennedy was quoted as saying he is considering appointing Rep. Poage to the Cabinet job. (AP Photofax)

Congressman From Texas May Get Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. W. R. Poage, a Texan with nearly a quarter of a century of experience in farm legislation, is being considered by President - elect John F. Kennedy for secretary of agriculture, a Kennedy caller said Wednesday.

The day didn't produce any additional Cabinet announcements. But Kennedy's press secretary, Pierre Salinger, tipped reporters to expect some Thursday, probably at least two of the remaining five.

One of Poage's fellow Texans, Rep. Albert Thomas, told newsmen that Kennedy likes Poage "very much and he is giving the matter consideration."

Job Has Been Hotspot

It was obvious that Thomas brought up Poage's name, which has figured with many others in speculation about whom Kennedy finally will tap to head the Agriculture Department. It's a job which has been something of a hotspot.

Thomas was at least the second Democratic House member to recommend Poage, who hails from Waco. Also a Democrat, Poage, 60, was elected to the House in 1936 and has risen to second place on the Democratic side of the House Agriculture Committee.

Rep. Harold C. Cooley of North Carolina, chairman of that committee, put in a good word for Poage while meeting with Kennedy at his Georgetown home Tuesday.

Goldberg May Get Labor Post

With half of his 10-member Cabinet squared away, Kennedy is casting about for people to fill the remaining five posts—secretaries of the Agriculture, Treasury and Labor departments, attorney general and postmaster general.

Kennedy chatted briefly with newsmen and was asked about prospects for the next announcement of a Cabinet appointment.

"We won't have any today," he replied.

Earlier there had been speculation that Kennedy might announce the selection of a secretary of the Labor Department — a post for which Arthur Goldberg, general counsel of the United Steelworkers Union, has been prominently mentioned.

U.N. Urges End To Colonialism; U.S. Abstains

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United Nations called Wednesday for an end to colonialism.

The United States abstained on the vote but its only Negro delegate, Zelma Watson George, stood and joined in applause at the General Assembly's action.

This was a spontaneous gesture of personal support for the resolution by Mrs. George, a Cleveland social worker and educator.

"I am glad I did it," she said later. "I felt it was an obligation. I thought about crawling under the table, but instead when the time came I just stood up and applauded."

She disclosed she had tried to get President Eisenhower's backing for the proposal.

The assembly first rejected Soviet Premier Khrushchev's insistence that the assembly demand freedom forthwith, as he put it, for all colonial peoples. Then the assembly went on to approve a milder, more general resolution sponsored by 43 Asian-African members.

The vote was 89-0, with eight other nations joining the United States in abstention.

Mrs. George said she tried to call President Eisenhower Tuesday in an effort to put the United States back of the declaration. She was not able to reach the President himself, but "did get an answer." She indicated she learned that orders already had been given to the U.S. delegation to abstain.

"After all, it was Mr. Eisenhower who appointed me and I felt I should tell him my views," she added. "After all, I am much closer to the situation than he is."

"There is no one on the entire delegation who would have supported the abstention," she added. "I am not sure that even Mr. Wadsworth would have done so."

Illinois Votes Go To Kennedy

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—The Republican-dominated state Electoral Board Wednesday unanimously certified President-elect John F. Kennedy's 27 Illinois electors after hearing—and dismissing for lack of sufficient evidence—GOP charges of vote fraud in Chicago.

Outgoing Gov. William G. Stratton, board chairman, summed up the attitude of the five-member board by declaring that insufficient evidence was offered to justify withholding the Democratic electoral votes.

Stratton said he would not have hesitated to refuse to certify the official vote canvass on a "showing of overwhelming evidence of fraud."

But he added: "I don't feel this showing has been made today."

Tenant Farmer Snatched From Death In Cavein

HOLLY SPRINGS, Miss. (AP)—A tenant farmer trapped by a cistern cavein was snatched from almost certain death Wednesday by 20 hours of daring rescue work.

Harry Miller, 44, spent most of that time buried to the chin, surrounded by sandy walls so treacherous a careless touch could have set off heavy slides.

At one point during the night the big, calm Negro was completely buried for 35 minutes. But an oxygen tube had been lowered down the 20-foot-deep cistern to his mouth. It saved his life.

Rescue crews finally got a rope around his body after sinking a trench that angled to the bottom of the hole.

The rescue workers risked being buried alive by crumbling sand that defied the makeshift timber shoring along the walls. Three times they almost got him clear, only to be balked by fresh caveins.

"I never gave up hope," mumbled Miller as physicians packed hot water bottles around him and wrapped him in blankets. "They did get me out. If it was not for all those peoples the whites and the colored . . . they and God saved me."

The rescue operation engaged nearly every man for miles around—white and Negro. Hundreds of silent watchers, including Miller's wife and five children, surrounded the flood-lit area through the night. Bonfires roared against the 22-degree cold.

French Riot Forces Fire On Moslems

Death Toll Mounts To 126 In Algerian Nationalist Outbreak

ALGIERS (AP) — French riot forces used guns, tear gas and roaring concussion grenades Wednesday to turn back swarms of Moslems in the seaport of Bone and around the ancient Casbah of Algiers.

Three Moslems were killed and an undetermined number wounded when police in Bone opened fire on 2,000 Moslems who turned a funeral procession, for comrades killed in Tuesday's rioting, into a screaming nationalist demonstration. This brought to 126 the number killed in rioting since last Sunday.

In Algiers, scores of persons were wounded and hundreds arrested in a tough official crackdown on those responsible for violence or threatening more.

Rioters Call For Abbas

The demonstrators in Algiers shouted "This is the insurrection!" and called for the elevation to power of exiled rebel Premier Fehrat Abbas. Those in Bone waved rebel flags.

Abbas rejects President Charles de Gaulle's self-rule policy for Algeria and demands immediate independence. He is in neighboring Tunis. De Gaulle has just ended a five-day tour of Algeria trying to win over Moslems and hostile French settlers alike.

Whipped up by nationalist demonstrations within the old mysterious Casbah quarter, Moslem mobs several times tried to form near the district which has been cordoned off since Sunday.

Late Wednesday afternoon several hundred angry Moslems tried to get a full-scale demonstration going.

Grenades Scatter Mob

Steel-helmeted forces charged in with tear gas grenades and big concussion grenades. The Moslems scattered.

After a night and day of wild demonstration inside the native quarter, the Moslems first tried to march on the worker district of Bab-el-Oued a mile away. As this news reached European workers there, many took to their windows, holding pistols and hunting rifles.

Moslems from nearby quarters joined in the march and then the soldiers fired volleys into the ground. The mob, scattered wildly up side streets.

Belgian Ruler's Bachelorhood Will End Today

BRUSSELS (AP)—A shy Spanish aristocrat becomes queen of the Belgians Thursday and ends the bachelorhood of King Baudouin, 30, long the "most eligible" among Europe's royalty.

Deeply in love and showing it, Baudouin and Dona Fabiola de Mora y Aragon, two years his senior, attended a wedding eve dinner given by the Belgian government.

There Prime Minister Gaston Eyskens told the bride: "The people have spoken, and they already have taken you to their hearts as their queen."

Dona Fabiola flashed him a gentle smile of thanks.

Turning to the king, Eyskens said: "May the king's new happiness blossom into a new happiness for Belgium."

The wedding will be in two services.

By law the first will be civil and brief.

Then, as quickly as a royal car can carry them to St. Gudule's church, they'll go through the majestic matrimonial rite of the Roman Catholic Church. According to their strictly religious upbringing, then and only then, will they be man and wife.

Mother, Six Children Die In Blazing Home

ENOLA, Pa. (UPI) — A coal-burning living room furnace overheated and set a wooden farm home ablaze early Wednesday, killing a mother and six of her nine young children.

The husband and father, Neff Walker Jr., 35, a construction worker, carried two of his sons to safety. A daughter, Martha, 12, and a boarder who did odd jobs for the family, Carol Cramer, 17, jumped out of a second story window and survived.

Schoolgirl Thwarts Kidnaper

Hazel Irene Oelrich, 17, poses with her family yesterday after escaping from a kidnaper near her home at Sultan, Wash. The girl, a high school senior, said she escaped in the kidnaper's car. Girl Kidnaped At Knife-Point Tells Of Escape

SULTAN, Wash. (AP) — A stocky, blonde teen-age girl described Wednesday how a shabbily dressed man kidnaped her at knife-point as she prepared to leave for school and held her for 90 minutes before she escaped.

Her banker father received a telephoned demand for $25,000 ransom and deposited $2,000 of it in a telephone booth at a service station. It never was picked up.

FBI agents, sheriff's officers and police had found no trace of the kidnaper. The girl, Hazel Irene Oelrich, 17, was not harmed. She said she fled in the kidnap car after her abductor left her alone in it.

The high school senior, wearing a brown skirt, flat-heeled shoes and a blue sweater, said she was at home alone when the middle-aged, graying man knocked at the door.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Oelrich, had left a few minutes earlier for the Sultan branch of the First National Bank of Everett, where they both work. Oelrich is manager of the branch in this community of 821 population, 30 miles east of Everett.

The man asked for her father, Hazel said, and she told him her father had left. Then the man asked if he could leave a note. She went to get a piece of paper and he followed her.

"Then he said he would leave something with me and reached inside his jacket," she said. "He pulled out a hunting knife about 6 inches long and told me to come with him."

They got into an old green two-door car.

"He forced me to lie on the floor until we were outside the Sultan town limits," the girl said.

When they reached Monroe, seven miles west of Sultan, she said, her abductor stopped at a service station and forced her to call her father. During the call the man told Oelrich he wanted $25,000.

Then the man told her to drive to the outskirts of Everett, 20 miles west of Monroe, while he followed in a other car. She said she obeyed because he told her father would be "snatched" if she didn't.

But when she saw no automobile following her she turned around and drove toward home. She stopped in Monroe to telephone her father that she had escaped.

Ike Aide, Clothing Manufacturer Dies

CHICAGO (AP) — Meyer Kestnbaum, 64, president of Hart Schaffner & Marx, clothing manufacturers, and a special assistant to President Eisenhower, collapsed and died of an apparent heart attack in his office Wednesday.

President Eisenhower appointed Kestnbaum chairman of the Commission of Intergovernmental Relations in 1954. In 1955, Kestnbaum was named special assistant to the President on organization and business management of the executive branch of the federal government. He also served as board chairman of the Committee for Economic Development.

Air Force Bomber Flies 10,000 Miles Without Refueling

LOS ANGELES (AP) —"We have just proved that American bombers can hit Russia with nuclear payloads and either fly home or go on to safe territory."

This statement was made Wednesday by Lt. Col. Thomas R. Grissom shortly after his B52G Stratofortress set a world record of 10,000 miles without refueling.

Grissom, 36, of Cory, Ind., flew here after landing early Wednesday at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif., following a 19-hour, 45-minute flight over American territory.

The eight-jet B52G, advanced version of the B52 that serves as a mother ship for the drop-launched X15 rocket plane, can carry a nuclear bomb and two Hound Dog missiles.

Neither was aboard on the record flight, but Grissom said the plane could have carried them easily.

"We probably would have done even better if we had carried Hound Dogs," he said. "The Hound Dogs' jet engines would have given us extra thrust."

Grissom said he had fuel for another 1,000 miles when he landed.

Average speed for the flight was more than 500 miles per hour, he said. The B52G is capable of 650 miles per hour—just under the speed of sound.

Its Hound Dog missiles, armed with nuclear warheads, have a range of more than 500 miles at supersonic speed after being launched from the bomber.

Lt. Gen. Archie J. Old Jr., head of the 15th Air Force, said the flight was evidence of the Strategic Air Command's ability to operate on a global basis.

"The B52G combined with the Hound Dog is one of the most formidable weapons ever designed," Gen. Old said. "This record flight demonstrates the versatility of the nation's manned bomber force and its ability to strike any enemy target any time from anywhere on the globe."

The Boeing Stratofortress took off at 7:07 a.m. Tuesday from Edwards Air Force Base, and flew a closed-circuit course to El Paso, Tex., Andrews AFB, Md., Harmon Air Base, Newfoundland; Fairbanks, Alaska; Philip, S.D., and back to Edwards AFB, Calif.

The Air Force said previous closed-circuit distance records were set by a B29 propeller-driven bomber which flew 8,854 miles in August 1947, and a jet-powered B52D which flew 6,233 miles in September 1958.

U.S. Complaint Charges Negro Voter Reprisals

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Justice Department asked Wednesday for a court order to halt economic reprisals it said are being taken against some 400 Negroes in Fayette County, Tenn., because they registered and voted in the November election.

Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers announced the request for an injunction was filed in U. S. District Court in Memphis.

The complaint listed 10 examples of what it called economic reprisals against Negroes by some 82 defendants.

Among other things, eviction of Negro tenant farmers is charged.

Named as defendants were more than 45 landowners, more than 24 merchants and one bank which the complaint said had intimidated, coerced and exercised economic discrimination against Negroes who registered and voted.

This is the third complaint filed in Tennessee under the 1957 Civil Rights Act.

The other two complaints involved eviction notices requiring some 300 Negroes to vacate premises in Haywood County, Tenn.

Rogers said Wednesday's court action seeks to stop the eviction of Fayette County Negro tenant farmers on Jan. 1.

NATO Might Station European Troops In U.S.

PARIS (AP)—Military and political leaders of the North Atlantic Alliance Wednesday considered the advisability of stationing West German and other European troops on U. S. soil.

Informants said such an arrangement might help halt the drain on U. S. gold and dollar reserves and give Western Europe's confined armies enough room to train with modern weapons.

This startling suggestion was one of a number of economic proposals given careful study by NATO diplomats gathering here for their annual review opening Friday. All were aimed primarily at the same thing—trimming West Germany's swelling currency surplus and getting gold and dollars flowing back again into the United States.

One idea was dropped. Secretary of the Treasury Robert B. Anderson gave up trying to get a $600-million-a-year cash handout from Bonn to help support U. S. troops stationed in West Germany.

Instead, he and Economic Minister Ludwig Erhard of West Germany considered a number of alternative plans.

These included freer entry of American goods into West Germany, a larger contribution by Bonn to the costly communications and supply system of the Western Alliance and the boosting of West German purchases of U. S. military equipment.

The American dollar problem took the center of the stage at the start of a week of intense Western diplomatic negotiations in Paris.

New Reform Government Proclaimed

Bloodless Ethiopia Coup Staged During Emperor's Absence

CAIRO, Egypt (AP)—A bloodless palace guard coup—joined by military forces and headed by the roly-poly eldest son of Emperor Haile Selassie—clamped a new social reform government on Ethiopia Wednesday. Iron military rule prevailed in Addis Ababa, the capital.

The almost legendary "King of Kings"—a fateful figure of modern times—himself was thousands of miles away on a state visit to Brazil, and his future role at home was not defined. Reports from Brazil indicated Selassie was preparing to leave by air Wednesday night.

The avowed aim of the regime proclaimed by Crown Prince Asfa Wassan, 44, in a broadcast from the East African highland capital is to reform social customs dating from pre-Christian times.

It would end what the prince called "3,000 years of injustice."

Addis Ababa Quiet

The modern-minded prince of the ancient realm thus apparently took a firm step in his father's absence to put Ethiopia on the track of nationalism and socialism prevalent in neighboring Egypt and Sudan and other emerging African powers.

Reports from Sudan said Addis Ababa remained tranquil through the transition and there was no bloodshed; the sole purpose was to remove the emperor and replace him with his son, according to these reports.

Selassie had been both chief of state and head of government with the Council of Ministers directly responsible to him.

The new regime is under strict military control for the present, reports from Addis Ababa said.

The Sudan News Agency in Khartoum reported from Addis Ababa that the Eethopian army and police had combined with the palace group.

It said the coup began at 6 a.m. and two hours later the crown prince announced his forces were in control of all strategic points.

Both Heroes To People

The agency quoted Wassan as saying that his father, the emperor, on many occassions had expressed his readiness to cooperate with Ethiopian nationalist organizations and to assume the rights and duties of an ordinary citizen.

Both the crown prince and the old emperor are heroes to the stalwart Ethiopians who survived Italian Fascist invasion and expanded their realm after the war.

Because of his record in the fight against the Italians, Prince Wassan is held in high regard by the army. He is particularly admired by the imperial palace bodyguards.

When the Italians invaded, Mussolini tried to persuade Wassan to become a puppet ruler. Wassan refused, joining his father in exile. They returned in 1941.

Wassan has not the build of the popular hero ideal. He is short, plump, fun-loving and a modernist.

He apparently picked up a few Western ideas as a student at universities in Liverpool and Bristol, England, and wants to apply some of them to his 20 million people.

Congo Issue Heads For U.N. Assembly

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The United Nations headed Wednesday for a full airing of the Congo crisis before the 99-nation General Assembly after an East-West deadlock prevented the Security Council from taking any action.

A weekend of sharp debate was in prospect for U.N. diplomats struggling to wind up pressing business before the Christmas recess next Tuesday.

A drama-packed meeting of the 11-nation council ended in an impasse early Wednesday. The Soviet Union cast a veto—its 92nd—of a Western resolution directing Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold to continue his efforts to restore peace in the Congo. The council rejected a Soviet demand for the immediate release of deposed Congo Premier Patrice Lumumba.

The General Assembly set Friday for the start of its Congo debate. Yugoslavia and India asked for an urgent meeting, but ran into objections from other U. N. members.

French Riot Forces Fire On Moslems

Death Toll Mounts To 126 In Algerian Nationalist Outbreak

ALGIERS (AP) — French riot forces used guns, tear gas and roaring concussion grenades Wednesday to turn back swarms of Moslems in the seaport of Bone and around the ancient Casbah of Algiers.

Three Moslems were killed and an undetermined number wounded when police in Bone opened fire on 2,000 Moslems who turned a funeral procession, for comrades killed in Tuesday's rioting, into a screaming nationalist demonstration. This brought to 126 the number killed in rioting since last Sunday.

In Algiers, scores of persons were wounded and hundreds arrested in a tough official crackdown on those responsible for violence or threatening more.

Rioters Call For Abbas

The demonstrators in Algiers shouted "This is the insurrection!" and called for the elevation to power of exiled rebel Premier Fehrat Abbas. Those in Bone waved rebel flags.

Abbas rejects President Charles de Gaulle's self-rule policy for Algeria and demands immediate independence. He is in neighboring Tunis. De Gaulle has just ended a five-day tour of Algeria trying to win over Moslems and hostile French settlers alike.

Whipped up by nationalist demonstrations within the old mysterious Casbah quarter, Moslem mobs several times tried to form near the district which has been cordoned off since Sunday.

Late Wednesday afternoon several hundred angry Moslems tried to get a full-scale demonstration going.

Grenades Scatter Mob

Steel-helmeted forces charged in with tear gas grenades and big concussion grenades. The Moslems scattered.

After a night and day of wild demonstration inside the native quarter, the Moslems first tried to march on the worker district of Bab-el-Oued a mile away. As this news reached European workers there, many took to their windows, holding pistols and hunting rifles.

Moslems from nearby quarters joined in the march and then the soldiers fired volleys into the ground. The mob, scattered wildly up side streets.

Belgian Ruler's Bachelorhood Will End Today

BRUSSELS (AP)—A shy Spanish aristocrat becomes queen of the Belgians Thursday and ends the bachelorhood of King Baudouin, 30, long the "most eligible" among Europe's royalty.

Deeply in love and showing it, Baudouin and Dona Fabiola de Mora y Aragon, two years his senior, attended a wedding eve dinner given by the Belgian government.

There Prime Minister Gaston Eyskens told the bride: "The people have spoken, and they already have taken you to their hearts as their queen."

Dona Fabiola flashed him a gentle smile of thanks.

Turning to the king, Eyskens said: "May the king's new happiness blossom into a new happiness for Belgium."

The wedding will be in two services.

By law the first will be civil and brief.

Then, as quickly as a royal car can carry them to St. Gudule's church, they'll go through the majestic matrimonial rite of the Roman Catholic Church. According to their strictly religious upbringing, then and only then, will they be man and wife.

Mother, Six Children Die In Blazing Home

ENOLA, Pa. (UPI) — A coal-burning living room furnace overheated and set a wooden farm home ablaze early Wednesday, killing a mother and six of her nine young children.

The husband and father, Neff Walker Jr., 35, a construction worker, carried two of his sons to safety. A daughter, Martha, 12, and a boarder who did odd jobs for the family, Carol Cramer, 17, jumped out of a second story window and survived.

Schoolgirl Thwarts Kidnaper

Hazel Irene Oelrich, 17, poses with her family yesterday after escaping from a kidnaper near her home at Sultan, Wash. The girl, a high school senior, said she escaped in the kidnaper's car. With her are her mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. George Oelrich, and her brother, George Jr. Oelrich is manager of a bank in Sultan. He said he had been instructed to pay $25,000 ransom. Girl Kidnaped At Knife-Point Tells Of Escape

SULTAN, Wash. (AP) — A stocky, blonde teen-age girl described Wednesday how a shabbily dressed man kidnaped her at knife-point as she prepared to leave for school and held her for 90 minutes before she escaped.

Her banker father received a telephoned demand for $25,000 ransom and deposited $2,000 of it in a telephone booth at a service station. It never was picked up.

FBI agents, sheriff's officers and police had found no trace of the kidnaper. The girl, Hazel Irene Oelrich, 17, was not harmed. She said she fled in the kidnap car after her abductor left her alone in it.

The high school senior, wearing a brown skirt, flat-heeled shoes and a blue sweater, said she was at home alone when the middle-aged, graying man knocked at the door.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Oelrich, had left a few minutes earlier for the Sultan branch of the First National Bank of Everett, where they both work. Oelrich is manager of the branch in this community of 821 population, 30 miles east of Everett.

The man asked for her father, Hazel said, and she told him her father had left. Then the man asked if he could leave a note. She went to get a piece of paper and he followed her.

"Then he said he would leave something with me and reached inside his jacket," she said. "He pulled out a hunting knife about 6 inches long and told me to come with him."

They got into an old green two-door car.

"He forced me to lie on the floor until we were outside the Sultan town limits," the girl said.

When they reached Monroe, seven miles west of Sultan, she said, her abductor stopped at a service station and forced her to call her father. During the call the man told Oelrich he wanted $25,000.

Then the man told her to drive to the outskirts of Everett, 20 miles west of Monroe, while he followed in a other car. She said she obeyed because he told her father would be "snatched" if she didn't.

But when she saw no automobile following her she turned around and drove toward home. She stopped in Monroe to telephone her father that she had escaped.

Ike Aide, Clothing Manufacturer Dies

CHICAGO (AP) — Meyer Kestnbaum, 64, president of Hart Schaffner & Marx, clothing manufacturers, and a special assistant to President Eisenhower, collapsed and died of an apparent heart attack in his office Wednesday.

President Eisenhower appointed Kestnbaum chairman of the Commission of Intergovernmental Relations in 1954. In 1955, Kestnbaum was named special assistant to the President on organization and business management of the executive branch of the federal government. He also served as board chairman of the Committee for Economic Development.

Air Force Bomber Flies 10,000 Miles Without Refueling

LOS ANGELES (AP) —"We have just proved that American bombers can hit Russia with nuclear payloads and either fly home or go on to safe territory."

This statement was made Wednesday by Lt. Col. Thomas R. Grissom shortly after his B52G Stratofortress set a world record of 10,000 miles without refueling.

Grissom, 36, of Cory, Ind., flew here after landing early Wednesday at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif., following a 19-hour, 45-minute flight over American territory.

The eight-jet B52G, advanced version of the B52 that serves as a mother ship for the drop-launched X15 rocket plane, can carry a nuclear bomb and two Hound Dog missiles.

Neither was aboard on the record flight, but Grissom said the plane could have carried them easily.

"We probably would have done even better if we had carried Hound Dogs," he said. "The Hound Dogs' jet engines would have given us extra thrust."

Grissom said he had fuel for another 1,000 miles when he landed.

Average speed for the flight was more than 500 miles per hour, he said. The B52G is capable of 650 miles per hour—just under the speed of sound.

Its Hound Dog missiles, armed with nuclear warheads, have a range of more than 500 miles at supersonic speed after being launched from the bomber.

Lt. Gen. Archie J. Old Jr., head of the 15th Air Force, said the flight was evidence of the Strategic Air Command's ability to operate on a global basis.

"The B52G combined with the Hound Dog is one of the most formidable weapons ever designed," Gen. Old said. "This record flight demonstrates the versatility of the nation's manned bomber force and its ability to strike any enemy target any time from anywhere on the globe."

The Boeing Stratofortress took off at 7:07 a.m. Tuesday from Edwards Air Force Base, and flew a closed-circuit course to El Paso, Tex., Andrews AFB, Md., Harmon Air Base, Newfoundland; Fairbanks, Alaska; Philip, S.D., and back to Edwards AFB, Calif.

The Air Force said previous closed-circuit distance records were set by a B29 propeller-driven bomber which flew 8,854 miles in August 1947, and a jet-powered B52D which flew 6,233 miles in September 1958.

U.S. Complaint Charges Negro Voter Reprisals

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Justice Department asked Wednesday for a court order to halt economic reprisals it said are being taken against some 400 Negroes in Fayette County, Tenn., because they registered and voted in the November election.

Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers announced the request for an injunction was filed in U. S. District Court in Memphis.

The complaint listed 10 examples of what it called economic reprisals against Negroes by some 82 defendants.

Among other things, eviction of Negro tenant farmers is charged.

Named as defendants were more than 45 landowners, more than 24 merchants and one bank which the complaint said had intimidated, coerced and exercised economic discrimination against Negroes who registered and voted.

This is the third complaint filed in Tennessee under the 1957 Civil Rights Act.

The other two complaints involved eviction notices requiring some 300 Negroes to vacate premises in Haywood County, Tenn.

Rogers said Wednesday's court action seeks to stop the eviction of Fayette County Negro tenant farmers on Jan. 1.

NATO Might Station European Troops In U.S.

PARIS (AP)—Military and political leaders of the North Atlantic Alliance Wednesday considered the advisability of stationing West German and other European troops on U. S. soil.

Informants said such an arrangement might help halt the drain on U. S. gold and dollar reserves and give Western Europe's conscripted armies enough room to train with modern weapons.

This startling suggestion was one of a number of economic proposals given careful study by NATO diplomats gathering here for their annual review opening Friday. All were aimed primarily at the same thing—trimming West Germany's swelling currency surplus and getting gold and dollars flowing back again into the United States.

One idea was dropped. Secretary of the Treasury Robert B. Anderson gave up trying to get a $600-million-a-year cash handout from Bonn to help support U. S. troops stationed in West Germany.

Instead, he and Economic Minister Ludwig Erhard of West Germany considered a number of alternative plans.

These included freer entry of American goods into West Germany, a larger contribution by Bonn to the costly communications and supply system of the Western Alliance and the boosting of West German purchases of U. S. military equipment.

The American dollar problem took the center of the stage at the start of a week of intense Western diplomatic negotiations in Paris.

New Reform Government Proclaimed

Bloodless Ethiopia Coup Staged During Emperor's Absence

CAIRO, Egypt (AP)—A bloodless palace guard coup—joined by military forces and headed by the roly-poly eldest son of Emperor Haile Selassie—clamped a new social reform government on Ethiopia Wednesday. Iron military rule prevailed in Addis Ababa, the capital.

The almost legendary "King of Kings"—a fateful figure of modern times—himself was thousands of miles away on a state visit to Brazil, and his future role at home was not defined. Reports from Brazil indicated Selassie was preparing to leave by air Wednesday night.

The avowed aim of the regime proclaimed by Crown Prince Asfa Wassan, 44, in a broadcast from the East African highland capital is to reform social customs dating from pre-Christian times.

It would end what the prince called "3,000 years of injustice."

Addis Ababa Quiet

The modern-minded prince of the ancient realm thus apparently took a firm step in his father's absence to put Ethiopia on the track of nationalism and socialism prevalent in neighboring Egypt and Sudan and other emerging African powers.

Reports from Sudan said Addis Ababa remained tranquil through the transition and there was no bloodshed; the sole purpose was to remove the emperor and replace him with his son, according to these reports.

Selassie had been both chief of state and head of government with the Council of Ministers directly responsible to him.

The new regime is under strict military control for the present, reports from Addis Ababa said.

The Sudan News Agency in Khartoum reported from Addis Ababa that the Eethopian army and police had combined with the palace group.

It said the coup began at 6 a.m. and two hours later the crown prince announced his forces were in control of all strategic points.

Both Heroes To People

The agency quoted Wassan as saying that his father, the emperor, on many occassions had expressed his readiness to cooperate with Ethiopian nationalist organizations and to assume the rights and duties of an ordinary citizen.

Both the crown prince and the old emperor are heroes to the stalwart Ethiopians who survived Italian Fascist invasion and expanded their realm after the war.

Because of his record in the fight against the Italians, Prince Wassan is held in high regard by the army. He is particularly admired by the imperial palace bodyguards.

When the Italians invaded, Mussolini tried to persuade Wassan to become a puppet ruler. Wassan refused, joining his father in exile. They returned in 1941.

Wassan has not the build of the popular hero ideal. He is short, plump, fun-loving and a modernist.

He apparently picked up a few Western ideas as a student at universities in Liverpool and Bristol, England, and wants to apply some of them to his 20 million people.

Congo Issue Heads For U.N. Assembly

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —The United Nations headed Wednesday for a full airing of the Congo crisis before the 99-nation General Assembly after an East-West deadlock prevented the Security Council from taking any action.

A weekend of sharp debate was in prospect for U.N. diplomats struggling to wind up pressing business before the Christmas recess next Tuesday.

A drama-packed meeting of the 11-nation council ended in an impasse early Wednesday. The Soviet Union cast a veto—its 92nd—of a Western resolution directing Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold to continue his efforts to restore peace in the Congo. The council rejected a Soviet demand for the immediate release of deposed Congo Premier Patrice Lumumba.

The General Assembly set Friday for the start of its Congo debate. Yugoslavia and India asked for an urgent meeting, but ran into objections from other U. N. members.

C&O Says It 'Over Top' In B&O Control Drive

CLEVELAND (UPI) — The Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad announced Wednesday night it has gone over the top in a campaign to acquire control of the Baltimore & Ohio Railway.

The C & O said as of 5 p.m. it had received more than 53 per cent of B & O shares or more than 1,680,000 shares of the total stock.

C & O President Walter J. Tuohy said in New York City that large blocks of P & O stock pledged to C & O the last few days pushed Chessie's total above the necessary 50 per cent to control the railroad.

"The owners of the B & O have shown they believe in the merits of affiliation as a first step to full merger of the Baltimore & Ohio and the Chesapeake & Ohio," Tuohy said.

"Association of the two railroads has been described as a 'natural' that would best serve the interests of shareowners of both companies, the employes and customers, communities and the public," he added.

C & O said it positively will not extend Wednesday night's deadline for stock exchange offer. The New York Central, also trying to gain control of the B & O, forecast that neither would get more than 50 per cent of the stock and the final decision would be made by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Final results of the Central-C & O battle to acquire B will not be known for several days. Any stock mailed at distant points and postmarked before midnight Wednesday night will be accepted.

Ratoff, 63, Dies, Not Knowing He Had Leukemia

SOLOTHURN, Switzerland (AP) — Physicians said Wednesday night Gregory Ratoff never knew he had leukemia. The American actor-director died early Wednesday of the disease in a clinic here. He was 63.

He had been dieting at the Zurich Bircher-Benner Clinic because his doctors had warned him he must lose weight. He returned to the clinic, which diagnosed his illness as leukemia.

The clinic referred Ratoff to Dr. Sven Moeschlin, one of the world's authorities on blood cancer. Ratoff entered Solothurn Citizens' Clinic Sept. 27 for treatment of what Moeschlin told him was a serious blood disease. But the doctor never told him it was leukemia.

Friends of the family said that although he was under heavy sedation, he suffered great pain and often lost consciousness. But he never lost hope.

Ratoff's body will be cremated in Solothurn Thursday. His ashes will be flown back to the United States to be buried in New York City next to his two brothers.

The artist is survived by his widow, singer Maria Costes Vatchnadze, who was by his bedside when he died. He also leaves a sister, Vera Everling, who lives in Moscow.

Ratoff's career led him through most phases of show business on several continents. He was a film and stage actor as well as director and producer, and he wrote many of the original scripts himself.

Entry In Diary Grimly Prophetic

LOS ANGELES (AP)—"Today he threatened to kill me."

So read a grimly prophetic two week-old entry in the diary of Mrs. Arbezine Smith, 35, a kindergarten teacher.

Wednesday Mrs. Smith and her 14-year-old son were dead—shot to death, police say, by her estranged husband, who took his own life. Homicide detectives reconstructed the murders and suicide this way:

Real estate man Larry Smith, 45, went to his estranged wife's home Monday and shot her and Reis Walder, her son by a former marriage. Then he headed for the Mexican border, 135 miles to the south.

At San Diego, a deputy sheriff stopped Smith's auto for a routine check. Smith shot himself in the head, officers report.

Mich. Progress Cited At Civil Rights Hearing

DETROIT (AP)—Political and labor leaders agreed Wednesday that racial discrimination is practiced in Michigan, but they told the U. S. Civil Rights Commission the state ranks among the best in protection of human rights.

Detroit Mayor Louis C. Miriani told the commission as it opened a two-day hearing here: "I am confident that you will find that the examples set by the people of this community in sincerely striving to live in a truly democratic atmosphere meets standards as high, if not higher, than any major city in the nation."

Miriani added, however, he was "not trying to claim that we have reached any Utopian level," and United Auto Workers President Walter P. Reuther cited what he termed discrimination in housing that results in segregated school classrooms.

Reuther and Horace L. Sheffield, vice president of the All-Negro Trade Union Leadership Council, said discrimination still exists in hiring and firing and the training of apprentices, despite Michigan's Fair Employment Practices Commission.

Not a single witness, however, testified there was any discrimination against minority groups in voting or registering to vote.

Warmup Helps Ease Aftermath Of Snowstorm

By The Associated Press

Sunshine broke through the clouds in the eastern half of the nation Wednesday, easing the aftermath of the seaboard's worst autumn storm in history.

With the official start of winter just a week away, extremely cold temperatures visited the East and Northeast in the predawn, but at midday the arctic cold was dispelled. Storm-related deaths passed the 225 mark as the East continued to dig itself out from under snow and slush.

Heaps of frozen snow still clogged streets of Boston and many other New England and Eastern communities. Early risers in the area were greeted by temperatures ranging from near zero levels to the teens and low 20s. Tampa, Fla., recorded an early morning low of 34 which broke a record set in 1895. Later, Florida readings climbed into the 50s and 60s.

Midday readings in the 30s and 40s prevailed from the Plains into the Mississippi Valley. The 40s were noted from the Carolinas into the Gulf states. Over the Rockies temperatures generally were in the 20s and 30s, except for lower readings in higher elevations. Forties and 50s prevailed near the West Coast, except for 60s in Southern California.

Snow Or Rain Likely In Md.

By The Associated Press

The mercury edged above the freezing mark in parts of Maryland Wednesday for the first time since a storm dumped up to 18 inches of snow on the state Sunday and Monday.

Not much of the snow melted, but the moderating temperatures lured Christmas shoppers back to the stores and eased the frowns of merchants.

The temperature was expected to drop below freezing again Wednesday night, hardening the slush on highways and causing slippery spots.

Even higher temperatures were forecast for Thursday under sunny skies, reaching the 35-40 degree level in the east and mostly in the 30s in the west.

More precipitation has been forecast for the Maryland area late Thursday night or Friday.

"While there is a chance that temperatures will be cold enough for this to be snow," the Weather Bureau said, "the likelihood is that the precipitation will be rain."

The five-day forecast calls for temperatures averaging about five degrees below mid-December normals.

Poetic Cop Killer Ends Life In Cell

BRIDGEPORT, Conn. (AP) — Joseph DeSalvo, who capped a criminal career by killing a policeman, copied down some verse in his jail cell Wednesday and then apparently killed himself.

Behind him, DeSalvo left an unfinished treatise on death, a fragment of verse from Ralph Waldo Emerson and these lines he copied and included in a death note to his attorneys:

"I have seen the dark universe yearning

"Where the black planets roll without aim.

"Where they roll in their horror unheeded.

"Without knowledge or luster or name.

"Nemesis" (the Greek goddess of retributive justice.)

Behind him, too, De Salvo, 31, left his unfinished Superior Court trial for the slaying of officer David D. Troy after a holdup last July 7.

DeSalvo testified last Friday in quiet tones of his violent life, and admitted slaying Troy.

Medical Examiner George J. Molnar said DeSalvo apparently died from an overdose of barbiturates. They may have been sleeping pills he saved; he was given one daily during his trial.

State Prison Site Approved

BALTIMORE (AP) — The State Board of Correction gave reluctant approval Wednesday to a site near Hagerstown for a new medium security prison.

Most correctional officials had hoped to locate the new facility in the Baltimore area, but they were met by community opposition.

Washington County legislators had made a strong pitch for location of the new institution on the site of the Reformatory for Males near Hagerstown.

In summing up the situation to other board members, chairman G. C. A. Anderson said it amounted to: Hagerstown or nothing.

The new institution is expected to cost between $12.5 and $15 million. It would house some 1,000 prisoners carefully screened from other institutions as outstanding candidates for rehabilitation.

Heaps of frozen snow still clogged streets of Boston and many other New England and Eastern communities. Early risers in the area were greeted by temperatures ranging from near zero levels to the teens and low 20s. Tampa, Fla., recorded an early morning low of 34 which broke a record set in 1895. Later, Florida readings climbed into the 50s and 60s.

Midday readings in the 30s and 40s prevailed from the Plains into the Mississippi Valley. The 40s were noted from the Carolinas into the Gulf states. Over the Rockies temperatures generally were in the 20s and 30s, except for lower readings in higher elevations. Forties and 50s prevailed near the West Coast, except for 60s in Southern California.

State Prison Site Approved

BALTIMORE (AP) — The State Board of Correction gave reluctant approval Wednesday to a site near Hagerstown for a new medium security prison.

Most correctional officials had hoped to locate the new facility in the Baltimore area, but they were met by community opposition.

Washington County legislators had made a strong pitch for location of the new institution on the site of the Reformatory for Males near Hagerstown.

In summing up the situation to other board members, chairman G. C. A. Anderson said it amounted to: Hagerstown or nothing.

The new institution is expected to cost between $12.5 and $15 million. It would house some 1,000 prisoners carefully screened from other institutions as outstanding candidates for rehabilitation.

Maryland Public School Enrollment Is 599,363

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Education Association reported Wednesday total public school enrollment in Maryland this year stands at 599,363.

The average teacher salary in Maryland this year is $5,680, compared with $5,375 in 1959, the association said in a nationwide tabulation of school enrollments and expenditures.

The salary average in Maryland exceeded the national average of $5,125, but was under the California average of $6,700 — the highest in the nation for classroom teachers.

The listing gave Maryland's elementary school enrollment this year as 350,022, with 249,341 pupils enrolled in secondary schools in the state.

The expenditure for each student on the basis of average daily attendance in Maryland is $415 for 1960, compared with $388 last year.

Reduced Base For State Sales Tax Suggested

BALTIMORE (AP) — Sen. William S. James, D. — Harford, suggested Wednesday that Maryland's 3 per cent sales tax be applied to purchases of "about 20 cents" instead of the present 51-cent minimum.

James, as chairman of the Legislative Council's standing committee on taxation and fiscal matters, is one of the most influential members of the General Assembly in its deliberations on financial subjects.

His statement lent weight to speculation that Gov. Tawes is seriously considering a tax increase proposal along with the budget he will recommend to the legislature meeting Jan. 4 in Annapolis.

The Harford County senator said the state's current revenues are about $8 million a year less than its spending program.

"This spending gap is real," said James, "and as long as it exists we are not on a sound fiscal basis, regardless of how much surplus is in the state treasury."

Tawes has declined to discuss the budget for next fiscal year until he receives a report from the Board of Estimates on how the State can expect to collect from the taxpayers during the current fiscal year.

The report, scheduled to have been delivered at a meeting last Monday, was postponed because of the snow storm and is now set for announcement at a 2:30 p. m., Thursday, meeting of the estimates agency and the Board of Public Works.

The preliminary estimate is expected to be increased by about $5 million, which would give the state about $18 million in surplus funds at the start of next fiscal year.

Maryland Briefs

BALTIMORE (AP)—Dr. George Curtis Medairy, superintendent of the Rosewood State Training School, will retire Dec. 31 after a 36-year career at the institution.

Dr. Medairy, 61 joined the Rosewood staff in 1924 as an assistant physician. He became clinical director in 1944 and in 1952 was named superintendent.

Rosewood, located at Owings Mills in Baltimore County, is Maryland's only public residential facility for the care and treatment of mentally retarded children.

BALTIMORE (AP) — A minimum price of $503 per hundredweight for milk of 3.5 per cent butterfat content delivered to plants under the Upper Chesapeake Bay Milk Marketing Order for November has been announced.

E. Hickman Greene, market administrator, said the November minimum price was 11 cents above the previous month and 18 cents higher than September price.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Mayor J. Harold Grady will renew a biennial tradition Dec. 29 when he plays host to a dinner for members of the city's delegation to the General Assembly.

The get-together provides the mayor with a chance to officially inform the lawmakers of legislation the city hopes to sponsor when the General Assembly opens at Annapolis Jan. 4.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Six automobiles were destroyed and three men were injured Wednesday in a two-alarm fire that gutted a garage here.

One of the injured, Edgar Linder, 43, a mechanic at the garage, said the fire started when a gasoline tank was removed from an automobile that was being repaired. The tank exploded when it accidentally was touched against a light bulb.

Linder suffered burns about the face, neck and arms. Two firemen — Waymen D. mith and Hayward Musgrove—were treated for lesser injuries and returned to duty.

ROCKVILLE, Md. (AP) — Two criminal libel indictments against the Washington Post have been dismissed by two Montgomery County Circuit Court judges.

The indictments, returned by a grand jury in the spring, were based on a Post editorial which disagreed with the manner in which two trials were handled involving Melvin W. Smith, a 19-year-old Negro.

Judges Thomas M. Anderson and James H. Pugh of the Circuit Court ruled the editorial did not constitute criminal libel.

Smith, a spectator in a courtroom, was charged with assaulting a county detective in court after a relative of Smith's was sentenced. Smith subsequently was tried and sentenced to a year in jail. Three policemen and a deputy sheriff were acquitted of charges they assaulted Smith

Pt. Marion Glass Plant Heavily Damaged By Fire

PT. MARION, Pa. (UPI) — A pre - dawn fire Wednesday destroyed a two story tank building and damaged valuable machinery of the Houze Glass Corp., which had been acquired recently by a new owner.

Company officials estimated damage at $600,000. They said seven Forcault machines used in a glass sheet drawing process were destroyed, three kilns, several other pieces of machinery and and 500,000 square feet of finished glass.

The officials said they plan to rebuild portions of the building damaged by the fire. Salvage operations have already been started they said. Attempts will be made to operate the plant on a limited basis.

The blaze was touched off in the "batch" room where sand and chemicals used in the manufacture of glass were stored. Leland Frank, one of eight workmen in the room, said collapse of a pipe on a pot-bellied stove touched off the flames which raced about 100 feet to the machines.

Frank said the workers nearly were trapped by the flames and narrowly escaped from the "batch" room.

The blaze broke out about 4 a. m. and firemen from Pt. Marion, Smithfield and Masontown responded. The fire was brought under control about 10 a.m.

The firemen fought the blaze in near zero temperatures. They prevented the spread of the fire by ripping down a wooden bridge which connected the tank building with another structure.

Company officials said only 25 workmen were affected by the fire. About 125 other employes, many of them women, reported to work.

The plant is located about a mile north of the West Virginia border.

Xi Beta Exemplar To Hold Annual Christmas Party

Xi Beta Exemplar chapter of Beta Sigma Phi met at the home of Mrs. Leona Cumiskey, 513 Dilley Street, a recent evening. Following the opening ritual, the meeting was called to order by Miss Dorothy Lee Campbell, president. Routine reports were given.

City Council minutes were read and discussed with the following dates noted: The Spring Ritual will be held at Ali Ghan Shrine Club April 27 and the annual Cruise Ball will be held at Shrine Country Club May 19 using a Hawaiian theme.

Mrs. Ann McKenzie reported on the delivery of the Thanksgiving basket and gifts to the chapter's adopted family.

The chapter's annual Christmas party will be held at the Cumberland Country Club, Friday beginning with dinner at 6:30 p. m. Secret sisters will be revealed and new ones drawn for the coming year. Members will buy Christmas presents and clothing for the children of the adopted family. A jingle will also be held for their benefit. Miss Catherine Coleman and Mrs. Elizabeth Chaney and their respective committees are in charge of this event.

The meeting adjourned and the closing ritual was given. The cultural program for the evening was led by Mrs. Charlotte Judy and Mrs. Betty Frantz on the topic "Nature" from the program book "Festival of Life." Mrs. Judy discussed the beauties of nature and Mrs. Frantz discussed the explorer and scientist and what they have done for us and what manner of men they are. Group discussion followed.

Concluding the evening refreshments were served by the hostess. Members attending were Misses Eleanor Albright, Dorothy Lee Campbell, Martha Lee Heron, Margaret Lester, Ruth Lester, Helene Schutz and Mesdames Elizabeth Chaney, Betty Frantz, Charlotte Judy, Ann McKenzie, Josephine Pfeiffer and Juanita Brinsmade.

Country Club Schedules Children's Yule Party, Two Holiday Dances

The Cumberland Country Club will hold a Christmas party Sunday for children of members. Two dances are also scheduled.

Santa Claus will greet the children Sunday at 2 p.m. Entertainment includes a movie and Christmas carols. Refreshments will be served. The age limit is 12 years.

A teen-age dance is planned for Thursday, December 29, from 9:30 p.m. until 12:30 a.m. Refreshments will be served.

The Club's New Year's Eve dance will be held December 31 with music by Dick Lewis. Reservations are being accepted.

Guy Long, 711 North Mechanic Street, is a patient in Sacred Heart Hospital.

TO ENTERTAIN PATIENTS—The Steckman Dancers will present the show for the annual Christmas party given for the servicemen in Newton D. Baker Hospital, Martinsburg. The group is being sent to the hospital again this year by the American Legion of Keyser and Ridgeley; the VFW of Keyser and McCoole; the Cooties of Keyser and McCoole and the 40 & 8 Voiture 1212 of Keyser. The dancers from left to right are Sheri Berry, Dottie Buckingham, Carol Melvin, Beverly Brown, Judy Nee and Darlene Whalley in the center. Nancy Aldridge was absent when the picture was taken. The group will also appear at the Children's Community Christmas party sponsored by the Frostburg Veterans Organizations and their auxiliaries, December 22 at 7 p. m. in Beall Elementary School.

Alpha Alpha Chapter To Sell Christmas Trees As Project

Alpha Alpha Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi will sell Christmas trees this year to raise money for its various civic projects. This will be a new venture by the club.

Money raised by the club through rummage and auction sales and now tree sales is used in helping with such projects as aid to the Crippled League, pediatrics wards of both hospitals, Cancer Society, adopted family at Christmas, and help for a senior in high school.

The sale will be held Saturday and Sunday from 8 a.m. until 10 p.m. at the Toll Gate Fruit Market.

Social Chart

Swanson Memorial Bible Class of Second Baptist Church will hold its class meeting and Christmas party this evening at the home of Mrs. B. W. Robinson, 405 Arch Street. Mrs. Mary Settle is cohostess. Class sisters will be revealed and new ones chosen. Jingle gifts will be exchanged.

Our Flag of Cumberland Council 100, D of A, will meet today at 7:30 p. m. for the annual Christmas party. Mrs. Ada Keady is in charge of the program and Mrs. Nellie Freeland will preside at the business session. Each member is to bring a 59-cent jingle gift.

The Cedarettes will hold a Christmas party for husbands and children today at 7:30 p. m. at Ali Ghan City Shrine Club. Mrs. Robert L. Horstman is in charge of arrangements.

North Cumberland Homemakers Club will meet today at 6 p. m. at Central YMCA as scheduled for its Christmas dinner and program.

Mizpah Bible Class of First Baptist Church will hold its Christmas banquet Friday at 6 p. m. at Central YMCA. Class sisters will be revealed and new ones selected.

Auxiliary Has Yule Dinner

Women's Auxiliary 52 to Cumberland Typographical Union 244, held its Christmas dinner and jingle party recently at Nave's Dining Room. Each member attending was given a Christmas corsage.

Following the dinner, members went to the home of Mrs. Lydia Grahame, 319 Williams Street for a business meeting. Mrs. Norma Sterne presided. Mrs. Dorothy Shaner, entertainment chairman, gave her report on the dinner arrangements.

Gifts were exchanged and cards were played concluding the evening. Mrs. Grahame won the special prize. The hostess served refreshments.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Shaner, Myrtle Street, January 5.

Attending were Mrs. Shaner, Mrs. Mae Biller, Mrs. Margaret Buzzard, Mrs. Beulah DeBolt and Mrs. Sterne. Mrs. Stitcher was a special guest of the auxiliary.

Re Temple 118 To Send Stuffed Animals To Children's Hospital

The annual Christmas party and regular monthly meeting of Re Temple 118, Daughters of the Nile, was held Tuesday evening at Ali Ghan Shrine Club. Mrs. Ethel Zimmerman presided.

Mrs. Zimmerman requests members who are unable to attend to bring stuffed toys for the Crippled Children's Hospital to Mrs. Sara Lindsay in the Red Cross Office of the Post Office building no later than Friday as the toys are to be packed and sent to the Children's Hospital Saturday.

Plans were made for a public card party to be held January 16 at Masonic Temple. The theme is "Winter Wonderland" and Mrs. Lindsay, ways and means chairman, is in charge.

Favors for the Christmas party were apples decorated as Santa Claus.

Personals

Miss Joyce Ann Horchler, 636 Columbia Avenue, is a medical patient in Memorial Hospital. She is a junior at Allegany High School.

Mrs. Coleman Jacobs, 426 Race Street, a medical patient since November 17 in Memorial Hospital is improving.

Eagles To Initiate Large Class Saturday

A large class of candidates will be initiated by Aerie 245, Fraternal Order of Eagles, during an "all-day" program Saturday at the Eagles Home.

Lynn E. Tharp, president of the Aerie, announced yesterday that the day's activities will begin at 2 p.m. with the initiation for a class of 29, the largest to be accepted by the organization this year.

The degree work will be under the direction of the Past Worthy Presidents Club. Taking part will be John L. Farrin, Thomas J. Hopwood, William T. Damm, Charles W. Robinette, Francis T. Twigg, Frank Kelly, Fred S. Palmer and Herman L. Myers.

The class of candidates will include Burk Baker, Scott F. Barnett, Donald M. Boggs, Clyde W. Campbell Jr., Vernon E. Cook, Joseph P. Deetz, George H. Davis, David K. Holy, Marvin J. Kaplon, William J. Kinsman, Elmer E. Kirtley, Edward F. Lawton, Aaaron V. Lea and Francis L. Lengel.

Harry A. Mallow, Howard G. Martin, Jerry Morton, Francis S. O'Baker, Daniel F. Petrocy, Robert W. Powell, Melvin A. Robinson, James M. Roby, John F. Smith, George C. Tyree, James J. Van Jr., Garnett M. Yost, Joseph T. Ziler and Scott W. Zimmerly.

Herman L. Myers, secretary of the local Aerie, said that during the intiation the lodge's annual Civic Service Awards will be presented to Thomas B. Finan, local attorney and secretary of the State of Maryland; Dr. L. Michael Glick and Simon Rosenbaum, local businessman, for their work in getting the Sisters of Charity to continue operations of Sacred Heart Hospital.

A social hour will be held from 3 to 5 p.m., featuring the Aerie's annual Christmas party for members.

The day's activities will close with the annual Max Baer Heart Fund Dance beginning at 8:30 p. m. Music will be provided by the Pie Harvey Combo, and a floor show is planned.

One of the highlights of the day will be the appearance of Leo Connell, Connersville, Ind., grand worthy president of the Eagles.

Tharp said Connell will arrive in Cumberland early Saturday morning and will remain for all of the activities. Besides being grand worthy president, he is also on the Board of Grand Trustees and has been secretary of his Aerie in Connersville for 32 years.

A 'Quick Trip' To The Grocery

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) — When Mrs. Average Shopper announces she's making a "quick trip to the grocery store" the chances are she will stay there at least 23 minutes.

During those minutes she will buy 113 items at a cost of 56 cents for each item.

These shopper statistics come from Mrs. Eleanor Loomis, extension consumer marketing agent at the University of Minnesota. Her findings are based on a study of 3,200 food shoppers.

The study showed that only about 30 women of each 100 came to the store equipped with a shopping list. They bought four more items than the women who came without a list, spent about four to six cents per minute of shopping and spent more time doing their marketing.

Consumers who use a list are likely to shop once or twice a week, whereas those who dont' use a list buy fewer items at a time but shop more frequently.

Ridgeley Lions Sponsoring Yule Lighting Contest

Residents of Ridgeley, Carpenters Addition and Wiley Ford to the fork of the road will be eligible to compete in the Ridgeley Lions Club Christmas Home Lighting Contest.

First prize, donated by the club, will be $25 in cash. Other merchandise prizes are being contributed by Ridgeley businessmen and will be displayed in the window of the Post Office.

Entry blanks may be picked up at Spiker's, Poling's and Frantz Market in Ridgeley and Snyder's Grocery in Wiley Ford, according to Perry Davis, chairman. Entries should be filled in and mailed to Ray Coughenour, president of the Ridgeley Lions Club by December 28. Judging will be done Friday, December 30.

The club's Christmas tree sale will continue this Saturday from 9 a.m. until dark and Sunday from 1 p.m. on the Ridgeley High School Grounds.

A directors meeting of the club will be held Thursday evening at Leon Hammond's office.

PTA Program Slated Today

The Cresaptown School Parent-Teacher Association will meet today at 8 p. m. for a Christmas program and party.

There will be no formal room visitation with faculty members, but the rooms will be open at 7:30 p. m. for parents to view the Yule decorations of each class.

The program will consist of carol singing and a Christmas movie. The party will follow in the cafeteria with refreshments served by the mothers of first and second grade pupils.

Church Pageant Set Sunday

A pageant "Why The Chimes Ring," will be presented Sunday at 7:30 p. m. at Central Methodist Church, Rev. Chester C. Hustead, pastor, said today.

Members of the cast are Gary Shriver, Randy Spriggs, Dawn Shelky, Edwin Husted, Alice Miller, Clyde Gill, Linda Petrea, Charlene Hustead, Kathy Gill, Bonnie Short, Ronny Flora, John Pfeiffer, David Leasure, Allen Perdew, Jerry Derryberry, Ralph Wilson, Barbara Gill, Ronna Jackson, Jennie Miller and Michael Baker.

Organist is Vicki Eackles. Mrs. Hustead is director of the pageant.

A newly-organized 25-voice Junior Choir and the Sanctuary Choir will participate. The choir will use multi-colored candles in the processional and recessional.

Court Asked To Upset Garrett Judgment

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—S. W. Barrick and Sons Inc. asked the Court of Appeals Tuesday to overthrow a Garrett County Circuit Court ruling granting the J. P. Councill Co. preference in the distribution of funds coming from a sheriff's sale of property belonging to Duvall Farms Inc.

Barrick contended the writ of execution was improperly issued before the expiration of a statutory 30-day period.

The high court took the case under advisement.

Automobile commuter traffic in the San Francisco Bay Area has increased 30 per cent during the past five years.

Penn Avenue Students Plan Yule Program

Junior High students at Pennsylvania Avenue School will present a Christmas program Friday at 1:45 p. m. in the school auditorium.

Pupils of Mrs. Mary K. Wilson will open the program with a flag ceremony and a Scripture reading in the form of a choral recitation.

A reading, "The Night After Christmas," and a choral poem, "The Savior Is Born," will be presented by students of Walter Crawford.

Boys and girls from classes taught by Miss Margaret Blake, Edward Langan and Berl Plummer have been cast in a play, "The Inn At Christmas," which is directed by Miss Blake.

Scenery for the play has been prepared by students of Miss Mildred Beck under supervision of Miss Beck. Lighting will be in charge of Plummer.

The Seventh Grade Glee Club, under direction of Mrs. Beverly Andrews, will sing "Up On The Housetop," "Silent Night" and "Ring Christmas Bells."

The program will be concluded by the presentation of the song, "We Wish You A Merry Christmas," by an octet under direction of Mrs. Andrews.

Yule Program Today At School

A Christmas program will be presented today at 7:30 p. m. at the Ridgeley High School auditorium by the pupils of the elementary and high schools.

The program has been arranged for a combined meeting of the PTA units of both schools.

A program of selections by the choral groups, primary rhythm band, and elementary and high school bands will be presented.

Singing will be presented by Grades 1, 2 and 3 followed by a number presented by the primary rhythm band and high school band. The pupils of Grades 4, 5 and 6 will also sing and the high school band and chorus will combine for several selections.

LaVale PTA Unit To Meet Today

"The Care of Children's Feet" will be the subject of a talk before the LaVale School Parent-Teacher Association today at 8 p. m. by Dr. Benjamin Feldman.

Chester E. Moody, president, said the program will be in charge of Gerald Barb, speakers' chairman. Room visitation will be held from 7:30 p. m. to 8 p. m.

Penn Avenue Students Plan Yule Program

Junior High students at Pennsylvania Avenue School will present a Christmas program Friday at 1:45 p. m. in the school auditorium.

Pupils of Mrs. Mary K. Wilson will open the program with a flag ceremony and a Scripture reading in the form of a choral recitation.

A reading, "The Night After Christmas," and a choral poem, "The Savior Is Born," will be presented by students of Walter Crawford.

Boys and girls from classes taught by Miss Margaret Blake, Edward Langan and Berl Plummer have been cast in a play, "The Inn At Christmas," which is directed by Miss Blake.

Scenery for the play has been prepared by students of Miss Mildred Beck under supervision of Miss Beck. Lighting will be in charge of Plummer.

The Seventh Grade Glee Club, under direction of Mrs. Beverly Andrews, will sing "Up On The Housetop," "Silent Night" and "Ring Christmas Bells."

The program will be concluded by the presentation of the song, "We Wish You A Merry Christmas," by an octet under direction of Mrs. Andrews.

Yule Program Today At School

A Christmas program will be presented today at 7:30 p. m. at the Ridgeley High School auditorium by the pupils of the elementary and high schools.

The program has been arranged for a combined meeting of the PTA units of both schools.

A program of selections by the choral groups, primary rhythm band, and elementary and high school bands will be presented.

Singing will be presented by Grades 1, 2 and 3 followed by a number presented by the primary rhythm band and high school band. The pupils of Grades 4, 5 and 6 will also sing and the high school band and chorus will combine for several selections.

LaVale PTA Unit To Meet Today

"The Care of Children's Feet" will be the subject of a talk before the LaVale School Parent-Teacher Association today at 8 p. m. by Dr. Benjamin Feldman.

Chester E. Moody, president, said the program will be in charge of Gerald Barb, speakers' chairman. Room visitation will be held from 7:30 p. m. to 8 p. m.

Gift Boxes For Tots Overseas

Junior Red Cross Fills Gift Boxes, Gives Funds

Junior Red Cross members in public and parochial schools of Allegany County have filled about 300 colorful gift boxes for children overseas and contributed about $600 toward the RC Children's Fund.

Mrs. Sara G. Lindsay, executive secretary of the Allegany Chapter of the Red Cross, said the boxes are sent to children throughout the world as a friendly gesture in the hope of developing better relationships.

Miss Margaret Doak, Allegany County elementary schools supervisor, is Junior Red Cross chairman and supervised the arrangements with elementary schools for the filling of the boxes by the youngsters.

Mrs. John M. Robb, teacher at Allegany High School, promotes the program among high school students who give contributions to the fund.

Supplies for this project were sorted and packed by Xi Omicron Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi under the direction of Mrs. Richard C. Buskey, project chairman of the sorority. A number of the members of the sorority are elementary teachers and took a personal interest in promoting the program in their schools.

Miss Helen Mae Kreiling, president of the sorority, is a teacher at West Side School and Mrs. Betty Roemmelmeyer, a teacher at the Thomas G. Pullen Laboratory School at Frostburg State Teachers College.

The children at the lab school made an exhibit, dressing dolls from various nations, which has been on display for several weeks.

Items included in the boxes are designed primarily for personal enjoyment, although school and health supplies are included.

The money, said Mrs. Lindsay, is used to supply material aid to children at times of emergency overseas in the form of medicine, food, clothing, and educational materials.

The fund also covers certain national costs of Junior Red Cross International projects and the travel and other expenses of Junior RC representatives to national and international meetings.

The fund provides certain types of disaster relief to children as a part of American Red Cross programs in the country and promotes safety education and international understanding in American schools through supplying a wide range of free materials for teachers.

The local chapter is now in the process of organizing a Junior Red Cross Council which will be composed of teachers and parents from schools all over the county.

Its function will be to assist in promoting the program and coordinate the Junior Red Cross efforts of the schools within the chapter's jurisdiction.

CONCERT POSTPONED

WESTERNPORT — The annual Christmas concert presented by Bruce High School choral groups scheduled for this evening under the direction of Miss Betty Jean Withrow, has been postponed. It has been rescheduled for Tuesday.

County Agents Meet At Gaithersburg

Allegany and Garrett counties will be represented at the quarterly meeting of the Western Maryland Association of County Agents which will be held today in Gaithersburg.

Joseph M. Steger, Allegany County farm agent, association chairman, will be in charge of the meeting at the Agriculture Center.

He said there will be an election of officers as well as an in-service training meeting which will begin at 10 a. m.

Others planning to attend are James B. Arnold, assistant farm agent of Allegany County; James McHenry, farm agent at Garrett County; and Jack Perkins, his assistant.

Mayor Sends Letter To Ted Mack Show

On behalf of the citizens of Cumberland, Mayor J. Edwin Keech has written a letter to Ted Mack (The Ted Mack Amateur Hour) thanking him for "your kindness and sincere interest in sponsoring the television career of Miss Sondra Rucker, a resident of Flintstone, Md., Cumberland's nearby neighbor."

Sondra, 11-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Rucker, won top honors on the amateur hour program Sunday December 4 and appeared in the semi-finals this past Sunday.

NATO Meeting And The 'Interregnum'

The handicap in real politics of the U.S. interregnum, as it is rather grandly called—the time lag of 10½ weeks between the Presidential election and the inauguration of a new Chief Executive — is exposed brightly by the NATO council meeting in Paris tomorrow. The transitional meeting between President Eisenhower and President-elect Kennedy on December 6 produced a communique which stressed that until the inauguration the outgoing President maintains sole jurisdiction over the conduct of the government. Kennedy in his subsequent news conference supplied emphasis by repeating: "Under the Constitution there can be no sharing of . . . responsibility, nor was it suggested that there should be."

Yet the NATO foreign ministers have before them a decision of utmost importance—in short, whether NATO itself should become the world's fourth nuclear power. The annual advisory conference of NATO parliamentarians on November 26 approved a plan advanced by Gen. Lauris Norstad, NATO supreme commander, to give NATO an "atomic pool" of U.S. nuclear weapons for use as jointly decided by the United States and NATO.

Inasmuch as the Eisenhower administration must bear responsibility but cannot commit the Kennedy administration, the approach to the NATO council meeting will be to propose only the concept of equipping NATO with the ultimate weapon. A concrete operating plan will have to be worked out after January 20.

Senator Kennedy at his news conference made it clear that he had not been invited to send an observer to the Paris discussions. But he noted that Vice President-elect Johnson and Senator J. W. Fulbright (D-Ark.) had attended the parliamentarians' meeting. Actually, Fulbright drew up the resolution presented there. And it is known that Kennedy and his principal advisers, though powerless until after the inauguration, have been carefully briefed at every stage of the plan's development.

Finding A Cabinet

President-elect Kennedy has discovered what other public officials have that it is very difficult to get good men to serve in government unless there is an emergency. There are many reasons for this, not all of them selfish.

In the first place, the absurd attitude of our people toward a conflict of interest keeps many an able man out of government. Naturally, if a man is a top-notcher, he has done something with his life before he was offered a temporary position in government. For instance, since Robert S. McNamara, president of the Ford Motor Company, has accepted the post of Secretary of Defense, he will undoubtedly be expected to divest himself of all his holdings in any company that manufactures anything which the government purchases. Why? Obviously on the assumption that he cannot otherwise be an honest man! If that is our attitude, why offer him the job?

The absurdity of the conflict of interest rule lies in the fact that instead of borrowing these men from private industry, we hope to force them to leave a permanent position for a temporary one and then divest themselves of all their possessions and accumulations. What other country does that?

Thus, we come down to the men who can afford to accept government posts, either men who are old and retired or lawyers who can afford to build new careers out of the advertisement of a public office, or those who possess inherited wealth and prefer a political to a playboy career. The President does not have the best choice; he often has to take what he can get.

The Kennedy Cabinet, as far as it goes, is probably as good as he can compose at this moment. The appointment of "Soapy" Williams to a subordinate position in the State Department is a political payoff. It is doubtful if Williams will find this particular position suitable for a man who has been Governor of Michigan. An assistant secretaryship is on the third level on a chart and it does not give a man too much scope.

The appointment of Adlai Stevenson was inevitable as was that of Chester Bowles.

Stevenson represents a faction in the Democratic Party that includes such formidable personalities as Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, Herbert Lehman, Mrs. Mary Lasker and Mrs. Anna Rosenberg. These can be friendly or very troublesome personalities. Stevenson in the United Nations will have to pursue policies concerning which he can have little to say because the policies originate in the White House or in NATO or in some other remote conference. Henry Cabot Lodge built that position into something quite important because he is a fighter, extraordinarily photogenic and a competent day-by-day debater.

Should Douglas Dillon be appointed Secretary of the Treasury, it will be most fortunate. Douglas Dillon is an economist and a banker. He understands money. He has handled these problems in the State Department. As a matter of fact, in view of our present currency problems, our government ought to mobilize the best talent available on this subject, both orthodox and unorthodox. Among the most competent money experts in this country are the men who specialize in the mining and buying and selling of precious metals. As a rule, the orthodox bankers and Treasury officials ignore them although foreign governments do not.

After all, what is required today is knowledge, imagination, flexibility, not the stuffiness of an official attitude which having lost us our gold cannot think of the simplest devices to keep dollars within this country. The Treasury may turn out, in the Kennedy Administration, to be more important than the State Department.

Somewhere in this Administration there will have to be a man with sufficient courage to try to restore the value of the dollar. This will require tremendous moral courage because it may mean that a ceiling will have to be put on wages, interests, rents, every form of economic activity until the dollar again becomes good money. It may mean a heavy battle with those American firms that have exported capital abroad to evade high wages and high taxes and whose purpose is not to sell abroad but to sell in the United States. When an American company manufactures parts abroad and brings them back to the American market for assemblage into an American machine, it is engaging in a dangerous form of deception because what it is exporting is jobs—jobs that Americans must have.

Rusk Doesn't Believe In Summit Conferences

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Dean Rusk, who has been selected to be Secretary of State, doesn't believe in "summit" conferences for the President of the United States. He doesn't think the Chief Executive should spend his time in personal negotiation abroad or anywhere else. Mr. Rusk in a lecture early this year, which was published in "Foreign Affairs," said:

"If he (Mr. Khrushchev) insists upon having a foreign minister to whom he does not wish to give his confidence, is he to impose the same ignominious status upon the Secretary of State of the United States? Can we not insist that it is up to each nation to determine for itself who its highest ranking negotiator is to be? Or cannot Mr. Khrushchev find even one high-ranking colleague whom he can trust to represent him loyally and effectively?"

Mr. Rusk says, moreover, that a President cannot really take the time to prepare beforehand for a "summit" conference and that "the experienced diplomat will usually counsel against the direct confrontation of those with final authority." He adds:

"Negotiation ad referendum (by referring matters as they arise to a superior officer) offers greater opportunity for feeling out the situation, exploring opposing points of view, trying out alternative approaches without commitment, testing general propositions by meticulous attention to detail. The process needs time, patience and precision, three resources which are not found in abundance at the highest political level.

"The direct confrontation of the chiefs of government of the great powers involves an extra tension because the court of last resort is in session. The costs of error or misunderstanding are multiplied by the seriousness of the issues and the power of those present."

The foregoing views were set forth before the breakup of the "summit" conference at Paris last May. The ideas are not new. They were expressed in these dispatches again and again since 1955, when the first "summit" conference at Geneva was being played up as the best way to deal with the Communist regime in Moscow. But the arguments in opposition were lost in a wave of comments from the leading Democrats on Capitol Hill, as well as some Republicans, who insisted that negotiation was imperative and that anyone who refused to meet with the top officials of other governments was politically on dangerous ground, for it presumably meant he was opposed to making peace.

Mr. Eisenhower followed the trend of public opinion as he said repeatedly that he would go anywhere in the world to advance the cause of peace. The fallacy was that the device really helped build up the prestige of Nikita Khrushchev, and didn't help to bring peace. The Soviet Premier was merely afforded an opportunity for propaganda and theatrics.

Repeatedly it was asserted in government circles here that there would be no "summit" conferences until adequate preparation had been made. This was the viewpoint of the late John Foster Dulles, but the critics shouted him down and forced the present administration to attend "summit" conferences even when there was no proof in advance that anything would be agreed upon at such meetings.

The writings of Dean Rusk may or may not represent the views of Mr. Kennedy, but there is reason to believe they are acceptable in the main and that the President-elect, too, would rather not undertake personal negotiation. He would probably visit with the heads of other states, especially on occasions of a ceremonial nature when agreements already reached are ratified.

Dean Rusk served as an Assistant Secretary of State during the Truman administration. He has been out of the Department of State for eight years. He is not familiar with the details of the confidential negotiations that our government has had with other governments throughout the world. The same is true of the men now chosen to be his immediate subordinates—Chester Bowles as Under Secretary of State, and Adlai Stevenson as ambassador to the United Nations.

It will take many months for the background to be learned and for all the information which the CIA has collected to be absorbed. One would think that somehow the American system of government would before this have been modernized to permit an experienced official to be Under Secretary of State, so that he could make it his career and be able in a nonpartisan way to serve any administration that comes into power. In other Democratic countries they have such permanent under secretaries, and it makes the transition less risky. Dean Rusk wrote in that same article several months ago:

"A Presidential system cannot easily adjust to an interregnum, a nation moving with such great mass and velocity needs the engineer at the throttle."

The quotation was in reference to the need for a President to stay on the job instead of traveling constantly to foreign countries, but the advice applies equally to a system of government which gives a new Secretary of State a little more than 30 days to learn the inside story of what's really been going on in the "cold war."

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

LODGE RETURN?—The perilous times, as well as the perilously close election victory of Sen. John F. Kennedy, has turned his thinking to the need of Republican representation in his administration, particularly in the foreign policy and defense fields.

A number of persons in the sub-Cabinet level of the Eisenhower administration are being mentioned as possibilities to continue under the Kennedy regime, among them Deputy Secretary of State Douglas Dillon being the most prominent.

In recent days, however, a new proposal has been bandied about in Washington speculation. It is that Henry Cabot Lodge, the defeated Republican Vice Presidential candidate, be returned to his post as U. S. chief spokesman in the United Nations.

The proposal has several extremely attractive facets. First, it would demonstrate to the Russians, and the rest of the world, that the divisions of the political campaigns have been healed and cannot be exploited by the Communists.

Second, it would go a long way toward restoring true bi-partisanship in foreign affairs in Congress —the kind of non-political approach so sorely needed in legislation dealing with foreign aid, and defense.

Goldberg, As OSS Official, Replaced Female Spies With Labor Leaders

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — If you know the inside operations of Arthur Goldberg, counsel for the United Steelworkers, the United Auto Workers, and others, you can understand both why Jack Kennedy has wanted him for Secretary of Labor and why old guard labor leaders have opposed him.

Early in the war, Goldberg was plucked out of the University of Chicago Law School by Chicago attorney George Bowden to start a new OSS school of wartime espionage. And it was Goldberg perhaps more than any other man who relegated the old school of female spies into the discard. Instead of Mata Haris, he used European labor leaders.

As the No. 1 labor member of the OSS under Gen. "Wild Bill" Donovan, Goldberg organized European seamen, train conductors, railroad brakemen so that he knew with amazing accuracy what was going on behind the enemy's lines.

The bargemen of the Rhine were in touch with the train conductors of the German and Swiss railroads under Goldberg's espionage network. And it operated so efficiently that intelligence was flashed to U. S. bombers in the air after they had left their bases in England as to where the barges on the Rhine were assembled.

According to General Donovan and others who worked with him, Goldberg deserved a share of credit for hastening the end of World War II.

Goldberg had been a labor attorney in Chicago prior to the war. Afterward he came to Washington as attorney for the CIO. As such he stepped on some old guard AFL toes. But when he argued the Taft-Hartley injunction against the steel strike last year — although he lost — he evoked the private comment from members of the U. S. Supreme Court that it was one of the most brilliant arguments ever presented before their court.

"Union Shop" For Steel

During that strike it was Goldberg who conducted the negotiations with Vice President Nixon, Secretary of Labor Mitchell, and Edgar Kaiser, later with other steel officials, which led to the strike's settlement.

One Goldberg idea which went into the final agreement was to set up a public committee to prevent steel strikes in the future. Goldberg proposed that this committee, representing the stockholders of the steel companies, the members of the union, and the public, should work out a formula regarding future wage and price adjustments so as to prevent costly strikes in the future.

This was well publicized. Not publicized, in fact almost secret, was another Goldberg victory — the "agency fee." This virtually amounted to the union shop and completely nullified the right-to-work laws which are aimed at nullifying the union shop.

The agency fee is an arrangement first adopted in Canada whereby the union is paid a fee by non-union men for acting as agent for them. Someone has to act for them and the union does so, even though they don't belong to the union. Actually the fee becomes the equivalent of union dues. And since it's collected by management the effect is to establish a union shop.

During the early part of the steel strike negotiations, U. S. Steel was flatly opposed to the agency fee. However, Goldberg, acting as attorney for the United Steelworkers, waited until the very last minute, then adroitly suggested to U. S. Steel vice president R. Conrad Cooper that the agency fee be included in the contract. He agreed. This was one of the greatest unsung victories scored by the steelworkers.

Bows To Kohler

However, Goldberg has not always won his labor battles.

When Rabbi Balfour Brickner was building a new temple in Washington, Goldberg, who is a member of that congregation, dropped around to look over the construction. To his amazement he noted that the toilet fixtures were made by the Kohler Company.

This is the Wisconsin plumbing fixture outfit which has been engaged in a bitter battle with the United Auto Workers for which Goldberg is attorney. Finally the National Labor Relations Board found that Kohler was in the wrong, the UAW in the right.

So as a member of the temple who had contributed money for its construction, Goldberg demanded to know why Rabbi Brickner was buying fixtures from one of the most labor-hated companies in the USA. Phil Pearl, a member of George Meany's staff, Stanley Ruttenberg, and other top labor leaders were members of the congregation. For a time it looked as if they would walk out.

Brickner, a brilliant young rabbi who held services for a long time in the National Cathedral (Episcopalian) because he had no temple of his own, explained that the building contract had been let to the lowest bidder, and the contractor, without consultation, had purchased Kohler fixtures. It would cost $30,000 to remove them. Goldberg bowed. It was one of the few times he has lost a labor dispute.

Kennedy's New Name

Someone has put Caroline, three-year-old daughter of the President-elect, up to tricks. They are tricks, however, that her father seems to relish.

The other day Kennedy was sitting with his close and perennial friend, Sen. George Smathers of Florida, when Caroline walked into the room with a gleam in her eye which indicated that she was going to try out something new.

"Hello, Mr. President," she addressed her father, then waited to see what his reaction was.

The reaction was good. Her father looked as if he would rather be called this by his daughter than by any statesman in the world.

But he also had a new name for his daughter.

"Hello, Button-Nose," he replied.

The Abundant Life

By John Crosby

The other day I saw a picture in "The New York Times" of three Peruvian Indians in their Andes highlands, looking frozen, under-nourished, and oddly beautiful. Underneath was the caption: "Between the majority and the minority is a social lag that may be measured in centuries, even millennia."

Lately Adlai Stevenson has written of South American cities with their beautiful central core surrounded, he points out, by their ring of awful slums. He is a great walker in distant slums, Gov. Stevenson, and smeller of foreign smells. It is assumed by all good liberals that what is offensive to Gov. Stevenson's nostrils is offensive to the local inhabitants and maybe even to God's.

The liberals are still obsessed with the idea that materialism is the answer to all the problems of underdeveloped countries. The white man has brought his material abundance (at least the beginnings of it) along with his spiritual impoverishment to Africa. He has inflicted the abundant life all over the South Pacific, wrecking a way of life that was an almost perfect balance of physical, emotional, and spiritual needs. Now he proposes to bring it to South America.

We will take these three frigid, undernourished Indians and build them—as we built in Nairobi in British East Africa—squalid native huts that are not quite warm. We will take away the children's ability to withstand cold and implant a desire for television. We'll take away their superstitions and make Baptists of them and give them an endless supply of Rock Hudson.

Sometimes I think the liberals haven't re-examined their basic assumptions since the days of Lincoln Steffens. Much of what Lincoln Steffens deplored has been torn away and replaced by visionary social edifice. Except what he would have considered a that it hasn't worked out that way. You can't blame Steffens because he had only theories to work with but you can blame your contemporary liberal for ignoring the evidence at hand.

The effect of abundance has in lots of ways been crippling and terribly damaging to peoples. In fact, if the amount of unhappiness material abundance has brought any backward region were measured up against the amount of happiness, I don't think there'd be any contest. I am not a conservative. I believe social change should not be resisted and, further, should be actively implemented.

But violent social change is something else again and I think we as humans ought to think twice about the impact of violent social change on any peoples. If we are going to house and feed those three undernourished and frigid Peruvian Indians, let us be honest about it. The loss of their familiar physical surroundings, of their emotional and spiritual underpinnings, will make them infinitely more miserable than they are now. It will make their children insecure and less able to cope with their lives. It may make their grandchildren happier, certainly more comfortable.

Are we prepared to make two generations miserable to bring material well-being to the third generation? It's probably unavoidable but at least let's think about it in rounded terms. I have seen the impact of the white man with his penicillin and his insecticide in Africa where it has wrecked the balance of nature in some areas in a way that will never be repaired. The impact of abundance on the South Pacific is, of course, well known.

But we have examples closer to home. We have seen the bulldozers right here in Manhattan demolish the slums in favor of what the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company considers the splendor of Stuyvesant Town. Brownstone monotony has given way to brick monotony. The plumbing has improved and the buildings are higher. The little shops and the sidewalks have disappeared. Already the psychologists have discovered—why it came as a shock I'll never know—that the loss of the familiar small shops, the poolrooms, the front stoops, the corner cigar store, and above all the human scale, was an emotional loss that the shiny bathtubs didn't begin to replace.

It has taken the medical profession 5,000 years to find out that nature should be meddled with only at your peril, that the flesh should be treated with the utmost reverence in any operation, and that operations should be avoided if humanly possible, that any cutting into the body involves some loss. We have yet to acquire the same reverence for the body politic. All change — no matter how obviously helpful—hurts the body politic in some way, starves it, withers some part of it. For milennia, primitive peoples have lived out their lives in ancient tribal patterns. Civilization is about to descend on them, filling their stomachs and emptying their souls, but let's, for God's sake, not be smug about it.

Primitive 'Natural' Discipline Is Effective

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

The Arawak Indians never spank their children. They rely upon natural discipline and avoid those traps of civilization that lead to everlasting and ineffective nagging, scolding, fuming, and fussing. It is a positive approach in which the child is coddled until weaned; from that time on, he is taught manners and how to behave like an adult.

According to Dr. Frederick W. Dershimer, the parents don't attempt to sell their children on the idea that people are wiser than nature and can improve on natural laws. There is no such thing as "Mother knows best"; hence, no bickering at the dinner table when the plate is not cleaned or Pedro does not feel like drinking his milk.

When the tots learn to walk they are allowed to wander to the river or into the forest. But they are watched carefully and protected against drowning. The little ones are not criticized for getting wet.

Dr. Dershimer has seen 2 year olds swimming in deep water. The youngsters are not kept in a state of confusion by interminable warnings to be careful.

Young boys are given miniature —but real—bows and arrows and do as they please but seldom get into trouble.

The parents assume the attitude that the child is born with full intelligence but lacks the tools to demonstrate it. The youngster's potential is developed instead of enslaving his mind or making him a puppet like an animal in a circus act.

Arawak children learn to use language as early as possible, often during the second year. Essential information can be transmitted in this way. The youngsters do very little yelling, screaming, and irritating their parents. The grownups behave in the same way toward their offspring.

TOMORROW: Seeing red, and plant dermatitis.

FLATFOOTED DAUGHTER

M. L. writes: My daughter suffers from fallen metatarsals. Is there any way she can strengthen the feet by exercise or other measures? Arch supports do not help at all.

REPLY

Fallen metatarsals is a fancy term for flat feet. Arch supports should help temporarily provided they are inserted in the right place. The easiest exercises are to pick up marbles with the toes and raise and lower the body by standing on the toes. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on fallen arches.

MINIMAL SUSTENANCE

J. H. writes: What is the minimum amount of food a man can eat and maintain health?

REPLY

I know of no statistics along this line. Furthermore, minimal requirements vary with age, sex, activity, climate, height, and body build.

COLD OR ALLERGY

F. B. writes: How can you decide whether the sniffles are due to a cold or to allergy?

REPLY

The physician usually can differentiate the two by examining the nose and studying the nasal secretions under a microscope.

CHEMICAL TREATMENT

R. J. writes: What is chemotherapy?

REPLY

Treatment with chemicals in contrast, for example, to physical therapy which includes massage and the use of agents such as heat and electricity.

CLOSING A PERFORATION

D. F. writes: Is operation necessary if a duodenial ulcer perforates?

REPLY

Yes, because the stomach contents will continue to escape into the abdominal cavity unless the hole is closed. Sometimes a small opening will seal itself.

MOLE SHADES

W. P. writes: Does a mole have to be dark or can it be flesh colored?

REPLY

Moles range in color from pink to black. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on moles.

To the limit of space questions pertinent to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

A Caspar Milquetoast came home jubilant from his latest salary discussion with the boss. "No vague promises this time," he told his wife happily. "I definitely get my raise when Hell freezes over."

Elmer Leterman, one of the busiest of insurance salesmen, has a tip for young men who would like to emulate his success: "The man whose pants wear out before his shoes is making too many contacts in the wrong place."

Never-the-twain-shall-meet department:

Notice to candidates for final examinations in medicine: In London: Candidates must write on only one side of the paper. In Edinburgh: Candidates must write on both sides of the paper.

The victim was unconscious for several hours after they picked him out of the wreckage of his runabout, but finally was able to explain what had happened: "I drove through two red lights. They were on the back of a big truck."

Goldberg, As OSS Official, Replaced Female Spies With Labor Leaders

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — If you know the inside operations of Arthur Goldberg, counsel for the United Steelworkers, the United Auto Workers, and others, you can understand both why Jack Kennedy has wanted him for Secretary of Labor and why old guard labor leaders have opposed him.

Early in the war, Goldberg was plucked out of the University of Chicago Law School by Chicago attorney George Bowden to start a new OSS school of wartime espionage. And it was Goldberg perhaps more than any other man who relegated the old school of female spies into the discard. Instead of Mata Haris, he used European labor leaders.

As the No. 1 labor member of the OSS under Gen. "Wild Bill" Donovan, Goldberg organized European seamen, train conductors, railroad brakemen so that he knew with amazing accuracy what was going on behind the enemy's lines.

The bargemen of the Rhine were in touch with the train conductors of the German and Swiss railroads under Goldberg's espionage network. And it operated so efficiently that intelligence was flashed to U. S. bombers in the air after they had left their bases in England as to where the barges on the Rhine were assembled.

According to General Donovan and others who worked with him, Goldberg deserved a share of credit for hastening the end of World War II.

Goldberg had been a labor attorney in Chicago prior to the war. Afterward he came to Washington as attorney for the CIO. As such he stepped on some old guard AFL toes. But when he argued the Taft-Hartley injunction against the steel strike last year — although he lost — he evoked the private comment from members of the U. S. Supreme Court that it was one of the most brilliant arguments ever presented before their court.

"Union Shop" For Steel

During that strike it was Goldberg who conducted the negotiations with Vice President Nixon, Secretary of Labor Mitchell, and Edgar Kaiser, later with other steel officials, which led to the strike's settlement.

One Goldberg idea which went into the final agreement was to set up a public committee to prevent steel strikes in the future. Goldberg proposed that this committee, representing the stockholders of the steel companies, the members of the union, and the public, should work out a formula regarding future wage and price adjustments so as to prevent costly strikes in the future.

This was well publicized. Not publicized, in fact almost secret, was another Goldberg victory — the "agency fee." This virtually amounted to the union shop and completely nullified the right-to-work laws which are aimed at nullifying the union shop.

The agency fee is an arrangement first adopted in Canada whereby the union is paid a fee by non-union men for acting as agent for them. Someone has to act for them and the union does so, even though they don't belong to the union. Actually the fee becomes the equivalent of union dues. And since it's collected by management the effect is to establish a union shop.

During the early part of the steel strike negotiations, U. S. Steel was flatly opposed to the agency fee. However, Goldberg, acting as attorney for the United Steelworkers, waited until the very last minute, then adroitly suggested to U. S. Steel vice president R. Conrad Cooper that the agency fee be included in the contract. He agreed. This was one of the greatest unsung victories scored by the steelworkers.

Bows To Kohler

However, Goldberg has not always won his labor battles.

When Rabbi Balfour Brickner was building a new temple in Washington, Goldberg, who is a member of that congregation, dropped around to look over the construction. To his amazement he noted that the toilet fixtures were made by the Kohler Company.

This is the Wisconsin plumbing fixture outfit which has been engaged in a bitter battle with the United Auto Workers for which Goldberg is attorney. Finally the National Labor Relations Board found that Kohler was in the wrong, the UAW in the right.

So as a member of the temple who had contributed money for its construction, Goldberg demanded to know why Rabbi Brickner was buying fixtures from one of the most labor-hated companies in the USA. Phil Pearl, a member of George Meany's staff, Stanley Ruttenberg, and other top labor leaders were members of the congregation. For a time it looked as if they would walk out.

Brickner, a brilliant young rabbi who held services for a long time in the National Cathedral (Episcopalian) because he had no temple of his own, explained that the building contract had been let to the lowest bidder, and the contractor, without consultation, had purchased Kohler fixtures. It would cost $30,000 to remove them. Goldberg bowed. It was one of the few times he has lost a labor dispute.

Kennedy's New Name

Someone has put Caroline, three-year-old daughter of the President-elect, up to tricks. They are tricks, however, that her father seems to relish.

The other day Kennedy was sitting with his close and perennial friend, Sen. George Smathers of Florida, when Caroline walked into the room with a gleam in her eye which indicated that she was going to try out something new.

"Hello, Mr. President," she addressed her father, then waited to see what his reaction was.

The reaction was good. Her father looked as if he would rather be called this by his daughter than by any statesman in the world.

But he also had a new name for his daughter.

"Hello, Button-Nose," he replied.

Rusk Doesn't Believe In Summit Conferences

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Dean Rusk, who has been selected to be Secretary of State, doesn't believe in "summit" conferences for the President of the United States. He doesn't think the Chief Executive should spend his time in personal negotiation abroad or anywhere else. Mr. Rusk in a lecture early this year, which was published in "Foreign Affairs," said:

"If he (Mr. Khrushchev) insists upon having a foreign minister to whom he does not wish to give his confidence, is he to impose the same ignominious status upon the Secretary of State of the United States? Can we not insist that it is up to each nation to determine for itself who its highest ranking negotiator is to be? Or cannot Mr. Khrushchev find even one high-ranking colleague whom he can trust to represent him loyally and effectively?"

Mr. Rusk says, moreover, that a President cannot really take the time to prepare beforehand for a "summit" conference and that "the experienced diplomat will usually counsel against the direct confrontation of those with final authority." He adds:

"Negotiation ad referendum (by referring matters as they arise to a superior officer) offers greater opportunity for feeling out the situation, exploring opposing points of view, trying out alternative approaches without commitment, testing general propositions by meticulous attention to detail. The process needs time, patience and precision, three resources which are not found in abundance at the highest political level.

"The direct confrontation of the chiefs of government of the great powers involves an extra tension because the court of last resort is in session. The costs of error or misunderstanding are multiplied by the seriousness of the issues and the power of those present."

The foregoing views were set forth before the breakup of the "summit" conference at Paris last May. The ideas are not new. They were expressed in these dispatches again and again since 1955, when the first "summit" conference at Geneva was being played up as the best way to deal with the Communist regime in Moscow. But the arguments in opposition were lost in a wave of comments from the leading Democrats on Capitol Hill, as well as some Republicans, who insisted that negotiation was imperative and that anyone who refused to meet with the top officials of other governments was politically on dangerous ground, for it presumably meant he was opposed to making peace.

Mr. Eisenhower followed the trend of public opinion as he said repeatedly that he would go anywhere in the world to advance the cause of peace. The fallacy was that the device really helped build up the prestige of Nikita Khrushchev, and didn't help to bring peace. The Soviet Premier was merely afforded an opportunity for propaganda and theatrics.

Repeatedly it was asserted in government circles here that there would be no "summit" conferences until adequate preparation had been made. This was the viewpoint of the late John Foster Dulles, but the critics shouted him down and forced the present administration to attend "summit" conferences even when there was no proof in advance that anything would be agreed upon at such meetings.

The writings of Dean Rusk may or may not represent the views of Mr. Kennedy, but there is reason to believe they are acceptable in the main and that the President-elect, too, would rather not undertake personal negotiation. He would probably visit with the heads of other states, especially on occasions of a ceremonial nature when agreements already reached are ratified.

Dean Rusk served as an Assistant Secretary of State during the Truman administration. He has been out of the Department of State for eight years. He is not familiar with the details of the confidential negotiations that our government has had with other governments throughout the world. The same is true of the men now chosen to be his immediate subordinates—Chester Bowles as Under Secretary of State, and Adlai Stevenson as ambassador to the United Nations.

It will take many months for the background to be learned and for all the information which the CIA has collected to be absorbed. One would think that somehow the American system of government would before this have been modernized to permit an experienced official to be Under Secretary of State, so that he could make it his career and be able in a nonpartisan way to serve any administration that comes into power. In other Democratic countries they have such permanent under secretaries, and it makes the transition less risky. Dean Rusk wrote in that same article several months ago:

"A Presidential system cannot easily adjust to an interregnum, a nation moving with such great mass and velocity needs the engineer at the throttle."

The quotation was in reference to the need for a President to stay on the job instead of traveling constantly to foreign countries, but the advice applies equally to a system of government which gives a new Secretary of State a little more than 30 days to learn the inside story of what's really been going on in the "cold war."

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

LODGE RETURN?—The perilous times, as well as the perilously close election victory of Sen. John F. Kennedy, has turned his thinking to the need of Republican representation in his administration, particularly in the foreign policy and defense fields.

A number of persons in the sub-Cabinet level of the Eisenhower administration are being mentioned as possibilities to continue under the Kennedy regime, among them Deputy Secretary of State Douglas Dillon being the most prominent.

In recent days, however, a new proposal has been bandied about in Washington speculation. It is that Henry Cabot Lodge, the defeated Republican Vice Presidential candidate, be returned to his post as U. S. chief spokesman in the United Nations.

The proposal has several extremely attractive facets. First, it would demonstrate to the Russians, and the rest of the world, that the divisions of the political campaigns have been healed and cannot be exploited by the Communists.

Second, it would go a long way toward restoring true bi-partisanship in foreign affairs in Congress—the kind of non-political approach so sorely needed in legislation dealing with foreign affairs, foreign aid, and defense.

Primitive 'Natural' Discipline Is Effective

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

The Arawak Indians never spank their children. They rely upon natural discipline and avoid those traps of civilization that lead to everlasting and ineffective nagging, scolding, fuming, and fussing. It is a positive approach in which the child is coddled until weaned; from that time on, he is taught manners and how to behave like an adult.

According to Dr. Frederick W. Dershimer, the parents don't attempt to sell their children on the idea that people are wiser than nature and can improve on natural laws. There is no such thing as "Mother knows best"; hence, no bickering at the dinner table when the plate is not cleaned or Pedro does not feel like drinking his milk.

When the tots learn to walk they are allowed to wander to the river or into the forest. But they are watched carefully and protected against drowning. The little ones are not criticized for getting wet.

Dr. Dershimer has seen 2 year olds swimming in deep water. The youngsters are not kept in a state of confusion by interminable warnings to be careful.

Young boys are given miniature —but real—bows and arrows and do as they please but seldom get into trouble.

The parents assume the attitude that the child is born with full intelligence but lacks the tools to demonstrate it. The youngster's potential is developed instead of enslaving his mind or making him a puppet like an animal in a circus act.

Arawak children learn to use language as early as possible, often during the second year. Essential information can be transmitted in this way. The youngsters do very little yelling, screaming, and irritating their parents. The grownups behave in the same way toward their offspring.

TOMORROW: Seeing red, and plant dermatitis.

FLATFOOTED DAUGHTER

M. L. writes: My daughter suffers from fallen metatarsals. Is there any way she can strengthen the feet by exercise or other measures? Arch supports do not help at all.

REPLY

Fallen metatarsals is a fancy term for flat feet. Arch supports should help temporarily provided they are inserted in the right place. The easiest exercises are to pick up marbles with the toes and raise and lower the body by standing on the toes. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on fallen arches.

MINIMAL SUSTENANCE

J. H. writes: What is the minimum amount of food a man can eat and maintain health?

REPLY

I know of no statistics along this line. Furthermore, minimal requirements vary with age, sex, activity, climate, height, and body build.

COLD OR ALLERGY

F. B. writes: How can you decide whether the sniffles are due to a cold or to allergy?

REPLY

The physician usually can differentiate the two by examining the nose and studying the nasal secretions under a microscope.

CHEMICAL TREATMENT

R. J. writes: What is chemotherapy?

REPLY

Treatment with chemicals in contrast, for example, to physical therapy which includes massage and the use of agents such as heat and electricity.

CLOSING A PERFORATION

D. F. writes: Is operation necessary if a duodenial ulcer perforates?

REPLY

Yes, because the stomach contents will continue to escape into the abdominal cavity unless the hole is closed. Sometimes a small opening will seal itself.

MOLE SHADES

W. P. writes: Does a mole have to be dark or can it be flesh colored?

REPLY

Moles range in color from pink to black. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on moles.

To the limit of space questions pertinent to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

The Abundant Life

By John Crosby

The other day I saw a picture in "The New York Times" of three Peruvian Indians in their Andes highlands, looking frozen, under-nourished, and oddly beautiful. Underneath was the caption: "Between the majority and the minority is a social lag that may be measured in centuries, even millennia."

Lately Adlai Stevenson has written of South American cities with their beautiful central core surrounded, he points out, by their ring of awful slums. He is a great walker in distant slums, Gov. Stevenson, and smeller of foreign smells. It is assumed by all good liberals that what is offensive to Gov. Stevenson's nostrils is offensive to the local inhabitants and maybe even to God's.

The liberals are still obsessed with the idea that materialism is the answer to all the problems of underdeveloped countries. The white man has brought his material abundance (at least the beginnings of it) along with his spiritual impoverishment to Africa. He has inflicted the abundant life all over the South Pacific, wrecking a way of life that was an almost perfect balance of physical, emotional, and spiritual needs. Now he proposes to bring it to South America.

We will take these three frigid, undernourished Indians and build them—as we built in Nairobi in British East Africa—squalid native huts that are not quite warm. We will take away the children's ability to withstand cold and implant a desire for television. We'll take away their superstitions and make Baptists of them and give them an endless supply of Rock Hudson.

Sometimes I think the liberals haven't re-examined their basic assumptions since the days of Lincoln Steffens. Much of what Lincoln Steffens deplored has been torn away and replaced by visionary social edifice. Except what he would have considered a that it hasn't worked out that way. You can't blame Steffens because he had only theories to work with but you can blame your contemporary liberal for ignoring the evidence at hand.

The effect of abundance has in lots of ways been crippling and terribly damaging to peoples. In fact, if the amount of unhappiness material abundance has brought any backward region were measured up against the amount of happiness, I don't think there'd be any contest. I am not a conservative. I believe social change should not be resisted and, further, should be actively implemented.

But violent social change is something else again and I think we as humans ought to think twice about the impact of violent social change on any peoples. If we are going to house and feed those three undernourished and frigid Peruvian Indians, let us be honest about it. The loss of their familiar physical surroundings, of their emotional and spiritual underpinnings, will make them infinitely more miserable than they are now. It will make their children insecure and less able to cope with their lives. It may make their grandchildren happier, certainly more comfortable.

Are we prepared to make two generations miserable to bring material well-being to the third generation? It's probably unavoidable but at least let's think about it in rounded terms. I have seen the impact of the white man with his penicillin and his insecticide in Africa where it has wrecked the balance of nature in some areas in a way that will never be repaired. The impact of abundance on the South Pacific is, of course, well known.

But we have examples closer to home. We have seen the bulldozers right here in Manhattan demolish the slums in favor of what the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company considers the splendor of Stuyvesant Town. Brownstone monotony has given way to brick monotony. The plumbing has improved and the buildings are higher. The little shops and the sidewalks have disappeared. Already the psychologists have discovered—why it came as a shock I'll never know—that the loss of the familiar small shops, the poolrooms, the front stoops, the corner cigar store, and above all the human scale, was an emotional loss that the shiny bathtubs didn't begin to replace.

It has taken the medical profession 5,000 years to find out that nature should be meddled with only at your peril, that the flesh should be treated with the utmost reverence in any operation, and that operations should be avoided if humanly possible, that any cutting into the body involves some loss. We have yet to acquire the same reverence for the body politic. All change — no matter how obviously helpful—hurts the body politic in some way, starves it, withers some part of it. For milennia, primitive peoples have lived out their lives in ancient tribal patterns. Civilization is about to descend on them, filling their stomachs and emptying their souls, but let's, for God's sake, not be smug about it.

You're Telling Me

By William Ritt

Termites, we read, are actually very stupid creatures. We agree—since the dumb little creatures are always eating themselves out of house and home.

George Washington's second inaugural address is the shortest on record. Further proof how great a man he really was!

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD—Pain - ridden though Jerry Wald was with sciatic rheumatism, he told me at Merle Oberon's cocktail party for Douglas Fairbanks that he has signed Mary Astor for the mother role that was first supposed to belong to Joan Crawford and later to Bette Davis in 'Return to Peyton Place."

"Look's like you're all set now," I told him.

"Well, just today Mel Ferrer said he couldn't play Carol Lynley's stepfather, but we are lucky enough to get Robert Sterling who hasn't made a movie in 10 years," Jerry told me.

While we talked, Jerry winced with pain, but he's at the studio working hard. He was still at Merle's when I left, although Connie Mrs. W. was begging him to go home and get to bed.

Young Paul Anka was snowed in at his home in Tenafly, N.J., so he's had plenty of time to read the script of "Fists against the World" which William Allen sent him.

He said over the long-distance telephone he made "Look in Any Window" for Allen, and if he can work it in he would like to do Allen's second picture.

Paul gets here the afternoon of Jan. 14 and that very night opens at the Cocoanut Grove. He sent me his new record and it's good listening and will make him even stronger with his young fans.

The thing I like best about Burt Lancaster is his enthusiasm. He never makes a picture that he doesn't live the character.

Burt and his pretty blonde wife Norma were at Ruth Waterbury's birthday party given by Muff and Charlie Brackett. He told me about all the troubles he's having making "Birdman of Alcatraz," the life story of Robert Stroud, who has been in prison for over 50 years. Burt has made an exhaustive study of our penal system and he feels Stroud, who has educated himself and written many books on bird science which are used in universities, is entitled to another hearing.

The beautiful new home of Merle Oberon and Bruno Pagliai is a perfect place to entertain, and was much admired. Merle's cocktail party for Douglas Fairbanks brought out many of Doug's old friends.

Doug, who looks so well, carried with him pictures of his daughter Daphne's wedding and proudly showed them. He told me that he has never seen Mary Pickford as charming as she was when she received the award as "Man of the Year" from the B'nai B'rith.

Said Doug, "thirty years to the day, on my 21st birthday, Mary presented me with my first evening studs—pearls, and I wore them. She was so touched and pleased."

A real romance that has been brewing quietly for months is that of Ava Gardner and Gene Norman, owner of the Crescendo. Gene is on his way to Spain to spend Christmas and New Year's with Ava. When she was here a few months ago, she saw Gene every night, but it was then put down to an old friendship.

I can tell you it's more than just a mere friendship. They are in love and someone very close to both of them say it could very well mean that the glamorous, attractive Ava will change her name, and marry Gene, who has plenty of money to take care of her if she still wants to retire.

Just heard from Joe Levine who says that at long last he's finally been sprung from the hospital. "Just got home," says Joe, "and I want you to know that Vittorio de Sica will join Donald O'Connor and Noelle Adams in 'Wonders of Aladdin.'

"I first approached De Sica during the making of 'Two Women,' which we will open in this country in February, but I just got a 'yes' from him. Henry Levin began filming 'Aladdin' today, 60 miles north of Tunis, and as soon as the doctors will let me I'll be over there." And I bet he will!

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Ski Styles Are Practical—Pretty

Winsome winter sports fashions can prevent abominable agony during your outdoor expeditions. They'll save your hands, your legs, your complexion, your eyes and your hair . . . and certainly your health. They are all-around beauty-guards . . . but the accent is on beauty while you ski, skate, sled . . . or simply shop.

Hoods and helmets head the list of "must" features in sensible snow-gear, whether they're skin-tight knits embroidered in Swedish motifs or cosily lined in fur, real or fake. You'll like the fur colors, brighter and bolder than ever—purple, blue, red, green—to mate with mittens, jackets or ski-pants. The best thermostats among hoods can be unzipped when weather thaws, to fall over the shoulders in a huge collar or capelet.

Snow-hats with wide brims or visors, some very dressy, are designed to deflect damaging snow-glare. But, for double protection, wear sun-glasses anyway during all your winter outings.

Overbundling isn't necessary now that manmade fabrics offer plenty of lightweight insulation. Designers employing such materials have been equally considerate in allowing lots of room for action with their loose-fitting jackets, tunics and ponchos. Those capacious bulky knit sweaters also make excellent outer jackets.

Fantastic knit masks, covering all or most of supersensitive forehead, nose, cheek and chin, are still just as fashionable and fun to wear as they are face-saving. Many women are able to knit their own (and smaller replicas for their children.) Masks constructed of jersey or felt, gaily colored or decorated, of course are just as effective in shielding off the sting on blustery days.

If your face DOES suffer from frosting, treat it gently, using the ways I describe in my booklet, "Secrets of Skin Care." With 10c and a stamped-addressed envelope, your request to me c/o this newspaper will be filled in approximately two weeks.

Every year, it seems, snow styles become handsomer, more versatile, more sensible . . . and more customary for the casual everyday activities of suburban or country living. It's not just resorting skiiers and skaters who want to be warm . . . and want a costume more stimulating to snowbound spirits than an old nondescript overcoat and babushka. I echo any efforts to tempt woman away from THEM!

So, don't pass up the ski-styles next time you shop for something to keep you from shivering. Then, dare a grey tomorrow to make you feel drab!

Durante Weds Ex-Showgirl; 600 Attend Ceremony

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Broadway guy and his gal got spliced Tuesday, after 16 years of going steady.

James Francis Durante, one of the most lovable clowns who ever lived and beloved by his native New York from Coney Island to Throggs Neck, married former showgirl Margaret Alice Little in St. Malachy's Church in the Broadway theatrical district.

Across the street a sign proclaimed that the play "The Hostage" was running, but that didn't seem to worry Jimmy. He got to the church not only on time, but 35 minutes ahead of time.

Told that about 600 persons had gathered in the downstairs "Catholic Actors' Chapel," he said simply:

"I thought there'd be nobody here."

Asked how he felt about getting married, he wobbled his head, flapped his arms, and said: "Hah!"

The new Mrs. Durante is 40 Durante will be 68 next Feb. 10. This was the fourth time in the last 10 years they had announced they would be married. This time it stuck. Asked how come it all happened so suddenly, Durante replied:

"Well, there was a lotta intrigue and a lotta determination on her part — and it just happened, that's all."

Durante was married in the same chapel in 1921 to Maud Jeanne Olson. She died in 1943. Although Durante never has admitted it, it has been widely presumed—and published as fact—that she was the "Mrs. Calabash" of the famous sign-off he used on his television programs: 'Goodnight, Mrs. Calabash, wherever you are."

The bride Wednesday, wearing a beige gown, carried a white flower bouquet. In the audience were two of Durante's old buddies, Jack Dempsey, the former heavy weight boxing champion, and orchestra leader Vincent Lopez.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD—Pain - ridden though Jerry Wald was with sciatic rheumatism, he told me at Merle Oberon's cocktail party for Douglas Fairbanks that he has signed Mary Astor for the mother role that was first supposed to belong to Joan Crawford and later to Bette Davis in 'Return to Peyton Place.'

"Look's like you're all set now," I told him.

"Well, just today Mel Ferrer said he couldn't play Carol Lynley's stepfather, but we are lucky enough to get Robert Sterling who hasn't made a movie in 10 years," Jerry told me.

While we talked, Jerry winced with pain, but he's at the studio working hard. He was still at Merle's when I left, although Connie Mrs. W. was begging him to go home and get to bed.

Young Paul Anka was snowed in at his home in Tenafly, N.J., so he's had plenty of time to read the script of "Fists against the World" which William Allen sent him.

He said over the long-distance telephone he made "Look in Any Window" for Allen, and if he can work it in he would like to do Allen's second picture.

Paul gets here the afternoon of Jan. 14 and that very night opens at the Cocoanut Grove. He sent me his new record and it's good listening and will make him even stronger with his young fans.

The thing I like best about Burt Lancaster is his enthusiasm. He never makes a picture that he doesn't live the character.

Burt and his pretty blonde wife Norma were at Ruth Waterbury's birthday party given by Muff and Charlie Brackett. He told me about all the troubles he's having making "Birdman of Alcatraz," the life story of Robert Stroud, who has been in prison for over 50 years. Burt has made an exhaustive study of our penal system and he feels Stroud, who has educated himself and written many books on bird science which are used in universities, is entitled to another hearing.

The beautiful new home of Merle Oberon and Bruno Pagliai is a perfect place to entertain, and was much admired. Merle's cocktail party for Douglas Fairbanks brought out many of Doug's old friends.

Doug, who looks so well, carried with him pictures of his daughter Daphne's wedding and proudly showed them. He told me that he has never seen Mary Pickford as charming as she was when she received the award as "Man of the Year" from the B'nai B'rith.

Said Doug, "thirty years to the day, on my 21st birthday, Mary presented me with my first evening studs—pearls, and I wore them. She was so touched and pleased."

A real romance that has been brewing quietly for months is that of Ava Gardner and Gene Norman, owner of the Crescendo. Gene is on his way to Spain to spend Christmas and New Year's with Ava. When she was here a few months ago, she saw Gene every night, but it was then put down to an old friendship.

I can tell you it's more than just a mere friendship. They are in love and someone very close to both of them say it could very well mean that the glamorous, attractive Ava will change her name, and marry Gene, who has plenty of money to take care of her if she still wants to retire.

Just heard 'rom Joe Levine who says that at long last he's finally been sprung from the hospital. "Just got home," says Joe, "and I want you to know that Vittorio de Sica will join Donald O'Connor and Noelle Adams in 'Wonders of Aladdin.'

"I first approached De Sica during the making of 'Two Women,' which we will open in this country in February, but I just got a 'yes' from him. Henry Levin began filming 'Aladdin' today, 60 miles north of Tunis, and as soon as the doctors will let me I'll be over there." And I bet he will!

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Ski Styles Are Practical—Pretty

Winsome winter sports fashions can prevent abominable agony during your outdoor expeditions. They'll save your hands, your legs, your complexion, your eyes and your hair . . . and certainly your health. They are all-around beauty-guards . . . but the accent is on beauty while you ski, skate, sled . . . or simply shop.

Hoods and helmets head the list of "must" features in sensible snow-gear, whether they're skin-tight knits embroidered in Swedish motifs or cosily lined in fur, real or fake. You'll like the fur colors, brighter and bolder than ever—purple, blue, red, green—to mate with mittens, jackets or ski-pants. The best thermostats among hoods can be unzipped when weather thaws, to fall over the shoulders in a huge collar or capelet.

Snow-hats with wide brims or visors, some very dressy, are designed to deflect damaging snow-glare. But, for double protection, wear sun-glasses anyway during all your winter outings.

Overbundling isn't necessary now that manmade fabrics offer plenty of lightweight insulation. Designers employing such materials have been equally considerate in allowing lots of room for action with their loose-fitting jackets, tunics and ponchos. Those capacious bulky knit sweaters also make excellent outer jackets.

Fantastic knit masks, covering all or most of supersensitive forehead, nose, cheek and chin, are still just as fashionable and fun to wear as they are face-saving. Many women are able to knit their own (and smaller replicas for their children.) Masks constructed of jersey or felt, gaily colored or decorated, of course are just as effective in shielding off the sting on blustery days.

If your face DOES suffer from frosting, treat it gently, using the ways I describe in my booklet, "Secrets of Skin Care." With 10c and a stamped-addressed envelope, your request to me c/o this newspaper will be filled in approximately two weeks.

Every year, it seems, snow styles become handsomer, more versatile, more sensible . . . and more customary for the casual everyday activities of suburban or country living. It's not just resorting skiiers and skaters who want to be warm . . . and want a costume more stimulating to snowbound spirits than an old nondescript overcoat and babushka. I echo any efforts to tempt woman away from THEM!

So, don't pass up the ski-styles next time you shop for something to keep you from shivering. Then, dare a grey tomorrow to make you feel drab!

Durante Weds Ex-Showgirl; 600 Attend Ceremony

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Broadway guy and his gal got spliced Tuesday, after 16 years of going steady.

James Francis Durante, one of the most lovable clowns who ever lived and beloved by his native New York from Coney Island to Throggs Neck, married former showgirl Margaret Alice Little in St. Malachy's Church in the Broadway theatrical district.

Across the street a sign proclaimed that the play "The Hostage" was running, but that didn't seem to worry Jimmy. He got to the church not only on time, but 35 minutes ahead of time.

Told that about 600 persons had gathered in the downstairs "Catholic Actors' Chapel," he said simply:

"I thought there'd be nobody here."

Asked how he felt about getting married, he wobbled his head, flapped his arms, and said: "Hah!"

The new Mrs. Durante is 40 Durante will be 68 next Feb. 10. This was the fourth time in the last 10 years they had announced they would be married. This time it stuck. Asked how come it all happened so suddenly, Durante replied:

"Well, there was a lotta intrigue and a lotta determination on her part — and it just happened, that's all."

Durante was married in the same chapel in 1921 to Maud Jeanne Olson. She died in 1943. Although Durante never has admitted it, it has been widely presumed—and published as fact—that she was the "Mrs. Calabash" of the famous sign-off he used on his television programs: 'Goodnight, Mrs. Calabash, wherever you are."

The bride Wednesday, wearing a beige gown, carried a white flower bouquet. In the audience were two of Durante's old buddies, Jack Dempsey, the former heavy weight boxing champion, and orchestra leader Vincent Lopez.

Dr. Fanti Tells Tri-Towns Club Of Fluoridation

Lions Arranging Kiddies Party

WESTERNPORT—Dr. Lawrence D. Fanti, Piedmont, a member of the Piedmont Rotary Club, was principal speaker at the dinner meeting of the Tri-Towns Lions Club in the recreation room of Mt. Calvary Lutheran Church.

He spoke in favor of the fluoridation program which the Rotary Club has already endorsed. The Lions Club will hear it discussed pro and con before they may make a decision.

Seven new members were inducted into the club by the Deputy District Governor, John Conway, Cumberland. The new members include Dr. William Lesh, Dr. Fanti, Marshall Wilson, Edmund D. Carney, Joseph J. Diaz, Harry R. McCulloh Jr., attorney, and Joseph E. Tresino. Final plans were made for the children's Christmas party to be held December 22.

Following the club meeting a zone meeting was held with Harry Bosley, Lonaconing, zone chairman region I, Mr. Conway and representatives from the Kitzmiller and Lonaconing clubs attending.

The local Lions are selling Christmas trees each afternoon and evening on the grounds of the Piedmont Swimming Pool, Orchard Street, Piedmont.

Presentations To Cubs Highlight Pack Meeting

MT. SAVAGE — Presentations featured the meeting of Cub Pack No. 50, in St. George's Episcopal parish house.

Matthew Long was presented five silver arrow heads and an assistant denner stripe by Cubmaster Harry Long. Denner stripes were also presented to Charles Hice Jr. Bobcat pins were awarded to Mrs. James Smith, Jack Skidmore and Mrs. Carl Neder, who in turn presented them to their sons, James Smith, Carl Skidmore and den son, Barry Witte.

Assistant Cubmaster Stewart Church presented scout handbooks to Richard Dunn and Randolph Aldridge, as the boys prepared to advance to Boy Scout troops.

Toys were collected as the pack's Christmas good will project and the older boys of the pack will go for pine with their dads and Cubmaster on December 17. This will be their part in helping with the holiday decorations of their sponsoring institution, St. George's Episcopal Church.

Den 3 gave a skit "It Could Happen At Your House" with Randy Aldridge, Rose Long, Harvey Hogamier and Jane Neder portraying two different attitudes toward Cub Scouting in the home.

Richard Green, James Robertson, Kenny Williams, Patrick Logsdon, Joseph Beal, Thomas Bolt and George Rice from Den 2 went "Away to Mars."

"Rocket to the Moon" was the skit presented by John Harr, Michael Carter and Matthew Long of Den 1 as they captured moon creatures. Donald and Richard Dunn and Kenneth Martin, Charles Hice was the newscaster.

The committee and leaders' planning meeting will be held Thursday, December 29 at 7:30 p. m. in St. George's parish hall. The pack's Christmas party and pack meeting will be held January 2.

The names of 36 adults and boys of the pack were sent to the Scout Commemorative Tribute.

Mt. Savage Pupils Present Yuletide Program Tonight

MT. SAVAGE — A Christmas program will be presented tonight at 7:30 o'clock in the auditorium of the Mt. Savage School by the elementary pupils.

The primary department's act will be "Santa's Substitute." First grade girls will portray toy ducks in a song and dance. First grade boys will do songs and drills as wooden soldiers and jack-in-the-boxes.

Second grade children will dance and sing as baby dolls and cookies. Other first and second grade boys and girls will portray teddy bears and toy tops by songs and dances.

Third grade students will portray clowns, jugglers and kangaroos.

Speaking roles will include Mrs. Santa Claus, Janice Keene; Santa Claus, David Weidener; brownies, Linda Lepley, Charles Emerick, Donald Dunn and Michael Blank.

A group of third and fourth grade children will present an acrostic, "The Christmas Glow."

In the second part of the program the intermediate grades will present a playlet, "The Great Announcement," in which angels prepare and announce through choral readings, songs and musical instruments God's precious gift to the world.

Piedmont PTA Plans Programs

PIEDMONT — The Parent-Teacher Association has scheduled its next meeting for January 12 and its Founders Day program and dinner for February 9.

At the December meeting, a Christmas program was staged by students of the seventh grade of Piedmont Junior High School.

A letter was read from Tri-Towns Community Council asking for an invitation to send a representative of the council to the PTA to explain the council's purpose and objectives.

Mrs. Robert Kilroy, president, said the invitation will be extended for the March meeting.

Refreshments were served by the mothers of the ninth and tenth grades.

Mt. Savage D of A Elects Officers

MT. SAVAGE — Mrs. Thomas Adams has been elected councilor of the Mt. Savage Daughters of America.

Named to serve with her are Mrs. Annie Murray, associate councilor; Mrs. Pearl Walsh, vice councilor; Mrs. Grace Beal, associate vice councilor; Mrs. Margaret Wade, conductor; Mrs. Leona Dickel, warden; Mrs. Laura Smith, treasurer; Mrs. Thelma Uhl, financial secretary; Mrs. Hazel Swauger, recording secretary; Mrs. Evelyn Blank, inside sentinel; Margaret Wade, outside sentinel and Mrs. Nellie Hook, trustee.

After a business meeting and the election, held in the Junior Order hall, a jingle party was held. Plans are being made for the installation of officers at the next regular meeting on January 13.

Scouts To Speak At Rotary Meeting

LONACONING — John Keyes and Angus Park, Explorer Scouts of Lonaconing, will give talks this evening at the meeting of the Lonaconing Rotary Club in the VFW home. They will report on their visit to the Tri-Valley District Senior Co-Ed Council, at Camp Rockwood, national Girl Scout camp near Bethesra.

Robert Hadley, Boy Scout adult advisor is program chairman for the Rotarian's meeting.

Jerry Winner, president of the Student Council at Valley High School and James Mowbray, president of the Senior Class there, will be guests at the dinner meeting.

Temple Arranges Yuletide Party

FROSTBURG — Calanthe Temple No. 3, Pythian Sisters will hold their Christmas party Friday at 6 p. m. at the Junior Hall, Broadway. Each member is asked to bring a place setting and also one for a guest if they bring one. Jingle gifts will be exchanged.

AOH Served Turkey Dinner

MT. SAVAGE — Members of the Ancient Order of Hibernians were served a turkey dinner by members of the Ladies Auxiliary of the Mt. Savage Fire Company at the fire hall. Approximately 35 members attended. After the dinner games were played and jingle presents were distributed.

The annual congregational meeting is planned for Thursday January 12 at 7:30 p. m. in the church.

Club Sponsors Nativity Scene

PIEDMONT—The colored lights in the business area of the community and the Community Christmas tree and Nativity scene with lights have been turned on located in parking lot I at the intersection of Ashfield and Third streets.

The Nativity scene, added this year, has been erected in front of the Community Christmas tree It is sponsored by the Piedmont Woman's Club with other local organizations aiding in the cost of it. The Piedmont Woman's Club accepted the project at the suggestion of the scene by the Tri-Towns Community Council.

Christmas Music Mission Theme

FROSTBURG — "How To Make Christmas Music" was the theme of the missionary meeting at St. Paul's Lutheran Church a recent evening. Mrs. Clifford Crowe was in charge of the program with Catherine Hohing as pianist. Vivian Lloyd, Bertha Geis, and Elizabeth Boyer participated in the program. Mrs. James Close was in charge of the meeting.

Party Set Tonight

LONACONING — The Valley High School Boosters Club will hold its Christmas party today at 7:30 p. m. at the school.

Teen-Age Driver Demonstrates Neighbor Policy

FROSTBURG — A "Knight In Shining Armor" came to the aid of a "Damsel In Distress" a recent evening on Red Hill, between Frostburg and Cumberland, and an account of the "Knight's" deeds were forwarded to Frostburg State Teachers College by the "Damsel."

Emma Young, Cumberland, was on her way to Frostburg Saturday evening to attend a party in Frostburg when her car "conked" out on Red Hill. After seeing several cars go by one stopped that was being driven by a young man. He investigated the cause of the stoppage and when unable to find the trouble put out flares and drove Mrs. Young to a nearby garage. Mrs. Young endeavored to pay the youth, who gave his name as Gerald Huff, but payment was declined with the comment, "This aid was given through the courtesy of the T-Bird Club of Forstburg."

Mrs. Young wrote the above information in a letter to John Allison, FSTC advisor to the club which is made up of young men of the area, not necessarily students at the college, who are interested in good driving, courtesy and public service.

One of the objects of the club is to show that many of the so-called "teen age drivers" are not all reckless and unheedful of other motorists on the highway.

Births Announced At Miners Hospital

FROSTBURG—Two births have been announced at Miners Hospital:

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Wilhelm, Lonaconing, a daughter Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Lashbaugh, Bowery Street, a son Sunday.

Midland Personals

The year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. James Muir, Railroad Street is a patient in Memorial Hospital, Cumberland.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Custer and sons, Baltimore, visited his mother, Mrs. Catherine Quinn, Paradise Street.

Shrimp Feast

FROSTBURG—The Young Mens Republican Club and Auxiliary will sponsor a shrimp feast Friday from 9 p. m. to 12 p. m. The feast is open to the public.

Den Mothers Are Awarded Service Stars

FROSTBURG — The December pack meeting of Cub Scout Pack 30, sponsored by Thomas G. Pullen School was held under the direction of Cubmaster William Dishong.

A two-year service star was awarded den mother Betty Morton, and one-year service stars were awarded Hazel Robertson, Mary Jenkins, and Mary Hitchins who are still acting as Den Mothers and a one-year service star to Ruth Armstrong, retiring assistant of Den 3.

Silver arrowpoints on Wolf Badge went to Donald Lemmert, Jack Armstrong and Brock Jenkins.

Bear Badges were earned by Ronny Talley and George Pappas.

Dr. Fanti Tells Tri-Towns Club Of Fluoridation

Lions Arranging Kiddies Party

WESTERNPORT—Dr. Lawrence D. Fanti, Piedmont, a member of the Piedmont Rotary Club, was principal speaker at the dinner meeting of the Tri-Towns Lions Club in the recreation room of Mt. Calvary Lutheran Church.

He spoke in favor of the fluoridation program which the Rotary Club has already endorsed. The Lions Club will hear it discussed pro and con before they may make a decision.

Seven new members were inducted into the club by the Deputy District Governor, John Conway, Cumberland. The new members include Dr. William Lesh, Dr. Fanti, Marshall Wilson, Edmund D. Carney, Joseph J. Diaz, Harry R. McCulloh Jr., attorney, and Joseph E. Tresino. Final plans were made for the children's Christmas party to be held December 22.

Following the club meeting a zone meeting was held with Harry Bosley, Lonaconing, zone chairman region I, Mr. Conway and representatives from the Kitzmiller and Lonaconing clubs attending.

The local Lions are selling Christmas trees each afternoon and evening on the grounds of the Piedmont Swimming Pool, Orchard Street, Piedmont.

Presentations To Cubs Highlight Pack Meeting

MT. SAVAGE — Presentations featured the meeting of Cub Pack No. 50, in St. George's Episcopal parish house.

Matthew Long was presented five silver arrow heads and an assistant denner stripe by Cubmaster Harry Long. Denner stripes were also presented to Charles Hice Jr. Bobcat pins were awarded to Mrs. James Smith, Jack Skidmore and Mrs. Carl Neder, who in turn presented them to their sons, James Smith, Carl Skidmore and den son, Barry Witte.

Assistant Cubmaster Stewart Church presented scout handbooks to Richard Dunn and Randolph Aldridge, as the boys prepared to advance to Boy Scout troops.

Toys were collected as the pack's Christmas good will project and the older boys of the pack will go for pine with their dads and Cubmaster on December 17. This will be their part in helping with the holiday decorations of their sponsoring institution, St. George's Episcopal Church.

Den 3 gave a skit "It Could Happen At Your House" with Randy Aldridge, Rose Long, Harvey Hogamier and Jane Neder portraying two different attitudes toward Cub Scouting in the home.

Richard Green, James Robertson, Kenny Williams, Patrick Logsdon, Joseph Beal, Thomas Bolt and George Rice from Den 2 went "Away to Mars."

"Rocket to the Moon" was the skit presented by John Harr, Michael Carter and Matthew Long of Den 1 as they captured moon creatures. Donald and Richard Dunn and Kenneth Martin. Charles Hice was the newscaster.

The committee and leaders' planning meeting will be held Thursday, December 29 at 7:30 p. m. in St. George's parish hall. The pack's Christmas party and pack meeting will be held January 2.

The names of 36 adults and boys of the pack were sent to the Scout Commemorative Tribute.

Mt. Savage Pupils Present Yuletide Program Tonight

MT. SAVAGE — A Christmas program will be presented tonight at 7:30 o'clock in the auditorium of the Mt. Savage School by the elementary pupils.

The primary department's act will be "Santa's Substitute." First grade girls will portray toy ducks in a song and dance. First grade boys will do songs and drills as wooden soldiers and jack-in-the-boxes.

Second grade children will dance and sing as baby dolls and cookies. Other first and second grade boys and girls will portray teddy bears and toy tops by songs and dances.

Third grade students will portray clowns, jugglers and kangaroos.

Speaking roles will include Mrs. Santa Claus, Janice Keene; Santa Claus, David Weidener; brownies, Linda Lepley, Charles Emerick, Donald Dunn and Michael Blank.

A group of third and fourth grade children will present an acrostic, "The Christmas Glow."

In the second part of the program the intermediate grades will present a playlet, "The Great Announcement," in which angels prepare and announce through choral readings, songs and musical instruments God's precious gift to the world.

Piedmont PTA Plans Programs

PIEDMONT — The Parent-Teacher Association has scheduled its next meeting for January 12 and its Founders Day program and dinner for February 9.

Teen-Age Driver Demonstrates Neighbor Policy

FROSTBURG — A "Knight In Shining Armor" came to the aid of a "Damsel In Distress" a recent evening on Red Hill, between Frostburg and Cumberland, and an account of the "Knight's" deeds were forwarded to Frostburg State Teachers College by the "Damsel."

Emma Young, Cumberland, was on her way to Frostburg Saturday evening to attend a party in Frostburg when her car "conked" out on Red Hill. After seeing several cars go by one stopped that was being driven by a young man. He investigated the cause of the stoppage and when unable to find the trouble put out flares and drove Mrs. Young to a nearby garage. Mrs. Young endeavored to pay the youth, who gave his name as Gerald Huff, but payment was declined with the comment, "This aid was given through the courtesy of the T-Bird Club of Forstburg."

Mrs. Young wrote the above information in a letter to John Allison, FSTC advisor to the club which is made up of young men of the area, not necessarily students at the college, who are interested in good driving, courtesy and public service.

One of the objects of the club is to show that many of the so-called "teen age drivers" are not all reckless and unheedful of other motorists on the highway.

Moorefield Lions Club Coordinates Plans For Christmas Gift Baskets Distribution To Area Families

MOOREFIELD, W. Va. — The annual Christmas food-basket activity for distribution of food to needy families in the area coordinated by the Moorefield Lions Club will solicit only food and money this year, according to a report of Wendell Hester, general chairman.

Hester said the collection and distribution of toys is being adequately handled by the Loyal Order of Moose in their annual "Toys for Tots" activity and toys will not be included in the Christmas food basket distribution. Hester also pointed out the difficulties in the distribution of clothing and suggested that a church group or another civic group assume this project.

Committees named by Hester, who is assisted by William A. Wood, C. Elwood Williams and Joseph A. Schriver, include: Business solicitation committee, Carlton Saville, chairman, Orvon Bean, S. L. Dodd, R. E. Fisher, C. J. Grimes, W. C. H. Poole, W. C. Harper, J. M. Harrison, F. B. Thrush and Ernest Puffenberger. Publicity committee, R. E. Fisher and Guy N. Lang. Handbill committee, Allen Hazard, assisted by the Moorefield Boy Scout troop.

Residential solicitation committee, Donald J. Baker, chairman, Richard Troughton, George Judy Ours, W. B. Homan, John Seymour Jr., Vernon Taylor, Charles Rohrbaugh, Oscar H. Bean, Lewis Moomau, H. Gus Muntzing, C. B. Hiett, Paul Tallent, P. W. Clarke and C. Elwood Williams. Chairman of the 'Needy Family' list is Rev. Charles Roth.

The basket packing committee is headed by Joseph Schriver, assisted by Mask Harwood, S. E. Hinkle, Carol A. Patterson and the group will be assisted by the Go-Getters 4-H Club. Basket distribution committee, C. Elwood Williams, chairman. William Clark, C. A. Ludwick Jr., G. W. Murphy, S. L. Harper, Ralph J. Bean, C. B. Hishoff and C. R. Powers. Participating with transportation will be Pierce Pre-Cooked Foods, Inc.

The business solicitation started Monday and will continue through December 19. The house-to-house canvass for money and food will be made Friday, December 16. Baskets will be packed Wednesday, December 21 and distributed on Thursday, December 22.

Housewives are requested to have food or cash ready for the solicitation committee Friday evening from 7 to 9 p. m. Citizens may reach Don Baker or Elwood Williams to arrange a special pick-up if needed.

Final plans will be completed at the meeting of the civic group Monday night, December 19.

New American League Baseball Teams Select Rosters

61 Players Chosen In Loop Draft

Grba, Yost, Tasby, Cerv, Kluszewski Among Stars Picked

By JOE REICHLER

BOSTON (AP) — Eli Grba, Ed Sadowski, Eddie Yost and Willie Tasby were the top four players picked by the new Washington and Los Angeles clubs Wednesday as the American League expanded to 10-stocked clubs in an unprecedented $4,325,000 draft of talent.

Each of the two clubs had to chose 28 players at $75,000 each from a reservoir of 120, contributed by the eight established members of the circuit. Fifteen players of each of the eight rosters were placed in the pool. No club lost more than seven.

Washington also drafted three rookies at $25,000 each. Los Angeles took two.

Haney Wins Toss

General Manager Fred Haney of the Angels, who won the toss for first pick in three of the four categories—pitchers, catchers, infielders and outfielders—selected pitcher Grba of New York, catcher Sadowski of Boston and third baseman Yost of Detroit at his three top picks. Among the outfielders, in which he got second pick, he chose Bob Cerv of the Yankees.

Ed Doherty, general manager of the new Senators, chose outfielder Tasby of Boston as his first pick. His first selection in the other categories were Bobby Shantz, pitcher from the Yankees; Dutch Dotterer, catcher from Kansas City, and Coot Veal, shortstop from Detroit.

Other established players chosen by the Angels were pitchers Duke Maas, New York; Truman Clevenger, Minneapolis-St. Paul, and Ned Garver, Kansas City; catcher Bob (Red) Wilson, Cleveland; infielders Ted Kluszewski, Chicago; Ken Aspromonte, Cleveland; and Ken Hamlin, Kansas City; and outfieler Faye Throneberry, Minneapolis-St. Paul.

Pitchers Are Selected

Washington chose pitchers Dave Sisler and Pete Burnside, Detroit; Dick Donovan, Chicago; Tom Sturdivant, Boston; catcher Pete Daley, Kansas City; infielders Dale Long, New York, and Billy Klaus, Baltimore; and outfielders Gene Woodling, Baltimore, and Marty Keough, Cleveland.

The selections took place in the American League office and were conducted by League President Joe Cronin. Each club was required to pick at least 10 pitchers, 2 catchers, 6 infielders and 4 outfielders. Los Angeles added 2 extra pitchers, 2 more catchers and 2 infielders to round out its 28-man squad. Washington added 1 extra pitcher, 1 catcher, 2 infielders and 2 outfielders.

Permitted to draft eight minor leaguers apiece, Washington drew only three — infielder Leo Burke from Rochester, catcher Haywood Sullivan from Seattle and pitcher Joe McClain from Charleston. Los Angeles selected two—first baseman Steve Bilko from Denver and outfielder Albie Pearson from Rochester.

VETERAN ALCO FIVE READY — Allegany High's varsity basketball team is ready for another season under Coach Chet Payne, shown here with his veteran squad, all of whom return from last year. The entire starting five will be back again this year for the Campers. Allegany will open its schedule here Friday night with Martinsburg High's Bulldogs at 8 o'clock. The Bulldogs won the CVAL title with an 8-2 mark last year when both Fort Hill and Allegany belonged to the circuit. The Cumberland schools have dropped out of the CVAL in basketball this year, however. The veteran Alco squad won the WMI championship with a 9-1 mark last season and wound up with a 16-8 overall record for the 1959-60 campaign. Shown prior to the start of a practice session at Campobello are (left to right) Jerry Pentoney, Bob Gaffney, Doug Luzier, Coach Payne, Mervin Pope, Gary Mulligan and Wayne Shook.

Colts Expected To Take Offense Crown In NFL

Pittsburgh Steelers Are Runner-Up Team

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Baltimore Colts probably will not win a third straight National Football League championship, but it's a good bet they'll wind up as the NFL's leading total yardage team for the third year in a row.

According to the latest NFL statistics released Wednesday the Colts have gained a total of 4,068 yards in 11 games, for a 203-yard lead over the runnerup Pittsburgh Steelers.

Baltimore was the league's leading passing team and the Green Bay Packers took over as the NFL's best rushing club. The Colts have gone through the air for 2,818 yards, or 69.3 percent of their total gains.

Green Bay's offense has been more balanced. The Packers' league-leading rushing total is 2,092 yards and amounts to 41.2 percent of their overall gains.

If the Colts win the total yardage championship, they will become the first team to do so three straight season since the Chicago Bears in 1947-48-49.

Pittsburgh, fourth in total yardage last week, vaulted all the way to second place with a 484-yard haul against the Philadelphia Eagles last weekend. The Steelers had 3,865 yards, the St. Louis Cardinals had 3,788, the Packers 3,726, the Cleveland Browns 3,563 and the Eagles 3,542.

The Eagles were runnerup to Baltimore in passing with 2,444 yards, while the Cards dropped to second place in rushing, just 7 yards behind Green Bay.

The Cards remained the top punting team with a 45.3 - yard average for 38 kicks; The Browns led the Packers in the point-scoring race, 314 t 297; The New York Giants remained the top team in rushing defense and the Eagles held first place in pass defense.

The Giants have held opponents to an average of 3-yards per ground play while the Eagles have allowed opposing teams to complete only 47.5 per cent of their passes.

The Sports Patrol

By STEVE SNIDER

NEW YORK (UPI) — Conservative thinkers among the nation's college football coaches are spearheading a drive to leave the rules "as is" for 1961.

The trend back to platoon football and a fight to set the goal posts on the goal lines may be stopped this winter, according to former coach Tuss McLaughry who handles the "paper work" for the American College Football Coaches Association.

Furthermore, for the first time in years, coaches rules chairman Lou Little is not sending out a questionnaire to association members to record their feelings on possible rules changes. The inference is: "hands off."

"I personally feel we have a fine game as it is now," said Tuss. "I believe a lot of coaches feel the same way. We can't keep changing the rules every year or so or we'll be making ourselves too ridiculous."

Plenty of Rebels

There are plenty of rebels, however, including Columbia coach Buff Donelli who'd like to see both the return of platoon football and goal posts on the goal lines.

"You name me a fair-sized college that isn't using the two-team system right now," said Buff. "If they'd bring back rules permitting separate offensive and defensive units we'd have legitimate platoon football, not a two-team system that's hard for smaller schools to contend with."

As for the goal posts, Buff insists, "the problem in college is not accuracy but distance."

"So they widened the college goal posts," said Donelli, "but left them 10 yards back of the goal. Some of our kids still have trouble kicking that extra distance."

But the leaders in the coaches association dropped their annual poll in favor of a personal report from each of the NCAA districts so there'll be no clear cut demands for changes as far as the coaches are concerned.

"Most Coaches Satisfied"

"I think most of them are satisfied with the wider goal posts," said McLaughry. "We've been seeing far more field goal kicking and those three pointers aren't cheap, either. It seems to me the game is in good balance."

McLaughry felt the cost of cantilevered goal posts would be prohibitive for small schools.

It's possible, with today's sturdier light materials, to rig a set of goal post uprights in their present spot 10 yards back of the goal and extend the cross bars forward, directly over the goal line.

That would achieve the same effect as goal posts on the goal lines.

"Set-ups like that would be expensive," said Tuss. "Particularly in those areas where there still is a tradition to tear down the goal posts after every victory."

Still, they'll never please all the coaches until the college rules are exactly like those of the pros—platoons, goal posts and all that.

"Every other level of football—high school and pro—plays platoons," snorted Donelli. "We're the only ones stuck with restrictions on substitutes."

Chisox Take Fielding Title

Also Lead League In Double Plays

BOSTON (AP) — The Chicago White Sox won the 1960 American League fielding championship — their fourth in five years—official league statistics show.

The official figures were released Wednesday after months of checking and rechecking.

The White Sox, who also took the team title in 1956, 1957 and 1959, edged Baltimore's young Orioles by a hair, .9819-.0817, for this year's crown.

The White Sox had two individual leaders and another — Nellie Fox — missed out by a single point.

Little Luis Aparacio compiled a .979 average, leading the shortstops for the second straight year, while Sherman Lollar led the catchers with .995. Lollar, who was second in fielding last year, made only three errors in 612 total chances.

Fox, the White Sox' sparkplug second baseman and the leading fielder at that position a year ago, had a .985 average, one point under Boston's Pete Runnels, the league's leading hitter.

In addition, the White Sox led the league in double plays with 175.

Complete Rosters Of New Teams In American League

BOSTON (UPI) —Here are the complete rosters of the American League's two new teams as chosen Wednesday in a special draft:

Los Angeles—Pitchers Eli Grba and Duke Maas of New York, Jerry Casale and Fred Newman of Boston, Bob Sprout and Aubrey Gatewood of Detroit, Truman Clevenger of Minnesota, Ken McBride of Chicago, Ned Garver and Bob Davis of Kansas City, Ron Moeller and Dean Chance of Baltimore; catchers Ed Sadowski of Boston, Bob Roggers of Detroit and Bob Wilson of Cleveland.

Infielders Eddie Yost of Detroit, Ken Aspromonte and Gene Leek of Cleveland, Ken Hamlin of Kansas City, Jim Fregosi of Boston, Ted Kluszewski of Chicago, Don Ross of Baltimore and Julio Becquer of Minnesota; outfielders Bob Cerv and Ken Hunt of New York, Earl Averill and Jim McAnany of Chicago and Faye Throneberry of Minnesota.

Washington — Pitchers Bobby Shantz of New York, Dave Sisler and Pete Burnside of Detroit, Johnny Klippstein and Carl Mathias of Cleveland, Hal Woodeshick, Hector Maestri and Rudy Hernandez of Minnesota, Dick Donovan and Ed Hobaugh of Chicago, Tom Sturdivant of Boston; catchers Hank Dotterer and Pete Daley of Kansas City and Gene Green of Baltimore

Infielders Coot Veal of Detroit, Billy Klaus of Baltimore, Dale Long and Bud Zipfel of New York, Jim Mahoney of Boston, Bob Johnson and Chet Boak of Kansas City, Johnny Schaive of Minnesota; outfielders Willie Tasby of Boston; Gene Woodling and Charles Hinton of Baltimore, Jim King and Marty Keough of Cleveland, Joe Hicks of Chicago.

Larsen, Thomson To Be Honored

NEW YORK (UPI)—Don Larsen and Bobby Thomson, who contributed the most historic performances in recent baseball history, will be among those honored at the B'nai B'rith Sports Lodge dinners in New York and Boston on Jan. 22 and Jan. 23.

The Sports Lodge organizations will assembly "history makers of the century" at their 1961 banquests. Larsen's perfect no-hit, no-run game in the 1956 World Series and Thomson's historic home run for the Giants against the Dodgers in their 1951 National League playoff game earned them invitations to the dinners.

Commission Urged To Break Up Racketeers In Boxing

Carbo Refuses To Testify; Takes Fifth Amendment

By WHITNEY SHOEMAKER

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Estes Kefauver, D-Tenn., Wednesday urged Congress to set up quickly a federal commission to sweep racketeers from boxing.

Recessing a Senate prize fight investigation for this year, Kefauver said underworld characters have gained a monopoly on most important bouts.

If Congress does not act shortly, he said, "the sport might very well pass from the American scene."

Kefauver called for action after Frankie Carbo, long branded the underworld monarch of prize fighting, repeatedly used the Fifth Amendment to counterpunch the investigating subcommittee's questioning. He divulged nothing.

Exercises Privilege

Carbo exercised his constitutional privilege against possible self-incrimination in refusing to say whether he had any connection with the fight business or whether he had threatened anyone with bodily harm to enforce his edicts.

Those were among about 30 questions Carbo declined to answer on a holiday from prison in New York, where he is serving time for undercover boxing manipulation.

Kefauver, in proposing that a commission be set up, said it should operate only for three years unless absolutely necessary to continue longer.

It would license everyone who participates in interstate matches. This would include not only fighters, managers, promoters, and the like, but men in television who engage in boxing promotions.

Subject To Penalties

Any individual or corporation taking part in a match without a license would be subject to criminal penalties. So would anyone involved in the offer of a bribe.

Kefauver said he would introduce boxing legislation when the Congress reconvenes in January.

Kefauver, chairman of the subcommittee, charged in his windup statement that Carbo's influence with promoters, managers and matchmakers persists from behind bars.

Kefauver said James D. Norris, head of the disbanded International Boxing Club, had allied with Carbo to dominate the prize fight business. He added that whether voluntary or forced, the alliance "served to corrupt the sport of boxing."

Workers Clear 14-Inch Snow At Charles Town

CHARLES TOWN, W. Va. (AP) —Workers finished cleaning Monday's 14 - inch snowfall from Charles Town Race Track Wednesday in preparation for the opening of a 32-day meeting Friday.

Officials said main roads leading to the track were clear of snow, as were parking lots at the track.

For the first two days of its meeting, Charles Town will be in competition with Pimlico in Baltimore, which has had its meeting extended two days to make up for programs lost early in the week because of snow.

Both tracks are operated by the same owners.

Ralston Blames Sports Writers For Davis Cup Ruckus

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. (UPI)—Young Dennis Ralston Wednesday blamed Australian sports writers for the ruckus being raised over the U.S. Davis Cup team.

"It's not uncommon for tennis players to lose their temper," said the 18-year-old net star who returned home Tuesday night. "All the time we were there the Aussie reporters were taking jabs at us overplaying small incidents."

Ralston recalled that a photographer once took a picture of Earl Buchholz throwing his racket during practice and the photograph was played on the front page of a newspaper. Ralston said Buchholz and other tennis players prefer to practice alone.

Willie Mays once hit three straight homers in Wrigley Field in Los Angeles, where the new Angels will be playing in 1961.

Salvation Army, Living Stone Win Sunday School Tilts

Salvation Army, Living Stone Church of the Brethren and Second Baptist captured National Division victories in the YMCA Sunday School Basketball League last night on the "Y" court.

Salvation Army edged Calvary Methodist, 26-22, as Ricky Crites scored 14 points for the winners. Scott Bosley was high man for Calvary Methodist with 11 points.

Living Stone had an easy time romping over Calvary E.U.B., winning 50-4 as the losers were blanked in the first and last periods. Dave Hobell scored both baskets for the losers. John Royce had 12 tallies for Living Stone.

Second Baptist hopped off to a big lead in the first three quarters and coasted to a 20-14 triumph over Central Methodist. Bobby Stevens had six points for Second Baptist while the big gun in the game was Clyde Gill of Central Methodist who scored 12 times.

New American League Baseball Teams Select Rosters

Grba, Yost, Tasby, Cerv, Kluszewski Among Stars Picked

By JOE REICHLER

BOSTON (AP) — Eli Grba, Ed Sadowski, Eddie Yost and Willie Tasby were the top four players picked by the new Washington and Los Angeles clubs Wednesday as the American League expanded to 10-stocked clubs in an unprecedented $4,325,000 draft of talent.

Each of the two clubs had to chose 28 players at $75,000 each from a reservoir of 120, contributed by the eight established members of the circuit. Fifteen players of each of the eight rosters were placed in the pool. No club lost more than seven.

Washington also drafted three rookies at $25,000 each. Los Angeles took two.

Haney Wins Toss

General Manager Fred Haney of the Angels, who won the toss for first pick in three of the four categories—pitchers, catchers, infielders and outfielders—selected pitcher Grba of New York, catcher Sadowski of Boston and third baseman Yost of Detroit at his three top picks. Among the outfielders, in which he got second pick, he chose Bob Cerv of the Yankees.

Ed Doherty, general manager of the new Senators, chose outfielder Tasby of Boston as his first pick. His first selection in the other categories were Bobby Shantz, pitcher from the Yankees; Dutch Dotterer, catcher from Kansas City, and Coot Veal, shortstop from Detroit.

Other established players chosen by the Angels were pitchers Duke Maas, New York; Truman Clevenger, Minneapolis-St. Paul, and Ned Garver, Kansas City; catcher Bob (Red) Wilson, Cleveland; infielders Ted Kluszewski, Chicago; Ken Aspromonte, Cleveland; and Ken Hamlin, Kansas City; and outfieler Faye Throneberry, Minneapolis-St. Paul.

Pitchers Are Selected

Washington chose pitchers Dave Sisler and Pete Burnside, Detroit; Dick Donovan, Chicago; Tom Sturdivant, Boston; catcher Pete Daley, Kansas City; infielders Dale Long, New York, and Billy Klaus, Baltimore; and outfielders Gene Woodling, Baltimore, and Marty Keough, Cleveland.

The selections took place in the American League office and were conducted by League President Joe Cronin. Each club was required to pick at least 10 pitchers, 2 catchers, 6 infielders and 4 outfielders. Los Angeles added 2 extra pitchers, 2 more catchers and 2 infielders to round out its 28-man squad. Washington added 1 extra pitcher, 1 catcher, 2 infielders and 2 outfielders.

Permitted to draft eight minor leaguers apiece, Washington drew only three — infielder Leo Burke from Rochester, catcher Haywood Sullivan from Seattle and pitcher Joe McClain from Charleston. Los Angeles selected two—first baseman Steve Bilko from Denver and outfielder Albie Pearson from Rochester.

VETERAN ALCO FIVE READY — Allegany High's varsity basketball team is ready for another season under Coach Chet Payne, shown here with his veteran squad, all of whom return from last year. The entire starting five will be back again this year for the Campers. Allegany will open its schedule here Friday night with Martinsburg High's Bulldogs at 8 o'clock. Colts Expected To Take Offense Crown In NFL

Pittsburgh Steelers Are Runner-Up Team

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Baltimore Colts probably will not win a third straight National Football League championship, but it's a good bet they'll wind up as the NFL's leading total yardage team for the third year in a row.

According to the latest NFL statistics released Wednesday the Colts have gained a total of 4,068 yards in 11 games, for a 203-yard lead over the runnerup Pittsburgh Steelers.

Baltimore was the league's leading passing team and the Green Bay Packers took over as the NFL's best rushing club. The Colts have gone through the air for 2,818 yards, or 69.3 percent of their total gains.

Green Bay's offense has been more balanced. The Packers' league-leading rushing total is 2,092 yards and amounts to 41.2 percent of their overall gains.

If the Colts win the total yardage championship, they will become the first team to do so three straight season since the Chicago Bears in 1947-48-49.

Pittsburgh, fourth in total yardage last week, vaulted all the way to second place with a 484-yard haul against the Philadelphia Eagles last weekend. The Steelers had 3,865 yards, the St. Louis Cardinals had 3,788, the Packers 3,726, the Cleveland Browns 3,563 and the Eagles 3,542.

The Eagles were runnerup to Baltimore in passing with 2,444 yards, while the Cards dropped to second place in rushing, just 7 yards behind Green Bay.

The Cards remained the top punting team with a 45.3 - yard average for 38 kicks; The Browns led the Packers in the point-scoring race, 314 t 297; The New York Giants remained the top team in rushing defense and the Eagles held first place in pass defense.

The Giants have held opponents to an average of 3-yards per ground play while the Eagles have allowed opposing teams to complete only 47.5 per cent of their passes.

Commission Urged To Break Up Racketeers In Boxing

By WHITNEY SHOEMAKER

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Estes Kefauver, D-Tenn., Wednesday urged Congress to set up quickly a federal commission to sweep racketeers from boxing.

Recessing a Senate prize fight investigation for this year, Kefauver said underworld characters have gained a monopoly on most important bouts.

If Congress does not act shortly, he said, "the sport might very well pass from the American scene."

Kefauver called for action after Frankie Carbo, long branded the underworld monarch of prize fighting, repeatedly used the Fifth Amendment to counterpunch the investigating subcommittee's questioning. He divulged nothing.

Exercises Privilege

Carbo exercised his constitutional privilege against possible self-incrimination in refusing to say whether he had any connection with the fight business or whether he had threatened anyone with bodily harm to enforce his edicts.

Those were among about 30 questions Carbo declined to answer on a holiday from prison in New York, where he is serving time for undercover boxing manipulation.

Kefauver, in proposing that a commission be set up, said it should operate only for three years unless absolutely necessary to continue longer.

It would license everyone who participates in interstate matches. This would include not only fighters, managers, promoters, and the like, but men in television who engage in boxing promotions.

Subject To Penalties

Any individual or corporation taking part in a match without a license would be subject to criminal penalties. So would anyone involved in the offer of a bribe.

Kefauver said he would introduce boxing legislation when the Congress reconvenes in January.

Kefauver, chairman of the subcommittee, charged in his windup statement that Carbo's influence with promoters, managers and matchmakers persists from behind bars.

Kefauver said James D. Norris, head of the disbanded International Boxing Club, had allied with Carbo to dominate the prize fight business. He added that whether voluntary or forced, the alliance "served to corrupt the sport of boxing."

Workers Clear 14-Inch Snow At Charles Town

CHARLES TOWN, W. Va. (AP) —Workers finished cleaning Monday's 14 - inch snowfall from Charles Town Race Track Wednesday in preparation for the opening of a 32-day meeting Friday.

Officials said main roads leading to the track were clear of snow, as were parking lots at the track.

For the first two days of its meeting, Charles Town will be in competition with Pimlico in Baltimore, which has had its meeting extended two days to make up for programs lost early in the week because of snow.

Both tracks are operated by the same owners.

Ralston Blames Sports Writers For Davis Cup Ruckus

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. (UPI)—Young Dennis Ralston Wednesday blamed Australian sports writers for the ruckus being raised over the U.S. Davis Cup team.

"It's not uncommon for tennis players to lose their temper," said the 18-year-old net star who returned home Tuesday night. "All the time we were there the Aussie reporters were taking jabs at us overplaying small incidents."

Ralston recalled that a photographer once took a picture of Earl Buchholz throwing his racket during practice and the photograph was played on the front page of a newspaper. Ralston said Buchholz and other tennis players prefer to practice alone.

Willie Mays once hit three straight homers in Wrigley Field in Los Angeles, where the new Angels will be playing in 1961.

Salvation Army, Living Stone Win Sunday School Tilts

Salvation Army, Living Stone Church of the Brethren and Second Baptist captured National Division victories in the YMCA Sunday School Basketball League last night on the "Y" court.

Salvation Army edged Calvary Methodist, 26-22, as Ricky Crites scored 14 points for the winners. Scott Bosley was high man for Calvary Methodist with 11 points.

Living Stone had an easy time romping over Calvary E.U.B., winning 50-4 as the losers were blanked in the first and last periods. Dave Hobell scored both baskets for the losers. John Royce had 12 tallies for Living Stone.

Second Baptist hopped off to a big lead in the first three quarters and coasted to a 20-14 triumph over Central Methodist. Bobby Stevens had six points for Second Baptist while the big gun in the game was Clyde Gill of Central Methodist who scored 12 times.

LaSalle Beats Ridgeley; Keyser Wins Over Moorefield

Explorers Gain Second PVC Victory

Dump Blackhawks 71-50 In Easy Win At Ridgeley

By TED TROXELL

LaSalle High School, newest entry in the Potomac Valley Conference and a strong early season contender for the cage championship of the 19-team loop, poured it on Ridgeley last night in the second half for a 71-50 victory over the Blackhawks in a game played on the West Virginians' floor.

A moving attack typical of George Geatz-coached teams began to click for the Explorers in the third period, which opened with Ridgeley trailing by a scant two-point margin, 32-30. LaSalle outscored the Hawks, 23-13, in the third quarter and from that point on coasted to conference victory number two.

Lead Just Once

Ridgeley held the lead just once during the game, when a driving layup by Frank Lambert with 1:45 left in the first half put the Hawks in front, 27-26. Dave Imes hit on a jumper shortly after the third period opened to tie things up at 32-all, but the Irish wasted little time after that in picking the Ridgeley defenses apart.

Mike Long, junior forward who possesses more basketball savvy than the average high school cager, was principally responsible for getting LaSalle off to its early lead. Long, in his third year as a regular for the North Centre Streeters, connected on six straight field goal attempts before muffing a try early in the second period, and had 14 points at intermission.

In the first and third periods, the Explorers fired away at a .500 clip from the floor, zeroing in on 17 of 34 attempts in those two quarters.

The Hawks failed to shoot with any consistency. They made only 18 of 72 tries for a sub-par .250 percentage. LaSalle, as a unit, registered a .378 shooting mark —28 for 74.

Long took game scoring honors, grabbing 20 points before he retired from the contest about midway in the final period. Garv Blake and John Sloan, with 13 and 10, respectively, were the other Explorers to hit double figures.

Ridgeley's Lambert, who had 15 tallies at halftime but collected only one field goal in the final two periods, led Coach Tom O'Connor's quint with 17, while Imes and Delbert Schoonover caged 10 apiece.

Jackets Lose Initial Game In Conference

Sidley Scores 23 Points For Winners In 64-54 Victory

MOOREFIELD, W. Va.—Keyser High's Tornado tossers stepped from two straight non-conference victories into competition in the Potomac Valley Conference here last night with a 64-54 triumph over Moorefield High's previously unbeaten Jackets.

The loss was the first after two league triumphs for Moorefield while Keyser chalked up its third straight win of the season and first in the PVC.

Francis Sidley played an outstanding game for the winners, controlling play off the boards and banging in 23 points for Coach Estel "Eck" Miers' team. David Vance with 17 and Doug Yankey with 13 were the big guns in a losing cause for Moorefield.

Keyser hopped off to a big first quarter lead and never was headed, although Moorefield closed the gap slightly in the last period. The Tornado five won handily although outscoring Moorefield only 19-18 from the field. The victors converted 26 of 40 foul chances to 18-35 for the Jackets.

Vance and Ray Redman exited on personal fouls for Moorefield as did Lawrence Smith of Keyser. The lineups:

Oldtown Cagers Score First Win

OLDTOWN — Oldtown High's cagers broke a two-game losing streak here tonight to register their first victory of the 1960-61 basketball campaign with a 52-51 triumph over Fort Hill High's junior Varsity.

The score was tied 11 times in the close game, the last time at 49-all. Jerry Hoover's field goal and a foul by Ken Zimmerman iced the contest for Coach Ronnie Kellough's cagers. Dean scored just before the final whistle for Fort Hill to close the gap.

Hoover had 14 points and Eddie Wolfe dumped in 11 for Oldtown. Johnson was high with 20 for Fort Hill while Wilson chipped in with 14. The lineups:

Shippensburg Whips Bobcats

Pennsylvania Team Scores 71-61 Win

FROSTBURG—Frostburg State Teachers saw a two-game winning streak snapped as they dropped a 71-61 decision to Shippensburg State Teachers of Shippensburg, Pa. The loss was the third in five games for the Bobcats.

The game was close throughout with Shippensburg holding a 34-30 halftime lead. Frostburg pulled ahead 40-39 midway in the second half only to see the Red Raiders bounce back as Rod Ross converted four foul shots and Jim Baile and Jack Haines dumped in field goals to give the visitors a 47-40 lead which Shippensburg never lost again.

George Lauder scored 19 points and Ronald Young added 16 for Frostburg while Jack Haines had 22 and Rod Ross 15 for Shippensburg.

Kansas Lashes Back At NCAA, Big 8 Stand

Declares Ruling On Coan Delayed

LAWRENCE, Kan. (UPI)—The University of Kansas lashed out angrily Wednesday at the National Collegiate Athletic Association and the Big Eight conference for declaring football player Bert Coan illegally recruited from Texas Christian University.

In a sharply - worded eight-page statement issued by Chancellor W. Clarke Wescoe, the university charged that the Big Eight passed up three occasions to declare Coan ineligible and made its ruling only after Kansas had nailed down the championship with a final game, 23-7 victory over Missouri.

The ruling, handed down by the conference last week, forced Kansas to forfeit its victories over Colorado and Missouri, and the conference title. Missouri thus backed into the championship.

In October, the NCAA had placed Kansas on football probation for one year as a result of the Coan recruitment, denying the Jayhawks any possibility of competing in the Orange Bowl as the Big Eight representative.

The Big Eight ruled, in declaring Coan ineligible last Thursday, that he could not participate in the first five games of Kansas' 1961 football season.

"The actions taken against the University of Kansas have been capricious," Wescoe's statement said. "On at least three occasions prior to last Thursday the Big Eight faculty representatives had opportunites to declare Coan ineligible. But only on the last occasion, after a championship had been won, did they take action."

The recruiting violation involved a trip Coan took with Texas oilman Kenneth Adams Jr., a Kansas alumnus, from Houston to Chicago in August, 1959, to attend a professional football game.

Both the NCAA and the Big Eight ruled the trip constituted illegal entertainment aimed at getting Coan to transfer from TCU to Kansas.

U.S. Netmen 'On Report' For Alleged Misbehavior

Australian Tennis Head Makes Charge

MELBOURNE, Australia (UPI) —Earl Buchholz and Chuck McKinley of the United States Davis Cup team were officially placed "on report" Wednesday night for their alleged misbehavior during the inter-zone matches against Italy at Perth.

Norman Strange, president of the Australian Lawn Tennis Association, revealed he is filing a confidential report to the U.S. Lawn Tennis Association because he feels Buchholz and McKinley need "a lesson in good manners and sportsmanship."

"Their conduct (at Perth) was most disgraceful—so much so it became necessary for me to put the facts before the United States Lawn Tennis Association," Strange said. "Naturally, it will be up to the American association to deal with them as it thinks fit."

Buchholz was accused of insulting the governor of West Australia when he entered the Americans' dressing room at Perth but Strange said the "worst incident" occurred when McKinley "threw his racquet as hard as he could into the crowd."

"It could have caused serious injury to someone," Strange declared.

Strange said he didn't say anything until after the U.S. lost to Italy in the inter-zone final "because I might have been accused of affecting their (the U.S. players) morale."

McKinley, of St. Louis, was one of three American players who returned to the States immediately after the Perth matches instead of waiting to play in the Australian national championships next month.

Buchholz, also of St. Louis, and teammate Barry MacKay of Dayton, Ohio, remained in Australia but both have been invited to join Jack Kramer's pro troupe when it opens another world tour shortly in New Zealand.

Allen Scores 27 For Potomac State

KEYSER, W. Va.—John Allen tossed in 27 points and Mike Checkan scored 19 last night as Potomac State's Catamounts handed Altoona, Pa., Campus College a 100-68 basketball setback.

The Cats grabbed a 56-36 lead at halftime in chalking up their third win in seven games on the season. The victors led 6-0 at the start of the game and steadily increased their margin to win going away.

Bill Williams and Joe Evan led Altoona in scoring with 29 and 26 points.

Potomac State will host Shepherd College tonight at 8 o'clock here and will play Prince George College of Baltimore on Saturday afternoon at 2:30. There will be no admission charge for the Saturday event. The lineups:

Grba Glad To Join Los Angeles Team

CHICAGO (UPI) —Pitcher Eli Grba of the New York Yankees, the first player picked by Los Angeles in a draft to stock two new American League clubs, said Wednesday he's happy to join the fledgling team but hopes to make the Yanks "real sorry" for letting him go.

Grba, a right hander with a 6-4 record at New York last season, commented from his home in suburban Mount Prospect.

LaSalle Beats Ridgeley; Keyser Wins Over Moorefield

By TED TROXELL

LaSalle High School, newest entry in the Potomac Valley Conference and a strong early season contender for the cage championship of the 19-team loop, poured it on Ridgeley last night in the second half for a 71-50 victory over the Blackhawks in a game played on the West Virginians' floor.

A moving attack typical of George Geatz-coached teams began to click for the Explorers in the third period, which opened with Ridgeley trailing by a scant two-point margin, 32-30. LaSalle outscored the Hawks, 23-13, in the third quarter and from that point on coasted to conference victory number two.

Lead Just Once

Ridgeley held the lead just once during the game, when a driving layup by Frank Lambert with 1:45 left in the first half put the Hawks in front, 27-26. Dave Imes hit on a jumper shortly after the third period opened to tie things up at 32-all, but the Irish wasted little time after that in picking the Ridgeley defenses apart.

Mike Long, junior forward who possesses more basketball savvy than the average high school cager, was principally responsible for getting LaSalle off to its early lead. Long, in his third year as a regular for the North Centre Streeters, connected on six straight field goal attempts before muffing a try early in the second period, and had 14 points at intermission.

In the first and third periods, the Explorers fired away at a .500 clip from the floor, zeroing in on 17 of 34 attempts in those two quarters.

The Hawks failed to shoot with any consistency. They made only 18 of 72 tries for a sub-par .250 percentage. LaSalle, as a unit, registered a .378 shooting mark —28 for 74.

Long took game scoring honors, grabbing 20 points before he retired from the contest about midway in the final period. Gary Blake and John Sloan, with 13 and 10, respectively, were the other Explorers to hit double figures.

Ridgeley's Lambert, who had 15 tallies at halftime but collected only one field goal in the final two periods, led Coach Tom O'Connor's quint with 17, while Imes and Delbert Schoonover caged 10 apiece.

Jackets Lose Initial Game In Conference

Sidley Scores 23 Points For Winners In 64-54 Victory

MOOREFIELD, W. Va.—Keyser High's Tornado tossers stepped from two straight non-conference victories into competition in the Potomac Valley Conference here last night with a 64-54 triumph over Moorefield High's previously unbeaten Jackets.

The loss was the first after two league triumphs for Moorefield while Keyser chalked up its third straight win of the season and first in the PVC.

Francis Sidley played an outstanding game for the winners, controlling play off the boards and banging in 23 points for Coach Estel "Eck" Miers' team. David Vance with 17 and Doug Yankey with 13 were the big guns in a losing cause for Moorefield.

Keyser hopped off to a big first quarter lead and never was headed, although Moorefield closed the gap slightly in the last period. The Tornado five won handily although outscoring Moorefield only 19-18 from the field. The victors converted 26 of 40 foul chances to 18-35 for the Jackets.

Vance and Ray Redman exited on personal fouls for Moorefield as did Lawrence Smith of Keyser.

Oldtown Cagers Score First Win

OLDTOWN — Oldtown High's cagers broke a two-game losing streak here tonight to register their first victory of the 1960-61 basketball campaign with a 52-51 triumph over Fort Hill High's junior Varsity.

The score was tied 11 times in the close game, the last time at 49-all. Jerry Hoover's field goal and a foul by Ken Zimmerman iced the contest for Coach Ronnie Kellough's cagers. Dean scored just before the final whistle for Fort Hill to close the gap.

Hoover had 14 points and Eddie Wolfe dumped in 11 for Oldtown. Johnson was high with 20 for Fort Hill while Wilson chipped in with 14. The lineups:

Shippensburg Whips Bobcats

Pennsylvania Team Scores 71-61 Win

FROSTBURG—Frostburg State Teachers saw a two-game winning streak snapped as they dropped a 71-61 decision to Shippensburg State Teachers of Shippensburg, Pa. The loss was the third in five games for the Bobcats.

The game was close throughout with Shippensburg holding a 34-30 halftime lead. Frostburg pulled ahead 40-39 midway in the second half only to see the Red Raiders bounce back as Rod Ross converted four foul shots and Jim Baile and Jack Haines dumped in field goals to give the visitors a 47-40 lead which Shippensburg never lost again.

George Lauder scored 19 points and Ronald Young added 16 for Frostburg while Jack Haines had 22 and Rod Ross 15 for Shippensburg.

Declares Ruling On Coan Delayed

LAWRENCE, Kan. (UPI)—The University of Kansas lashed out angrily Wednesday at the National Collegiate Athletic Association and the Big Eight conference for declaring football player Bert Coan illegally recruited from Texas Christian University.

In a sharply - worded eight-page statement issued by Chancellor W. Clarke Wescoe, the university charged that the Big Eight passed up three occasions to declare Coan ineligible and made its ruling only after Kansas had nailed down the championship with a final game, 23-7, victory over Missouri.

The ruling, handed down by the conference last week, forced Kansas to forfeit its victories over Colorado and Missouri, and the conference title, Missouri thus backed into the championship.

In October, the NCAA had placed Kansas on football probation for one year as a result of the Coan recruitment, denying the Jayhawks any possibility of competing in the Orange Bowl as the Big Eight representative.

The Big Eight ruled, in declaring Coan ineligible last Thursday, that he could not participate in the first five games of Kansas' 1961 football season.

"The actions taken against the University of Kansas have been capricious," Wescoe's statement said. "On at least three occasions prior to last Thursday the Big Eight faculty representatives had opportunites to declare Coan ineligible. But only on the last occasion, after a championship had been won, did they take action."

The recruiting violation involved a trip Coan took with Texas oilman Kenneth Adams Jr., a Kansas alumnus, from Houston to Chicago in August, 1959, to attend a professional football game.

Both the NCAA and the Big Eight ruled the trip constituted illegal entertainment aimed at getting Coan to transfer from TCU to Kansas.

U.S. Netmen 'On Report' For Alleged Misbehavior

Australian Tennis Head Makes Charge

MELBOURNE, Australia (UPI) —Earl Buchholz and Chuck McKinley of the United States Davis Cup team were officially placed "on report" Wednesday night for their alleged misbehavior during the inter-zone matches against Italy at Perth.

Norman Strange, president of the Australian Lawn Tennis Association, revealed he is filing a confidential report to the U.S. Lawn Tennis Association because he feels Buchholz and McKinley need "a lesson in good manners and sportsmanship."

"Their conduct (at Perth) was most disgraceful—so much so it became necessary for me to put the facts before the United States Lawn Tennis Association," Strange said. "Naturally, it will be up to the American association to deal with them as it thinks fit."

Buchholz was accused of insulting the governor of West Australia when he entered the Americans' dressing room at Perth but Strange said the "worst incident" occurred when McKinley "threw his racquet as hard as he could into the crowd."

"It could have caused serious injury to someone," Strange declared.

Strange said he didn't say anything until after the U.S. lost to Italy in the inter-zone final "because I might have been accused of affecting their (the U.S. players) morale."

McKinley, of St. Louis, was one of three American players who returned to the States immediately after the Perth matches instead of waiting to play in the Australian national championships next month.

Buchholz, also of St. Louis, and teammate Barry MacKay of Dayton, Ohio, remained in Australia but both have been invited to join Jack Kramer's pro troupe when it opens another world tour shortly in New Zealand.

Cats Defeat Altoona 100-68

Allen Scores 27 For Potomac State

KEYSER, W. Va.—John Allen tossed in 27 points and Mike Checkan scored 19 last night as Potomac State's Catamounts handed Altoona, Pa., Campus College a 100-68 basketball setback.

The Cats grabbed a 56-36 lead at halftime in chalking up their third win in seven games on the season. The victors led 6-0 at the start of the game and steadily increased their margin to win going away.

Bill Williams and Joe Evan led Altoona in scoring with 29 and 26 points.

Potomac State will host Shepherd College tonight at 8 o'clock here and will play Prince George College of Baltimore on Saturday afternoon at 2:30. There will be no admission charge for the Saturday event. The lineups:

Grba Glad To Join Los Angeles Team

CHICAGO (UPI) —Pitcher Eli Grba of the New York Yankees, the first player picked by Los Angeles in a draft to stock two new American League clubs, said Wednesday he's happy to join the fledgling team but hopes to make the Yanks "real sorry" for letting him go.

Grba, a right hander with a 6-4 record at New York last season, commented from his home in suburban Mount Prospect.

Catholic Youth League To Open Season Tonight

Tripleheader Set For Local Court

A tripleheader at SS. Peter & Paul gymnasium will launch the fifteenth consecutive campaign of the Catholic Youth Basketball League tonight.

St. Patrick's of Cumberland, won the championship last year and will appear in the third game on tonight's program.

At 6:15, St. Patrick's of Mt. Savage will meet St. Mary's Gaels of Cumberland. St. Michael's Frostburg, will play St. Peter's of Westernport at 7:30 and SS. Peter & Paul is slated to play St. Patrick's of Cumberland at 8:45 o'clock.

In Sunday games, Mt. Savage plays at Frostburg at 2 p. m., while in a twin bill on SS. Peter & Paul court, St. Mary's will battle St. Patrick's at 2 o'clock and SS. Peter & Paul will tangle with St. Peter's at 3:15.

Each team will play a total of 20 games—ten in each half. The schedule consists of a total of 60 contests.

The second half championship race gets under way Sunday, January 29 and ends Thursday, March 2.

SS. Peter & Paul gym will be the home court for all teams except St. Michael's whose home court is St. Michael's Hall.

Frostburg State Hosts Hagerstown Cagers Tonight

Hagerstown Junior College, member of the Tri-State Junior College Conference, will play the first game of a home-and-home series with the Bobcats of Frostburg State Teachers College tonight at 8 o'clock in Frostburg.

Frostburg and Hagerstown opened basketball relations in 1959 and tonight's game is the fifth of their series. The Nighthawks of Coach Irv Easterday swept the 1959 series by scores of 75-67 and 93-80 while last season the Bobcats copped both games, 90-61 and 71-50.

Hagerstown's big point-maker this season is Bob O'Brien, former Hub City high school star.

The Nighthawks come to Frostburg with a 1-5 record.

Frostburg State was 2-2 before last night's game with Shippensburg.

FIRST VICTOR

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Deacon Phillippe of the Pittsburgh Pirates was the winning pitcher in the first World Series game ever played. He beat Cy Young and the Boston Red Sox, 7-3, on Oct. 1, 1903.

City League Opens Today

Three Games Listed For Fort Hill Gym

The City Basketball League opens its fifth straight season tonight.

Six teams have enrolled in the circuit and all will see action on the Fort Hill High School court.

Forty & Eight Club meets Roseland at 6:45, the Old Exports play the Knights of Columbus an hour later and the Old Germans and Catamounts collide at 9:45.

The Old Exports, defending champions, are headed by Bob Pence. Don Moran leads the Old Germans. Other team leaders are Charles Stewart, Catamounts; Russ Warnick and Dick Rank, Roseland; Norman Geatz, K. of C., and Ronnie Cage and Pooch Lewis, 40 & 8 Club.

Referees will be Bob Young, Dorcil Kline, Charles Lattimer, Paul Flick and John Frank. Amos Huffman is the league scorer.

DOUBLE WINNER

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Many two-horse entries have started in the Preakness stakes at Pimlico, but only once has an entry run one-two. In 1934 Brookmeade Stable's High Quest beat Stablemate Cavalcade by a nose.

Catholic Youth League To Open Season Tonight

Tripleheader Set For Local Court

A tripleheader at SS. Peter & Paul gymnasium will launch the fifteenth consecutive campaign of the Catholic Youth Basketball League tonight.

St. Patrick's of Cumberland, won the championship last year and will appear in the third game on tonight's program.

At 6:15, St. Patrick's of Mt. Savage will meet St. Mary's Gaels of Cumberland. St. Michael's Frostburg, will play St. Peter's of Westernport at 7:30 and SS. Peter & Paul is slated to play St. Patrick's of Cumberland at 8:45 o'clock.

In Sunday games, Mt. Savage plays at Frostburg at 2 p. m., while in a twin bill on SS. Peter & Paul court, St. Mary's will battle St. Patrick's at 2 o'clock and SS. Peter & Paul will tangle with St. Peter's at 3:15.

Each team will play a total of 20 games—ten in each half. The schedule consists of a total of 60 contests.

The second half championship race gets under way Sunday, January 29 and ends Thursday, March 2.

SS. Peter & Paul gym will be the home court for all teams except St. Michael's whose home court is St. Michael's Hall.

Frostburg State Hosts Hagerstown Cagers Tonight

Hagerstown Junior College, member of the Tri-State Junior College Conference, will play the first game of a home-and-home series with the Bobcats of Frostburg State Teachers College tonight at 8 o'clock in Frostburg.

Frostburg and Hagerstown opened basketball relations in 1959 and tonight's game is the fifth of their series. The Nighthawks of Coach Irv Easterday swept the 1959 series by scores of 75-67 and 93-80 while last season the Bobcats copped both games, 90-61 and 71-50.

Hagerstown's big point-maker this season is Bob O'Brien, former Hub City high school star.

The Nighthawks come to Frostburg with a 1-5 record.

Frostburg State was 2-2 before last night's game with Shippensburg.

FIRST VICTOR

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Deacon Phillippe of the Pittsburgh Pirates was the winning pitcher in the first World Series game ever played. He beat Cy Young and the Boston Red Sox, 7-3, on Oct. 1, 1903.

City League Opens Today

Three Games Listed For Fort Hill Gym

The City Basketball League opens its fifth straight season tonight.

Six teams have enrolled in the circuit and all will see action on the Fort Hill High School court.

Forty & Eight Club meets Roseland at 6:45, the Old Exports play the Knights of Columbus an hour later and the Old Germans and Catamounts collide at 9:45.

The Old Exports, defending champions, are headed by Bob Pence. Don Moran leads the Old Germans. Other team leaders are Charles Stewart, Catamounts; Russ Warnick and Dick Rank, Roseland; Norman Geatz, K. of C., and Ronnie Cage and Pooch Lewis, 40 & 8 Club.

Referees will be Bob Young, Dorcil Kline, Charles Lattimer, Paul Flick and John Frank. Amos Huffman is the league scorer.

DOUBLE WINNER

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Many two-horse entries have started in the Preakness stakes at Pimlico, but only once has an entry run one-two. In 1934 Brookmeade Stable's High Quest beat Stablemate Cavalcade by a nose.

Stock Market Irregular; Overall List Off Slightly

NEW YORK (UPI)—Stocks put on an active and highly irregular performance Wednesday with the overall list showing an easier trend.

The Dow-Jones industrial average tacked on close to a point thanks largely to a hefty 2⅝ point rise in Alcoa but losses outnumbered gains for the market as a whole.

Rails achieved the best percentage gain but here again the cause was very local. C&O, which claims to have over half the B&O stock "in the bag," added 1¼ while B&O rolled up a sharp 2½.

Motion picture stocks appeared the standout group with most here ahead around a point or more. Warner Brothers tacked on 1 on persistent rumors it would offer tenders on its stock. Aluminums, building materials, and defense stocks were generally up but most groups showed wide variations in price.

The market breakdown showed 526 declines, 494 gainers and 214 unchanged out of a total of 1,234 issues traded. New highs, however, again outnumbered new lows by a wide margin — 41 to 15.

The Dow-Jones industrial average rose 0.96 to 612.68, rails added 0.36 to 127.10 and utilities lost 0.16 at 97.49. Volume rose sharply to 3,880,000 shares from 3,500,000 Tuesday with the tape again late at the close.

Stock Market Irregular; Overall List Off Slightly

NEW YORK (UPI)—Stocks put on an active and highly irregular performance Wednesday with the overall list showing an easier trend.

The Dow-Jones industrial average tacked on close to a point thanks largely to a hefty 2⅝ point rise in Alcoa but losses outnumbered gains for the market as a whole.

Rails achieved the best percentage gain but here again the cause was very local. C&O, which claims to have over half the B&O stock "in the bag," added 1¼ while B&O rolled up a sharp 2½.

Motion picture stocks appeared the standout group with most here ahead around a point or more. Warner Brothers tacked on 1 on persistent rumors it would offer tenders on its stock. Aluminums, building materials, and defense stocks were generally up but most groups showed wide variations in price.

The market breakdown showed 526 declines, 494 gainers and 214 unchanged out of a total of 1,234 issues traded. New highs, however, again outnumbered new lows by a wide margin — 41 to 15.

The Dow-Jones industrial average rose 0.96 to 612.68, rails added 0.36 to 127.10 and utilities lost 0.16 at 97.49. Volume rose sharply to 3,880,000 shares from 3,500,000 Tuesday with the tape again late at the close.

In Memoriam

In memory of my dear husband, Carl P. McDonald, who was killed Dec. 15, 1956.

Just when his days seemed brightest,
Just when his hopes seemed best,
God called him from amongst us
To his eternal rest.
Sadly missed, but God knows best.
Wife, ANONA McDONALD

In loving memory of our dear Son and Brother, Charles "Lew" Fleegle who was killed in Germany, Dec. 15, 1944.

Sadly missed by his Mother, Brother and Sister

Card Of Thanks

We wish to express our sincere appreciation to our friends, neighbors and relatives who were so kind to us during our recent bereavement, the death of our beloved wife and sister, Mrs. Marie Schupfer. We thank the pallbearers, those who sent flowers, those who donated the use of their cars for the funeral. To all others who in any manner rendered assistance, we are indeed grateful.

GEORGE SCHUPFER AND MRS. JOHN GERDEMAN

In Memoriam

In memory of my dear husband, Carl P. McDonald, who was killed Dec. 15, 1956.
Just when his days seemed brightest,
Just when his hopes seemed best,
God called him from amongst us
To his eternal rest.
Sadly missed, but God knows best.
Wife, ANONA McDONALD

In loving memory of our dear Son and Brother, Charles "Lew" Fleegle who was killed in Germany, Dec. 15, 1944.
Sadly missed by his Mother, Brother and Sister

Card Of Thanks

We wish to express our sincere appreciation to our friends, neighbors and relatives who were so kind to us during our recent bereavement, the death of our beloved wife and sister, Mrs. Marie Schupfer. We thank the pallbearers, those who sent flowers, those who donated the use of their cars for the funeral. To all others who in any manner rendered assistance, we are indeed grateful.
GEORGE SCHUPFER AND MRS. JOHN GERDEMAN

Storm Reduces Attendance In Hardy Schools

MOOREFIELD, W. Va. — The snow and sleet storm which dumped 12 inches of snow in Hardy County Sunday night and early Monday morning, cut school attendance from 2200 to 800 or 900, according to the announcement of Stanley P. Hawse, Hardy County school superintendent.

At Moorefield Graded School attendance was only 146 with 250 absent, according to principal, Raymond Sindy and attendance at Moorefield High School was 191 out of an enrollment of 468, according to John A. Mathias, principal.

Superintendent Hawse said that schools would be open all during the school year on scheduled days and that students would be expected to attend if at all possible to get there. The loss of an additional day this year was caused by the general election November 8. Hawse said that all county schools were open Monday and all teachers were present. He added that it is better to have school for those able to attend than to cancel sessions for all students.

EXECUTORS' NOTICE

THIS IS TO GIVE NOTICE, That the subscriber has obtained from the Orphans' Court of Allegany County, Maryland, letters Testamentary on the estate of Lillian Laing Lawler, late of Allegany County, Maryland, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with the vouchers thereof duly authenticated, to the subscriber on or before the 13th day of June, 1961. They may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of the said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

While it is no doubt true that the use of too many conventions tends to make a player rule bound, it is also true that a complete disregard of conventional methods deprives that player of certain weapons that are indispensable to success. No amount of common sense, no amount of logic can take care of certain situations for which these conventions are especially devised. Today's hand provides a striking illustration of just that point.

North held the equivalent of an opening bid and South had opened the bidding and jumped. This made it appear that there was a very good chance for a slam. North, therefore, invited partner to contract for a slam by overbidding the game in no trump. This was not intended as a conventional four no trump bid. It was a raise of the no trump, which invited the slam. South's acceptance of the invitation was justifiable.

East's double of the slam under modern convention calls for the lead of dummy's first bid suit. As you will observe, with a spade lead declarer hasn't the slightest chance. But West was one of those players who "play them as they see them" and it was not possible for him to see that a spade lead was indicated. He therefore made the safe lead of the jack of clubs. East quite properly ducked, since taking the ace would give declarer two club tricks. Declarer realized that East must hold the king of spades and the ace of clubs, so that it was pointless to take the spade finesse. He cashed three top hearts, discarding a spade from the closed hand, and then ran all the diamonds, leaving the end position as follows:

A club now saddled East with the lead and dummy took the last two tricks with the ace and queen of spades.

Appearance Cancelled

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (UPI)—Former President Harry S. Truman who cancelled a scheduled appearance Tuesday night because he was suffering from a virus infection, was back in his office at the Truman Library here Wednesday. "He's all right now," his secretary, Miss Conway, said. Mr. Truman had been scheduled to address a meeting of the International Relations Council in Kansas City Wednesday night. The former president is 76 years old.

FAA Orders Equipment

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Aviation Agency (FAA) Wednesday ordered $5.2 million worth of long range radar equipment to keep an eye on planes traveling over heavy air routes. A contract was awarded to the Raytheon Co., of Waltham, Mass., for improved radar components that will enable the FAA's stations to observe the flight of aircraft 200 miles away and at heights of 60,000 feet.

"Heat Wave"

MOSCOW (UPI) — Moscow Wednesday enjoyed some of its warmest December weather in 60 years with temperatures hovering around 34 degrees. Many Muscovites considered it almost a "heat wave." Red Square, usually a blanket of white in December, disappointed tourists by being a field of springlike mud. Green grass sprouted around the city and lilacs were in bloom.

Postwar Record

OTTAWA (UPI)—Canada's jobless numbered 429,000 by Nov. 12, a post-war record for the month, the government reported Wednesday. The figure represented an increase of 61,000 over mid-October and 11,000 over a year ago. In the winter of 1957-58, when unemployment reached a modern peak of 637,000 by mid-March, the November level was only 318,000.

Seven Injured

ATLANTA (UPI) — Seven firemen were injured, two of them seriously, Wednesday when a fire ambulance collided at a major intersection in downtown Atlanta. Police said both vehicles were on call to a fire in the heart of the city. Witnesses said the fire engine was heading south and the ambulance east on major thoroughfares.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband just left for work yelling, "No woman can be such a lousy money-manager. You must be keeping a man on the side!"

I've been married to this sour puss for 20 years. After three years of his handling the money I had to go to go to work and pull us out of the hole. This is my record since he turned the money over to me:

We now own two cars, our house, a boat, color TV, good furniture and we have no bills. We have sent his mother $35 a month for the past ten years. Our two children take music lessons and have good clothes, bikes, camera equipment, and everything they need.

When we married he was making $5,000 a year. Now he makes $12,500 but remember the cost of everything has gone up. Will you please print your opinion of my record? — UNAPPRECIATED

DEAR UNAPPRECIATED: Cheers! You should be Secretary of The Treasury!

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I met a boy at a summer resort last July. He is 20 and I'm 17. I never fell so hard and so fast for anyone in all my life. We met late in the season and had only a few dates before he had to leave.

Several days ago I was passing through the city where he lives and I phoned him to say hello. He was out but his mother suggested I drop him a line. I started my letter "Dear Jim" and closed with "Love, Sue." My letter was friendly but not mushy.

His reply came yesterday and it made be feel like a fool. He started his letter "Hi" and closed with "Buenos Dias."

I want to write to him again but I don't know what to do about a beginning and an end. Can you help me? — BELITTLED

DEAR BELITTLED: "Dear Jim" is still a good beginning. It's the conventional way to start a letter — and even bill collectors start this way. It doesn't mean "You are dear to me" or anything like that.

The "Love, Sue" was too friendly. Sign off with "Buena suerta" and let him look it up.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband and I have been married four years and are very happy. He has three children by a former marriage and pays a whopping support bill.

I didn't meet Wendell until after he was divorced so his ex-wife can't accuse me of breaking up her marriage. When Wendell and I started to go together she tried to get him to remarry her but it didn't work. Last year she gave up and married a mediocre guy who promptly lost his job.

The ex-wife called Wendell a few months ago, and said the children were getting nervous and insecure because their step-father was unemployed. Could he put the guy to work? Wendell agreed and now they're in our hair but good. They drop over frequently "to talk business" and the ex looks at Wendell in a way I don't like. Any advice? — N. W.

DEAR N. W.: It was good of Wendell to get the guy a job. His mistake, however, was employing the fellow himself.

You are justified in resenting the woman's presence in your home. Tell your husband he must find his ex's husband a job elsewhere. This set-up is unhealthy.

Are your parents too strict? You can benefit from the experiences of thousands of teen-agers if you write for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "How To Live With Your Parents," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Storm Reduces Attendance In Hardy Schools

MOOREFIELD, W. Va. — The snow and sleet storm which dumped 12 inches of snow in Hardy County Sunday night and early Monday morning, cut school attendance from 2200 to 800 or 900, according to the announcement of Stanley P. Hawse, Hardy County school superintendent.

At Moorefield Graded School attendance was only 146 with 250 absent, according to principal, Raymond Sindy and attendance at Moorefield High School was 191 out of an enrollment of 468, according to John A. Mathias, principal.

Superintendent Hawse said that schools would be open all during the school year on scheduled days and that students would be expected to attend if at all possible to get there. The loss of an additional day this year was caused by the general election November 8. Hawse said that all county schools were open Monday and all teachers were present. He added that it is better to have school for those able to attend than to cancel sessions for all students.

While it is no doubt true that the use of too many conventions tends to make a player rule bound, it is also true that a complete disregard of conventional methods deprives that player of certain weapons that are indispensable to success. No amount of common sense, no amount of logic can take care of certain situations for which these conventions are especially devised. Today's hand provides a striking illustration of just that point.

North held the equivalent of an opening bid and South had opened the bidding and jumped. This made it appear that there was a very good chance for a slam. North, therefore, invited partner to contract for a slam by overbidding the game in no trump. This was not intended as a conventional four no trump bid. It was a raise of the no trump, which invited the slam. South's acceptance of the invitation was justifiable.

East's double of the slam under modern convention calls for the lead of dummy's first bid suit. As you will observe, with a spade lead declarer hasn't the slightest chance. But West was one of those players who "play them as they see them" and it was not possible for him to see that a spade lead was indicated. He therefore made the safe lead of the jack of clubs. East quite properly ducked, since taking the ace would give declarer two club tricks. Declarer realized that East must hold the king of spades and the ace of clubs, so that it was pointless to take the spade finesse. He cashed three top hearts, discarding a spade from the closed hand, and then ran all the diamonds, leaving the end position as follows:

A club now saddled East with the lead and dummy took the last two tricks with the ace and queen of spades.

Appearance Cancelled

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (UPI)—Former President Harry S. Truman who cancelled a scheduled appearance Tuesday night because he was suffering from a virus infection, was back in his office at the Truman Library here Wednesday. "He's all right now," his secretary, Miss Conway, said. Mr. Truman had been scheduled to address a meeting of the International Relations Council in Kansas City Wednesday night. The former president is 76 years old.

FAA Orders Equipment

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Aviation Agency (FAA) Wednesday ordered $5.2 million worth of long range radar equipment to keep an eye on planes traveling over heavy air routes. A contract was awarded to the Raytheon Co., of Waltham, Mass., for improved radar components that will enable the FAA's stations to observe the flight of aircraft 200 miles away and at heights of 60,000 feet.

"Heat Wave"

MOSCOW (UPI) — Moscow Wednesday enjoyed some of its warmest December weather in 60 years with temperatures hovering around 34 degrees. Many Muscovites considered it almost a "heat wave." Red Square, usually a blanket of white in December, disappointed tourists by being a field of springlike mud. Green grass sprouted around the city and lilacs were in bloom.

Seven Injured

ATLANTA (UPI) — Seven firemen were injured, two of them seriously, Wednesday when a fire ambulance collided at a major intersection in downtown Atlanta. Police said both vehicles were on call to a fire in the heart of the city. Witnesses said the fire engine was heading south and the ambulance east on major thoroughfares.

Postwar Record

OTTAWA (UPI)—Canada's jobless numbered 429,000 by Nov. 12, a post-war record for the month, the government reported Wednesday. The figure represented an increase of 61,000 over mid-October and 11,000 over a year ago. In the winter of 1957-58, when unemployment reached a modern peak of 637,000 by mid-March, the November level was only 318,000.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband just left for work yelling, "No woman can be such a lousy money-manager. You must be keeping a man on the side!"

I've been married to this sour puss for 20 years. After three years of his handling the money I had to go to go to work and pull us out of the hole. This is my record since he turned the money over to me:

We now own two cars, our house, a boat, color TV, good furniture and we have no bills. We have sent his mother $35 a month for the past ten years. Our two children take music lessons and have good clothes, bikes, camera equipment, and everything they need.

When we married he was making $5,000 a year. Now he makes $12,500 but remember the cost of everything has gone up. Will you please print your opinion of my record? — UNAPPRECIATED

DEAR UNAPPRECIATED: Cheers! You should be Secretary of The Treasury!

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I met a boy at a summer resort last July. He is 20 and I'm 17. I never fell so hard and so fast for anyone in all my life. We met late in the season and had only a few dates before he had to leave.

Several days ago I was passing through the city where he lives and I phoned him to say hello. He was out but his mother suggested I drop him a line. I started my letter "Dear Jim" and closed with "Love, Sue." My letter was friendly but not mushy.

His reply came yesterday and it made be feel like a fool. He started his letter "Hi" and closed with "Buenos Dias."

I want to write to him again but I don't know what to do about a beginning and an end. Can you help me? — BELITTLED

DEAR BELITTLED: "Dear Jim" is still a good beginning. It's the conventional way to start a letter — and even bill collectors start this way. It doesn't mean "You are dear to me" or anything like that.

The "Love, Sue" was too friendly. Sign off with "Buena suerta" and let him look it up.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband and I have been married four years and are very happy. He has three children by a former marriage and pays a whopping support bill.

I didn't meet Wendell until after he was divorced so his ex-wife can't accuse me of breaking up her marriage. When Wendell and I started to go together she tried to get him to remarry her but it didn't work. Last year she gave up and married a mediocre guy who promptly lost his job.

The ex-wife called Wendell a few months ago, and said the children were getting nervous and insecure because their step-father was unemployed. Could he put the guy to work? Wendell agreed and now they're in our hair but good. They drop over frequently "to talk business" and the ex looks at Wendell in a way I don't like. Any advice? — N. W.

DEAR N. W.: It was good of Wendell to get the guy a job. His mistake, however, was employing the fellow himself.

You are justified in resenting the woman's presence in your home. Tell your husband he must find his ex's husband a job elsewhere. This set-up is unhealthy.

Are your parents too strict? You can benefit from the experiences of thousands of teen-agers if you write for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "How To Live With Your Parents," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Police Request Occupants To Clean Walks

Action Urged By Commerce Chamber

Patrolmen are asking people to clean snow and ice from their sidewalks, according to Police Chief B. Frank Gaffney.

He said the drive is being aimed primarily at the downtown area between the railroads.

Chief Gaffney said a city ordinance requires occupants or property owners to clear sidewalks of snow.

The ordinance requires that within six hours after the fall of any snow, occupants of houses, agents of vacant buildings or lots and persons having charge of churches and public buildings shall clear away snow, or cause it to be cleared, so as to make clear the passageway the full width of the sidewalk.

Penalty Is Set

During some past heavy snows, authorities have asked people to clean only part of the sidewalk, so excess snow can be piled on grass spots and not the street.

The ordinance provides for a penalty of from $1 to $2 for each offense and for a further fine of $5 for each day snow is allowed to remain on the sidewalks.

The Chamber added that the fact a business is unoccupied does not relieve the owner from the obligation.

Prompt clearing of snow and ice from sidewalks in the business area, the Chamber said, is one of the easy ways to improve the downtown area.

Yesterday's thaw compounded the troubles of shoppers as sidewalks became glazed with slush and passing cars splattered pedestrians with a dirty mixture of slush and water.

Spots Are Clear

Bare spots began appearing on heavily traveled streets here yesterday as the combination of scraping, salt, cinders, chains, and especially a jump in the temperature, acted on the some 12 inches of snow which fell Sunday night and Monday morning.

Street Department crews were scheduled to continue clearing snow from the downtown area last night.

Shaded streets and streets in some outlying sections of the city were still covered with up to six inches of snow and ice.

City buses have generally kept on schedule since Monday, but have had to make slight changes in routes to miss the hazardous spots.

A meeting was held by Street Commissioner John J. Long with foremen yesterday to discuss complaints made by citizens about the slowness of the snow clearance job.

Polio Clinics Will Be Held Over Winter

The Allegany County Health Department held a polio immunization clinic yesterday afternoon in the Health Department quarters in the Union Street county building.

Dr. Ton van Strien, county health officer, said the clinics will be held each second Wednesday afternoon through the winter to give everybody a chance to become immunized before the 1961 polio season begins.

Clinics will be held for persons of all ages up to 40.

Dr. van Strien said it is the responsibility of parents to see that their children receive the protection from their family doctors or from the Health Department.

The over-the-winter clinics are a continuation of a series of polio clinics which began in June in Cumberland, Frostburg, Westernport, Lonaconing, Oldtown and Cresaptown.

All of the Cumberland polio immunization clinics will be held on second Wednesdays from 1 to 4 p. m.

Similar clinics for other sections of the county are expected to begin in the spring.

CWV Will Attend Mass In A Body

Members of Victor Tambolleo Post 1712, Catholic War Veterans, will attend the 8:30 a. m. Mass in a body on Sunday at St. Mary's Church.

Commander Glen Kimberlin said the newly-organied ladies auxiliary unit will attend with the members, who are asked to be in the church basement at 8:15 a. m. to march to the church. The post colors will be borne.

SAMUEL J. WESTON

Coordinating Unit Formed By Social Agencies

Samuel J. Weston Named Chairman

A group representing various social agencies held an informal luncheon meeting at the Fort Cumberland Hotel yesterday and decided to set up an association for the purpose of exchanging ideas, providing areas of closer cooperation and coordinating services and activities.

At the request of several interested people, the meeting was called on invitation of Samuel J. Weston, officer in charge of the local Veterans Administration office. Mr. Weston, who came here from Washington County three years ago, is familiar with a similar organization in Hagerstown and explained its effective operation there.

The group elected Mr. Weston to serve as chairman; Francis A. Kenney, manager of the Department of Employment Security, as vice chairman; and Mrs. Sarah G. Lindsay, executive secretary of the Allegany County Chapter American Red Cross as secretary-treasurer.

It was agreed the group will hold a luncheon meeting once each month except June, July and August. At each meeting, one of the group will outline the work of his particular agency and mutual problems will be discussed. Some programs will consist of panel discussions and on occasions, outside speakers will be invited. Trial Magistrate F. Allan Weatherholt was named program chairman.

It was decided to extend invitations to all welfare, social and health agencies to affiliate and to take part in the activities of the organization.

As Mr. Weston explained the idea, he said, "Those of us who constantly work with people and with the problems of people can render better, more efficient service if we understand the work and areas of service offered by other agencies.

"While some of us do refer people to other agencies where help is available, it will save much time and confusion if we learn first-hand from each other just what we can or cannot do. That is the main purpose of these get-acquainted meetings."

Represented at the initial meeting were the Health Department, Dr. Ton van Strien, health officer and Jennie J. Graham, administrative assistant; the Veterans Administration, Mr. Weston; Allegany County Welfare Department, Miss Ethel Wilderman, director; Social Security Administration, Walter R. Campbell, manager; Vocational Rehabilitation, John Cobun, manager; Department of Employment Security, Mr. Kenney, manager; Mental Health Clinic, Mrs. Ella D. Everstine, administrator; Allegany County Red Cross, Mrs. Lindsay, executive secretary; and Magistrate Weatherholt, representing the lower courts.

The January meeting, to be held at a date to be announced, will feature a panel discussion by Mr. Weston and Mrs. Cobun, with Magistrate Weatherholt as moderator.

Court Probates Mrs. Lawler Will

The will of Mrs. Lillian Laing Lawler, who was a 68-year-old resident of 214 Fayette Street at the time of her death November 28, was probated Tuesday in Allegany County Orphans Court.

Two sons, Albert Joseph Lawler, 214 Fayette Street, and Thomas Comerford Lawler, Alexandria, Va., qualified as executors under a $500 bond.

Mrs. Lawler's interest in the Fayette Street property was bequeathed to her daughter, Lillian-Marie Lawler, and her son, Albert Joseph Lawler, along with household effects. All the rest of her estate was left equally to her six children, Mrs. Mary Lawler Busch, Lillian-Marie Lawler, Thomas Comerford Lawler, Laing Lawler Baker, Father Ronald Lawler and Albert Joseph Lawler. The will was drawn in June 1953.

'The Messiah' Reset For Sunday Afternoon

The Cumberland Choral Society will present "The Messiah" Sunday at 3:30 p.m. at Allegany High School auditorium.

The performance originally was scheduled last Sunday but was postponed because of weather conditions.

Temperatures To Moderate In Area Today

Cloudy Skies Are Forecast

The temperature is expected to climb toward the 40-degree mark today and melt more of the snow which blanketed the tri-state area Sunday in the first real storm of the pre-winter season.

State Police said last night that U.S. Route 40 east and west of Cumberland is now fairly clear, with patches of ice. Chains are not required.

They pointed out that chains are still recommended for some rural roads in the area.

Increasing cloudiness is forecast for today, although no new snow is expected. When the temperature rose to 38 degrees in Cumberland yesterday much of the snow melted, and more is expected to go today.

The mercury dipped to six degrees early yesterday morning and by the afternoon it climbed to the 38-degree mark. At 6 p.m. yesterday it was 31 degrees here, said Robert Golden, weather observer.

Ralph Weber, official weather observer at Oakland, said it was clear in Garrett County yesterday and the 12 inches of snow was reduced to about 10 inches.

The temperature reading was four above at 8 p.m. Tuesday, but temperature warmed up to 24 degrees yesterday afternoon.

He said there is a possibility of some snow or rain in Garrett County today.

Monroe Keister, Former County Principal, Dies

Monroe F. Keister, 60, who served as the first principal of Oldtown High School, died yesterday in Memorial Hospital.

Mr. Keister, who resided in Bedford Valley the past 14 years, had been in ill health for four months.

A graduate of Frostburg Normal School and the University of Maryland, he taught school in Allegany County for 14 years and served at the Oldtown principal for 11 years.

Mr. Keister had been serving this area as an electrical inspector for the Fire Underwriters Board.

Born at Lewisburg, Pa., he was a son of Mrs. Mary (Reitenbach) Keister, Midlothian, and the late Charles Keister.

He was a member of Mountain Lodge 99, AF & AM in Frostburg; a charter member of the Tall Cedars of Lebanon in Everett, Pa., a member of the York Rite Bodies; Order of Eastern Star in Frostburg; Trinity Lutheran Church in Bedford and the Fundamentalist Laymen's Group.

Mr. Keister also was a member of Local 307, Electrical Workers, and was a veteran of World War I.

Surviving, besides his mother, are his widow, Hisel (Teter) Keister; four sons, Capt. Charles F. Keister, with the Marine Corps at Camp Lejeune, N. C.; Fred T. Keister, Hampton, N. H.; Ronald M. Keister, Bedford, and Samuel L. Keister, RFD 3, Bedford; two daughters, Mrs. John Hickey, Bedford, and Miss Glenna R. Keister, at home; three brothers, Harry E., Midlothian; John C., Star Route, Frostburg, and Russell E. Keister, Frostburg; a sister, Mrs. Ellsworth Crabtree, Oldtown, and six grandchildren.

The body is at the Kight Funeral Home where the family will receive friends from 2 to 4 p. m. and 7 to 9 p. m.

Local Girl Injured

Cathy Arnold, 12, of 1024 Harding Avenue, was admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital yesterday afternoon after being struck by a car on Shade's Lane.

The hospital said the girl was on her way home from school when the accident occurred. She was admitted to the hospital for X-rays and observation.

Thomas B. Finan Slated To Be Attorney General

Attorney General C. Ferdinand Sybert and Circuit Judge Charles C. Marbury yesterday were appointed by Governor Tawes to the Maryland Court of Appeals. The Governor took no immediate action to name a successor to Mr. Sybert, but it is understood the attorney general's post probably will go to Secretary of State Thomas B. Finan of Cumberland.

In addition to his duties as Secretary of State, Mr. Finan has been serving as chairman of the Maryland Democratic Party.

If Mr. Finan is appointed attorney general, he will become the first Allegany countian to hold a top state office since William C. Walsh served as attorney general. Mr. Walsh was elected in 1938 and again in 1942. He resigned in 1945.

Prior to that the late Hugh A. McMullen had been elected comptroller in 1915 and 1917.

Mr. Finan, a 46-year-old Cumberland attorney and former city solicitor, was the manager in Maryland counties for the statewide Democratic ticket in 1958.

He became secretary of state when Tawes took office in January, 1959, and has been one of the governor's closest advisors since then in addition to handling state party affairs.

The judgeships were created by the 1960 legislature in expanding the high court from five to seven judges and were approved by voters Nov. 8. Both appointees will stand for election to 15 year terms in 1962.

Judge Marbury, a 61-year-old resident of Upper Marlboro, has been on the circuit court bench in Prince Georges County since his appointment by former Gov. Herbert O'Conor in 1941. He was elected twice to 15-year terms.

Judge Marbury will represent the new Southern Maryland 4th Appellate Circuit on the Court of Appeals. The circuit embraces Prince Georges, Charles, Calvert and St. Marys counties.

Mr. Sybert, 60, of Elkridge, will represent the 5th Appellate Circuit embracing Carroll, Howard and Anne Arundel counties.

Mr. Sybert has been attorney general, the state's top legal officer, since 1954, having been elected twice to that post. Previously he represented Howard County in the Maryland Legislature and was speaker of the House from 1947 to 1950 when he was elected to the Senate.

Tawes appointed both men from lists recommended to him by a State Bar Association committee.

The two new judges will be eligible to take their oaths after commissions are mailed to them by the governor. It is understood Sybert may require several weeks to clean up some pending business in the attorney general's office before going on the high court.

Ceiling Drops As Drain Clogs

The ceiling of one of the offices of the Allegany County Health Department in the County Building on Union Street was badly damaged yesterday by melting snow and ice.

The damage apparently was caused when ice and snow caused the drains a tthe top of the building to become clogged. Water then seeped into the building between the ceiling of the first floor and the floor of the second story.

Approximately a five-foot square area of the ceiling of the office used for medical care fell when the water weakened the plaster.

A light fixture in the ceiling also was damaged by the water and moisture also came into the office room along one of the outside walls.

No one was hurt when the section of the ceiling fell. Janitors at the building were busy most of the day cleaning up the damage.

Injured At Work

Noah Carder, Oldtown, an employe of the State Roads Commission, was admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital yesterday after suffering a mashed toe while at work.

Firemen Meet Today

The board of trustees and officers of the Bowling Green Volunteer Fire Company will meet today at 7:30 p. m. in the fire hall.

$50,000 Damage Suit Moved To Allegany County

Pa. Woman Suing Hagerstown Man

A $50,000 damage suit, originally filed in Washington County Circuit Court, Hagerstown, has been moved to Allegany County Circuit Court.

Papers received at the Court House here indicate that Carrie Belle Palmer, Route 3, Greencastle, Pa., is suing Alvey R. Cook, Route 6, Hagerstown, as a result of injuries she sustained in a two-car accident May 20, 1959 in Hagerstown.

The declaration states that the plaintiff was operating her car south on West Side Avenue and was approaching the intersection of West Church Street.

About the same time a car driven by the defendant was traveling west on West Church Street. He failed to stop his car at a stop sign at the intersection, the declaration asserted.

Cook "carelessly and negligently" at an "excessive rate of speed" failed to stop at the sign and yield the right of way and allowed his car to strike the plaintiff's car, said the declaration.

The woman sustained severe injuries to her right arm, back, head and body and was seriously and permanently injured, according to the declaration, which pointed out that she incurred medical and hospital expenses.

The plaintiff is being represented by Ernest V. Wachs and Samuel C. Strite. Wagaman and Wagaman, Hagerstown attorneys, are representing Cook.

Amcelle Plant Affected By Business Dip

The general business recession during the last three months has resulted in substantial furloughs of employes at the Amcelle plant of Celanese Fibers Company, a plant spokesman confirmed yesterday.

Approximately 475 employes have now been affected by the production curtailments which occurred on a gradual basis beginning in early fall.

More than 100 of the furloughed workers are people who were employed early in the year to fill the heavy vacation relief program occasioned by the large number of Amcelle employes who are eligible for four-week vacations.

The feeling, it was explained, is that none of the curtailment is due to the company's competitive position and that as soon as the business upturn occurs, the Amcelle plant will get its share of the business.

There are still slightly over 2,000 hourly paid employes at the plant which has a total employment of over 2,500. The normal level was near 3,000.

SRC Purchases Land

The State Roads Commission has purchased property on Avirett Avenue from Charles W. Harper and his wife, Leona R. Harper, 209 Avirett Avenue, according to a deed filed yesterday in the land records office of Allegany County Circuit Court.

Team Captains Are Cited In CUF Campaign

Pavement Pounders Awarded 'Cuffies'

The backbone of the successful 1960 County United Fund Campaign is the many men and women serving in all divisions in all CUF areas as team captains and CUF representatives, according to William E. Crooks, general campaign manager.

It is this dedicated group of faithful workers, he said, who literally "pound the pavements" soliciting pledges and contributions from the industrial worker, the construction worker, employes of service, retail and wholesale houses, of governmental units and offices, small and large businessmen and women, professional people, retired folks and corporations.

Team captains and workers were presented with "Cuffies" in recognition of their outstanding services at the CUF Honor Award Dinner held Monday at the snow-swept Shrine Country Club.

Receive Awards

Mr. Crooks awarded "Cuffies" to Robert Hunter Jr., Cumberland golden gifts team captain whose team was the first in this division to reach its goal exceeding it by 16.3 per cent; Cumberland golden gifts team captains William Durland and Lewis J. Ort; Golden Gifts workers Hudson Nix, H. Lee Silcox, Harry M. Snowden and Mrs. George Young; Cumberland Classified team captains Fred A. Hutchison, whose team was first in this division to reach its goal exceeding it by 14.3 per cent, David P. Goodfellow, J. Edgar MacMannis whose team exceeded its goal by 27 per cent, William B. Orndorff, Andrew N. Phillips, James H. Smith, whose team exceeded its goal by 1.2 per cent; Wallace G. Ullery and Lawrence Brown.

Cumberland Classified workers who received "Cuffies" from Mr. Crooks were Earl D. Chaney, Sheriff Paul C. Haberlein, Thomas Kimmell, William Dudley, Joseph Snyder, Robert Brown; Cumberland business team captains Charles D. McElfish, Fred J. Hill whose team exceeded its goal by 4.8 per cent, and Willis V. Smith, whose team exceeded its goal by 2.8 per cent, and Business worker Dale L. Merritt.

Emory Loar, Frostburg team captain, and Harold Effland, Keyser classified worker, were presented "Cuffies."

Big 7 Honored

Raymond J. Cannon and Walter E. Dyck, co-chairmen of the Big 7 Division of the CUF Campaign, presented "Cuffies" to the members of the Big 7 charity fund committees.

"Cuffies" were received by Roy T. Satzer, chairman, and Duard H. Little, of the ABL Charity Fund of Allegany Ballistics Laboratory; H. A. Snoots, J. A. Gross E. M. Cummings and K. Cotten, of the B & O Railroad Employes County United Fund; Charles H. Brode, chairman, Bernia Lucas, John G. Thomas, Harry W. McCunn, Miss Ida Kennell, Newman Miller, Rudolph Mendelsohn, James Stewart, Earl Twigg and David Holmes, of the Amcelle Employes Charity Fund of Celanese Fibers Company; William A. Hersh, Hubert Feeney, Nick Harris, George Boor, Karl W. Hartig, Norman C. Curtis and Andrew M. Lewis Jr. of the Works 7 Employes' United Fund Chapter of Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company; W. Fred Mowen, of the Western Maryland Railway Charity Fund; F. T. Bell and Robert E. Moore, of the Kelly Employes' Charity Fund of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company, and Richard Duckworth, Arnold Weese, LeRoy Imperio and Harris LeFew, of the Westvaco Employes' One-Drive Charity Fund of the West Virginia Pulp & Paper Company.

Winfield H. Adam, CUF executive director presented service award shingles to the campaign auditors B. Woodward Dycke, W. Edward Jenkins, Paul D. Long and Chief Auditor award plaque to Richard C. Dickerhoff.

Sherlock Held For Action Of Garrett Jury

Early Trial Is Expected

A 38-year-old Angola, Ind., man was ordered held for action of the Garrett County grand jury during a preliminary hearing yesterday before Trial Magistrate Robert M. Maroney in Oakland.

John Sherlock, who is being held without bond in the county jail, is charged with the death of his mother, Mrs. Bridgett Sherlock, 58, who died Friday in Brownsville (Pa.) General Hospital of a fractured skull and lacerations of the liver.

Garrett County authorities said yesterday it is possible an early trial will be sought, explaining that the present grand jury can be recalled rather than wait for the March jury panel.

By yesterday evening Sherlock had not contacted anyone to represent him, according to W. Dwight Stover, state's attorney, who said that in all probability the court will name counsel for the accused man.

Fayette County (Pa.) authorities said the woman's injuries resulted from heavy blows inflicted by another person. Sherlock reportedly told police he had fought with his mother in a Garrett County motel on the day before she died.

He later changed his story and said his mother had fallen in a bathtub after taking pills for an epileptic attack.

Sherlock, his mother, and two young sons are said to have been returning to Angola from Norfolk, Va., when they stopped at the motel.

He and his sons were taken into custody when they refused to leave a rooming house in Brownsville where they had gone after Mrs. Sherlock was admitted to the hospital.

After their father waived extradition at a hearing Monday before Judge Edward Dumbauld in Fayette County Court, the two youngsters, aged 11 and 12, were turned over to the Garrett County Welfare Board to be placed temporarily in a foster home.

Luther Leagues Plan Pageant

The junior and senior Luther Leagues of St. Luke's Lutheran Church will present a Christmas pageant in the church social hall Sunday evening at 7 p.m.

Narrator for the performance will be Dorothy Moyer. Those taking part will be Tina Lambert, as Mary, Jack Means as Joseph, Robert Oglebay, Robert Nave, Charles Palmer and Robert Hast as shepherds; Marylyn Diehl, Sue Bennett, Barbara Plummer, Ann Oglebay and Linda Rinehart as angels; Richard Hast, John Lannigan and Richard Zegles as the Wise Men; Dave Adam as Zachariah, Gary McGee as a prophet, Martha Mae Sine, soloist, and Lois Sine, reader.

The stage crew consists of James Dillon, Robert Walburn, James Hast, Judy Barnes, Terry Zegles and Donald Sine.

Junior and senior choir members will add the musical accompaniment. The pageant is being directed by Robert Smith, assisted by Mrs. Frankland Sine.

A free will offering will be received, with proceeds going to the Lutheran world action fund.

Tree Lighting Ceremony Is Set Sunday

Fort Hill Choir Will Sing Carols

The City of Cumberland will officially usher in the Yuletide Sunday night at its Community Tree Lighting ceremony.

Final plans for the event were completed yesterday by the City Recreation Department.

Street Department crews were busy yesterday putting the final touches on the traditional Creche —the Christmas scene at the Greene Street entrance to Emmanuel Episcopal Church.

The tree lighting ceremony will begin Sunday at 9 p. m. in front of First Presbyterian Church on Washington Street.

Long To Officiate

John J. Long, commissioner of streets and public property, will be master of ceremonies and the newly organized Cumberland Community Band will play the prelude, "Christmas Overture."

Rev. Maurice D. Robertson, pastor of First Presbyterian Church, will give the invocation and a selection by the band, directed by L. F. Hahn, will follow.

Mayor J. Edwin Keech will turn on the lights of the community tree which is located on the grounds of Emmanuel Episcopal Church, site of old Fort Cumberland.

Choir To Sing

The Fort Hill High School, a cappella choir, directed by Miss Annetta Yates, will sing "Be Joyful, Be Merry," "Go Tell It in the Mountain" and "Snow Lay on the Ground."

A community sing will follow. It will be led by Miss Yates with music by the band.

Selections will be "Oh Come All Ye Faithful," "O Little Town of Bethlehem" and "Silent Night."

The service will close with the benediction by Rev. Arthur W. Bastress, assistant pastor of St. Patrick's Catholic Church.

Participants will be invited to the Girl Scout House for refreshments after the ceremony.

Members of Girl Scout Mariner Troop 20 will be hostesses at the Recreation Department sponsored event.

Warren Heads Firemen Of Bowling Green

Bernard Warren was elected president of the Bowling Green Volunteer Fire Company during the annual election meeting last night at the fire hall.

Other officers include Raymond Small, vice president; David E. Kirk, recording secretary; Elmer Rexroad, financial secretary; Douglas Golliday, treasurer; Rev. Richard Barley, chaplain; Charles Crawford, delegate to the executive board of the Allegany Garrett Volunteer Fireman's Association; Jack Beeman, alternate.

Delegates to the state and county conventions are Beeman, Kirk, Crawford, Raymond Small and Clayton Gillum.

Alternates are Golliday, Rev. Mr. Barley, Warren, Ayers and Ruppenkamp. The officers will be installed January 18 during a joint meeting of the volunteers and the auxiliary unit.

The meeting was originally scheduled for January 4 but was postponed due to the opening of the University of Maryland Fire School.

Lions To Sell Yule Trees In Cresaptown

The Potomac Valley Lions Club of Cresaptown will sell Christmas trees over the weekend in that community.

William Yoder and Robert Reinhart, co-chairmen of the project, said the fresh-cut nursery trees will be on sale Saturday from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m.; Sunday from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m.; and Monday from 1 p.m. to 6 p.m.

They said the trees will be located near Liller's Esso Service Station at the junction of McMullen Highway and the cutoff to U.S. Route 40.

COLLECTION DAY TODAY

Three Men Complete State Police School

Two young Cumberland men and a young man from Midland will graduate this afternoon in ceremonies at the Maryland State Police Academy in Pikesville.

They are Charles Ronald Twigg, 24, of 306 Piedmont Avenue; Thomas Edward McConnell, 24, of 534 Maryland Avenue, and Neil Wesley Alexander, 24, of Railroad Street, Midland.

The new troopers began the six-month training course of basic police studies on July 5 along with 41 other residents of the state.

Trooper Twigg is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Twigg, 32 Blackiston Avenue, and is married to the former Miss Leona Michaels.

He is a 1954 graduate of Fort Hill High School and served in the Marine Corps Reserve prior

Police Request Occupants To Clean Walks

Action Urged By Commerce Chamber

Patrolmen are asking people to clean snow and ice from their sidewalks, according to Police Chief B. Frank Gaffney.

He said the drive is being aimed primarily at the downtown area between the railroads.

Chief Gaffney said a city ordinance requires occupants or property owners to clear sidewalks of snow.

The ordinance requires that within six hours after the fall of any snow, occupants of houses, agents of vacant buildings or lots and persons having charge of churches and public buildings shall clear away snow, or cause it to be cleared, so as to make clear the passageway the full width of the sidewalk.

Penalty Is Set

During some past heavy snows, authorities have asked people to clean only part of the sidewalk, so excess snow can be piled on grass spots and not the street.

The ordinance provides for a penalty of from $1 to $2 for each offense and for a further fine of $5 for each day snow is allowed to remain on the sidewalks.

The Chamber of Commerce yesterday appealed for prompt action on clearing sidewalks and asked all its members to cooperate in the campaign.

The Chamber added that the fact a business is unoccupied does not relieve the owner from the obligation.

Prompt clearing of snow and ice from sidewalks in the business area, the Chamber said, is one of the easy ways to improve the downtown area.

Yesterday's thaw compounded the troubles of shoppers as sidewalks became glazed with slush and passing cars splattered pedestrians with a dirty mixture of slush and water.

Spots Are Clear

Bare spots began appearing on heavily traveled streets here yesterday as the combination of scraping, salt, cinders, chains, and especially a jump in the temperature, acted on the some 12 inches of snow which fell Sunday night and Monday morning.

Street Department crews were scheduled to continue clearing snow from the downtown area last night.

Shaded streets and streets in some outlying sections of the city were still covered with up to six inches of snow and ice.

City buses have generally kept on schedule since Monday, but have had to make slight changes in routes to miss the hazardous spots.

A meeting was held by Street Commissioner John J. Long with foremen yesterday to discuss complaints made by citizens about the slowness of the snow clearance job.

Polio Clinics Will Be Held Over Winter

The Allegany County Health Department held a polio immunization clinic yesterday afternoon in the Health Department quarters in the Union Street county building.

Dr. Ton van Strien, county health officer, said the clinics will be held each second Wednesday afternoon through the winter to give everybody a chance to become immunized before the 1961 polio season begins.

Clinics will be held for persons of all ages up to 40.

Dr. van Strien said it is the responsibility of parents to see that their children receive the protection from their family doctors or from the Health Department.

The over-the-winter clinics are a continuation of a series of polio clinics which began in June in Cumberland, Frostburg, Westernport, Lonaconing, Oldtown and Cresaptown.

All of the Cumberland polio immunization clinics will be held on second Wednesdays from 1 to 4 p. m.

Similar clinics for other sections of the county are expected to begin in the spring.

CWV Will Attend Mass In A Body

Members of Victor Tambolleo Post 1712, Catholic War Veterans, will attend the 8:30 a. m. Mass in a body on Sunday at St. Mary's Church.

Commander Glen Kimberlin said the newly-organied ladies auxiliary unit will attend with the members, who are asked to be in the church basement at 8:15 a. m. to march to the church. The post colors will be borne.

SAMUEL J. WESTON

Coordinating Unit Formed By Social Agencies

Samuel J. Weston Named Chairman

A group representing various social agencies held an informal luncheon meeting at the Fort Cumberland Hotel yesterday and decided to set up an association for the purpose of exchanging ideas, providing areas of closer cooperation and coordinating services and activities.

At the request of several interested people, the meeting was called on invitation of Samuel J. Weston, officer in charge of the local Veterans Administration office. Mr. Weston, who came here from Washington County three years ago, is familiar with a similar organization in Hagerstown and explained its effective operation there.

The group elected Mr. Weston to serve as chairman; Francis A. Kenney, manager of the Department of Employment Security, as vice chairman; and Mrs. Sarah G. Lindsay, executive secretary of the Allegany County Chapter American Red Cross as secretary-treasurer.

It was agreed the group will hold a luncheon meeting once each month except June, July and August. At each meeting, one of the group will outline the work of his particular agency and mutual problems will be discussed. Some programs will consist of panel discussions and on occasions, outside speakers will be invited. Trial Magistrate F. Allan Weatherholt was named program chairman.

It was decided to extend invitations to all welfare, social and health agencies to affiliate and to take part in the activities of the organization.

As Mr. Weston explained the idea, he said, "Those of us who constantly work with people and with the problems of people can render better, more efficient service if we understand the work and areas of service offered by other agencies.

"While some of us do refer people to other agencies where help is available, it will save much time and confusion if we learn first-hand from each other just what we can or cannot do. That is the main purpose of these get-acquainted meetings."

Represented at the initial meeting were the Health Department, Dr. Ton van Strien, health officer and Jennie J. Graham, administrative assistant; the Veterans Administration, Mr. Weston; Allegany County Welfare Department, Miss Ethel Wilderman, director; Social Security Administration, Walter R. Campbell, manager; Vocational Rehabilitation, John Cobun, manager; Department of Employment Security, Mr. Kenney, manager; Mental Health Clinic, Mrs. Ella D. Everstine, administrator; Allegany County Red Cross, Mrs. Lindsay, executive secretary; and Magistrate Weatherholt, representing the lower courts.

The January meeting, to be held at a date to be announced, will feature a panel discussion by Mr. Weston and Mrs. Cobun, with Magistrate Weatherholt as moderator.

Court Probates Mrs. Lawler Will

The will of Mrs. Lillian Laing Lawler, who was a 68-year-old resident of 214 Fayette Street at the time of her death November 28, was probated Tuesday in Allegany County Orphans Court.

Two sons, Albert Joseph Lawler, 214 Fayette Street, and Thomas Comerford Lawler, Alexandria, Va., qualified as executors under a $500 bond.

Mrs. Lawler's interest in the Fayette Street property was bequeathed to her daughter, Lillian-Marie Lawler, and her son, Albert Joseph Lawler, along with household effects. All the rest of her estate was left equally to her six children, Mrs. Mary Lawler Busch, Lillian-Marie Lawler, Thomas Comerford Lawler, Laing Lawler Baker, Father Ronald Lawler and Albert Joseph Lawler. The will was drawn in June 1953.

'The Messiah' Reset For Sunday Afternoon

The Cumberland Choral Society will present "The Messiah" Sunday at 3:30 p.m. at Allegany High School auditorium.

The performance originally was scheduled last Sunday but was postponed because of weather conditions.

Temperatures To Moderate In Area Today

Cloudy Skies Are Forecast

The temperature is expected to climb toward the 40-degree mark today and melt more of the snow which blanketed the tri-state area Sunday in the first real storm of the pre-winter season.

State Police said last night that U.S. Route 40 east and west of Cumberland is now fairly clear, with patches of ice. Chains are not required.

They pointed out that chains are still recommended for some rural roads in the area.

Increasing cloudiness is forecast for today, although no new snow is expected. When the temperature rose to 38 degrees in Cumberland yesterday much of the snow melted, and more is expected to go today.

The mercury dipped to six degrees early yesterday morning and by the afternoon it climbed to the 38-degree mark. At 6 p.m. yesterday it was 31 degrees here, said Robert Golden, weather observer.

Ralph Weber, official weather observer at Oakland, said it was clear in Garrett County yesterday and the 12 inches of snow was reduced to about 10 inches.

The temperature reading was four above at 8 p.m. Tuesday, but temperature warmed up to 24 degrees yesterday afternoon.

He said there is a possibility of some snow or rain in Garrett County today.

Monroe Keister, Former County Principal, Dies

Monroe F. Keister, 60, who served as the first principal of Oldtown High School, died yesterday in Memorial Hospital.

Mr. Keister, who resided in Bedford Valley the past 14 years, had been in ill health for four months.

A graduate of Frostburg Normal School and the University of Maryland, he taught school in Allegany County for 14 years and served at the Oldtown principal for 11 years.

Mr. Keister had been serving this area as an electrical inspector for the Fire Underwriters Board.

Born at Lewisburg, Pa., he was a son of Mrs. Mary (Reitenbach) Keister, Midlothian, and the late Charles Keister.

He was a member of Mountain Lodge 99, AF & AM in Frostburg; a charter member of the Tall Cedars of Lebanon in Everett, Pa., a member of the York Rite Bodies; Order of Eastern Star in Frostburg; Trinity Lutheran Church in Bedford and the Fundamentalist Laymen's Group.

Mr. Keister also was a member of Local 307, Electrical Workers, and was a veteran of World War I.

Surviving, besides his mother, are his widow, Hisel (Teter) Keister; four sons, Capt. Charles F. Keister, with the Marine Corps at Camp Lejeune, N. C.; Fred T. Keister, Hampton, N. H.; Ronald M. Keister, Bedford, and Samuel L. Keister, RFD 3, Bedford; two daughters, Mrs. John Hickey, Bedford, and Miss Glenna R. Keister, at home; three brothers, Harry E., Midlothian; John C., Star Route, Frostburg, and Russell E. Keister, Frostburg; a sister, Mrs. Ellsworth Crabtree, Oldtown, and six grandchildren.

The body is at the Kight Funeral Home where the family will receive friends from 2 to 4 p. m. and 7 to 9 p. m.

Local Girl Injured

Cathy Arnold, 12, of 1024 Harding Avenue, was admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital yesterday afternoon after being struck by a car on Shade's Lane.

The hospital said the girl was on her way home from school when the accident occurred. She was admitted to the hospital for X-rays and observation.

Thomas B. Finan Slated To Be Attorney General

Attorney General C. Ferdinand Sybert and Circuit Judge Charles C. Marbury yesterday were appointed by Governor Tawes to the Maryland Court of Appeals. The Governor took no immediate action to name a successor to Mr. Sybert, but it is understood the attorney general's post probably will go to Secretary of State Thomas B. Finan of Cumberland.

In addition to his duties as Secretary of State, Mr. Finan has been serving as chairman of the Maryland Democratic Party.

If Mr. Finan is appointed attorney general, he will become the first Allegany countian to hold a top state office since William C. Walsh served as attorney general. Mr. Walsh was elected in 1938 and again in 1942. He resigned in 1945.

Prior to that the late Hugh A. McMullen had been elected comptroller in 1915 and 1917.

Mr. Finan, a 46-year-old Cumberland attorney and former city solicitor, was the manager in Maryland counties for the statewide Democratic ticket in 1958.

He became secretary of state when Tawes took office in January, 1959, and has been one of the governor's closest advisors since then in addition to handling state party affairs.

The judgeships were created by the 1960 legislature in expanding the higl court from five to seven judges and were approved by voters Nov. 8. Both appointees will stand for election to 15 year terms in 1962.

Judge Marbury, a 61-year-old resident of Upper Marlboro, has been on the circuit court bench in Prince Georges County since his appointment by former Gov. Herbert O'Conor in 1941. He was elected twice to 15-year terms.

Judge Marbury will represent the new Southern Maryland 4th Appellate Circuit on the Court of Appeals. The circuit embraces Prince Georges, Charles, Calvert and St. Marys counties.

Mr. Sybert, 60, of Elkridge, will represent the 5th Appellate Circuit embracing Carroll, Howard and Anne Arundel counties.

Mr. Sybert has been attorney general, the state's top legal officer, since 1954, having been elected twice to that post. Previously he represented Howard County in the Maryland Legislature and was speaker of the House from 1947 to 1950 when he was elected to the Senate.

Tawes appointed both men from lists recommended to him by a State Bar Association committee.

The two new judges will be eligible to take their oaths after commissions are mailed to them by the governor. It is understood Sybert may require several weeks to clean up some pending business in the attorney general's office before going on the high court.

Ceiling Drops As Drain Clogs

The ceiling of one of the offices of the Allegany County Health Department in the County Building on Union Street was badly damaged yesterday by melting snow and ice.

The damage apparently was caused when ice and snow caused the drains a tthe top of the building to become clogged. Water then seeped into the building between the ceiling of the first floor and the floor of the second story.

Approximately a five-foot square area of the ceiling of the office used for medical care fell when the water weakened the plaster.

A light fixture in the ceiling also was damaged by the water and moisture also came into the office room along one of the outside walls.

No one was hurt when the section of the ceiling fell. Janitors at the building were busy most of the day cleaning up the damage.

Injured At Work

Noah Carder, Oldtown, an employe of the State Roads Commission, was admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital yesterday after suffering a mashed toe while at work.

$50,000 Damage Suit Moved To Allegany County

Pa. Woman Suing Hagerstown Man

A $50,000 damage suit, originally filed in Washington County Circuit Court, Hagerstown, has been moved to Allegany County Circuit Court.

Papers received at the Court House here indicate that Carrie Belle Palmer, Route 3, Greencastle, Pa., is suing Alvey R. Cook, Route 6, Hagerstown, as a result of injuries she sustained in a two-car accident May 20, 1959 in Hagerstown.

The declaration states that the plaintiff was operating her car south on West Side Avenue and was approaching the intersection of West Church Street.

About the same time a car driven by the defendant was traveling west on West Church Street. He failed to stop his car at a stop sign at the intersection, the declaration asserted.

Cook "carelessly and negligently" at an "excessive rate of speed" failed to stop at the sign and yield the right of way and allowed his car to strike the plaintiff's car, said the declaration.

The woman sustained severe injuries to her right arm, back, head and body and was seriously and permanently injured, according to the declaration, which pointed out that she incurred medical and hospital expenses.

The plaintiff is being represented by Ernest V. Wachs and Samuel C. Strite. Wagaman and Wagaman, Hagerstown attorneys, are representing Cook.

SRC Purchases Land

The State Roads Commission has purchased property on Avirett Avenue from Charles W. Harper and his wife, Leona R. Harper, 209 Avirett Avenue, according to a deed filed yesterday in the land records office of Allegany County Circuit Court.

Team Captains Are Cited In CUF Campaign

Pavement Pounders Awarded 'Cuffies'

The backbone of the successful 1960 County United Fund Campaign is the many men and women serving in all divisions in all CUF areas as team captains and CUF representatives, according to William E. Crooks, general campaign manager.

It is this dedicated group of faithful workers, he said, who literally "pound the pavements" soliciting pledges and contributions from the industrial worker, the construction worker, employes of service, retail and wholesale houses, of governmental units and offices, small and large businessmen and women, professional people, retired folks and corporations.

Team captains and workers were presented with "Cuffies" in recognition of their outstanding services at the CUF Honor Award Dinner held Monday at the snow-swept Shrine Country Club.

Receive Awards

Mr. Crooks awarded "Cuffies" to Robert Hunter Jr., Cumberland golden gifts team captain whose team was the first in this division to reach its goal exceeding it by 16.3 per cent; Cumberland golden gifts team captains William Durland and Lewis J. Ort; Golden Gifts workers Hudson Nix, H. Lee Silcox, Harry M. Snowden and Mrs. George Young; Cumberland Classified team captains Fred A. Sherlock Held For Action Of Garrett Jury

Early Trial Is Expected

A 38-year-old Angola, Ind., man was ordered held for action of the Garrett County grand jury during a preliminary hearing yesterday before Trial Magistrate Robert M. Maroney in Oakland.

John Sherlock, who is being held without bond in the county jail, is charged with the death of his mother, Mrs. Bridgett Sherlock, 58, who died Friday in Brownsville (Pa.) General Hospital of a fractured skull and lacerations of the liver.

Garrett County authorities said yesterday it is possible an early trial will be sought, explaining that the present grand jury can be recalled rather than wait for the March jury panel.

By yesterday evening Sherlock had not contacted anyone to represent him, according to W. Dwight Stover, state's attorney, who said that in all probability the court will name counsel for the accused man.

Fayette County (Pa.) authorities said the woman's injuries resulted from heavy blows inflicted by another person. Sherlock reportedly told police he had fought with his mother in a Garrett County motel on the day before she died.

He later changed his story and said his mother had fallen in a bathtub after taking pills for an epileptic attack.

Sherlock, his mother, and two young sons are said to have been returning to Angola from Norfolk, Va., when they stopped at the motel.

He and his sons were taken into custody when they refused to leave a rooming house in Brownsville where they had gone after Mrs. Sherlock was admitted to the hospital.

After their father waived extradition at a hearing Monday before Judge Edward Dumbauld in Fayette County Court, the two youngsters, aged 11 and 12, were turned over to the Garrett County Welfare Board to be placed temporarily in a foster home.

Luther Leagues Plan Pageant

Tree Lighting Ceremony Is Set Sunday

Fort Hill Choir Will Sing Carols

The City of Cumberland will officially usher in the Yuletide Sunday night at its Community Tree Lighting ceremony.

Final plans for the event were completed yesterday by the City Recreation Department.

Street Department crews were busy yesterday putting the final touches on the traditional Creche—the Christmas scene at the Greene Street entrance to Emmanuel Episcopal Church.

The tree lighting ceremony will begin Sunday at 9 p. m. in front of First Presbyterian Church on Washington Street.

Long To Officiate

John J. Long, commissioner of streets and public property, will be master of ceremonies and the newly organized Cumberland Community Band will play the prelude, "Christmas Overture."

Rev. Maurice D. Robertson, pastor of First Presbyterian Church, will give the invocation and a selection by the band, directed by L. F. Hahn, will follow.

Mayor J. Edwin Keech will turn on the lights of the community tree which is located on the grounds of Emmanuel Episcopal Church, site of old Fort Cumberland.

Choir To Sing

The Fort Hill High School, a cappella choir, directed by Miss Annetta Yates, will sing "Be Joyful, Be Merry," "Go Tell It in the Mountain" and "Snow Lay on the Ground."

A community sing will follow. It will be led by Miss Yates with music by the band.

Selections will be "Oh Come All Ye Faithful," "O Little Town of Bethlehem" and "Silent Night."

The service will close with the benediction by Rev. Arthur W. Bastress, assistant pastor of St. Patrick's Catholic Church.

Participants will be invited to the Girl Scout House for refreshments after the ceremony.

Members of Girl Scout Mariner Troop 20 will be hostesses at the Recreation Department sponsored event.

Richard Barley, chaplain; Charles Crawford, delegate to the executive board of the Allegany Garrett Volunteer Fireman's Association; Jack Beeman, alternate.

Delegates to the state and county conventions are Beeman, Kirk, Crawford, Raymond Small and Clayton Gillum.

Alternates are Golliday, Rev. Mr. Barley, Warren, Ayers and Ruppenkamp. The officers will be installed January 18 during a joint meeting of the volunteers and the auxiliary unit.

The meeting was originally scheduled for January 4 but was postponed due to the opening of the University of Maryland Fire School.

Lions To Sell Yule Trees In Cresaptown

The Potomac Valley Lions Club of Cresaptown will sell Christmas trees over the weekend in that community.

William Yoder and Robert Reinhart, co-chairmen of the project, said the fresh-cut nursery trees will be on sale Saturday from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m.; Sunday from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m.; and Monday from 1 p.m. to 6 p.m.

They said the trees will be located near Liller's Esso Service Station at the junction of McMullen Highway and the cutoff to U.S. Route 40.

Three Men Complete State Police School

Two young Cumberland men and a young man from Midland will graduate this afternoon in ceremonies at the Maryland State Police Academy in Pikesville.

They are Charles Ronald Twigg, 24, of 306 Piedmont Avenue; Thomas Edward McConnell, 24, of 534 Maryland Avenue, and Neil Wesley Alexander, 24, of Railroad Street, Midland.

The new troopers began the six-month training course of basic police studies on July 5 along with 41 other residents of the state.

Trooper Twigg is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Twigg, 32 Blackiston Avenue, and is married to the former Miss Leona Michaels.

He is a 1954 graduate of Fort Hill High School and served in the Marine Corps Reserve prior
